Truman Views World Crisis With Alarm

Washington, (AP)—President Truman called the world situation very grave yesterday. He said Congress' move to cut defense spending and the current labor-management disputes are right down Stalin's alley.

But the President added a flat prediction that World War Three will be avoided if Congress votes all he asks for the defense of this country and its allies, and if American industrial production can be kept at a high level.

Truman offered these serious thoughts in a generally good-humored news conference on his 68th birthday and the seventh anniversary of Germany's military collapse in World War Two.

With a robust grin, the President declared that he feels like a man of 28. And he said that once he leaves the White House next Jan. 20 he proposes to spend 10 years having a good time and doing just as he damn pleases.

Truman said he'd like to travel abroad, among other things.

Asked if he might visit Russian Premier Stalin as a private citizen, he replied that he would go nowhere and see nobody that might embarass the next President in his conduct of foreign policy.

Truman said he had no intention at this time of throwing his support behind any one of the Democrats who hope to succeed him. But he added that, as an American citizen, he doesn't propose to gag himself if he does decide to express a preference.

He told newsmen, too, they could be sure the Democratic platform would be based on his Jefferson-Jackson day dinner address and would be a good one.

Truman wouldn't talk about the steel situation, saying that's before the Supreme Court. The court is to hear opening arguments next Monday on the constitutionality of his seizure of the steel industry.

He said he is working very hard to get a settlement of the oil strike and is hopeful of early success. At this time, he said, no consideration is being given to use of the Taft-Hartley act in the oil dispute.

Gross Calls More Cops 'Grafters'

New York (AP)—Two more of ex-mayor William O'Dwyer's "honest" police brass were labeled grafters yesterday by boss bookie Harry Gross.

They were former Chief Inspector August Flath and former Chief of Detectives William Whalen.

"Honest as the day is long" O'Dwyer called Flath, Whalen and former Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien in the midst of the probe of Gross' 20-million-dollar-a-year gambling ring.

O'Brien was named yesterday by Gross as sharing in the bookie's million-dollar-a-year protection payoffs when O'Brien was inspector. O'Brien called the accusation a lie.

"These are vicious, base lies," Flath said of Gross' testimony, "and I wish to state categorically that I have never met with this man, nor received anything from him in my whole life."

Under cross examination, Gross testified that some high names he originally gave Brooklyn authorities are still a secret to this day. He said:

"I gave testimony of names much higher than these. Perhaps . . . someone was paid a piece of change."

The long-silent Gross, who broke up an earlier police trial by his stubborn silence, has been singing at the top of his voice for the past two days at the departmental trial of five policemen.

He has identified more than 100 cops he said took his crooked money—from beat patrolmen right up to the former top brass of the world's biggest police force.

Three Veteran Staff Members To Retire At Close Of College Term; Successors Chosen

Dr. Joseph F. Noonan, president of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, yesterday announced the approval by the Board of Trustees of retirement from active teaching and administrative duty for three of the college's employes.

Retiring from active teaching and supervisory duties are Dr. Charles J. Naegle, dean of instruction; Dr. Thomas J. Breitwieser, director of teacher training and placement, and A. L. Helmes, business manager for the college.

Succeeding Dr. Naegle as dean of instruction will be Dr. Theodore N. Moore.

Dr. Breitwieser's position as director of teacher training and placement has been assigned to Dr. Nathan G. Meyer.

Mrs. Helmes' successor will be Melvin Schissler, formerly of Lehigh University in Bethlehem.

Announcement of all three appointments was made simultaneously with the notices of retirement by Dr. Noonan's office.

Dr. Naegle's retirement comes as a climax to 32 years of service to the college. He came to the then East Stroudsburg State Normal School in September, 1920 as director of teacher training.

Prior to his appointment here he had served as principal of the high schools in Kane and Meadville, Pa.; supervising principal of the Sauquoit, N. Y. public schools and the city superintendency at Corry, Pa.

After two years as director of teacher training with the local college he was appointed to the position of director of extension work from East Stroudsburg State Normal School. During the years he held this post he traveled extensively in Northeastern Pennsylvania, in addition to teaching education and administration courses on the campus.

In 1933, upon retirement of A. D. Wannemaker, Dr. Naegle was appointed dean of instruction, a post which he has held since that time.

Dr. Naegle has been extremely active in community life throughout the 40 years of his academic career, having been, at one time or another, president of the Stroudsburg Rotary, chairman of the Community Chest budget, and district chairman of the Boy Scouts of America.

He now serves as chairman of the Board of Trustees, East Stroudsburg Methodist Church; a director of the Keystone Building and Loan Association; a member of the advisory board to the Salvation Army and national representative of the Boy Scouts of America from this area.

Dr. Naegle holds degrees in public school and college administration from three universities. He earned his Ph. B. and A.B. degrees at Syracuse University; an A.M. from Columbia and a Ph. D from New York University.

Of the more than 10,000 students who have been graduated from the college, Dean Naegle has personally seen more than 7,000 receive their degrees.

Included among these 7,000 have been his own son and daughter, The son, Lester now lives in Succasunna, N. J. The daughter, Mrs. James Morgan, now makes her home in East Stroudsburg.

Dr. Breitwieser came to the college (which has been accredited as a State Teachers College in that year) in 1926, having perviously taught in the public schools in Tipton county, Indiana; a teachers college at Terre Haute, Ind., and a number of years as dean of faculty at Ball State Teachers College in Muncie, Ind.

He was named to the position of director of the East Stroudsburg Laboratory School in 1926. Fourteen years later, in 1940, he became Director of Teacher Training and Placement, his present assignment.

Dr. Breitwieser began teaching in 1904. He received his A.B., Masters and Ph.D. degrees from Indiana University, Bloomington and did graduate study work at both Columbia and N.Y.U.

He is a past president of the Kiwanis Club; president of the East Stroudsburg National Bank; president of the Keystone Building and Loan Association; member of the board of trustees, East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church; a director of the General Hospital board; and is active in the work of both the Children's Aid Society and the Monroe County Crippled Children's Association.

In the past Dr. Breitwieser has served on the board of directors of the Chamber of Com-

Army Reveals Details Of Atomic Artillery Weapon

New York, (AP)—The Army boldly claimed last night its first atomic artillery weapon can "hit its target under any weather conditions and give ground troops the kind of devastating close support never before available in warfare."

Secretary Frank Pace, in an address laying heavy emphasis on the Army's importance in atomic warfare, revealed for the first time some official specifications on the atomic gun, which has been tested with non-atomic ammunition. He said:

"It is essentially an artillery piece—but with immeasurably greater power than any artillery hitherto known.

"Carried on a platform suspended between two engine cabs at front and rear, this highly mobile weapon can travel at a speed of about 35 miles per hour on highways. Weighing about 75 tons, it can cross bridges which Army engineers are already trained to build for present heavy divisional equipment. It can travel cross-country, fit into a landing ship designed for amphibious operations. It can fire with accuracy comparable to conventional artillery and tests indicate it is much more accurate at long ranges."

Speaking at a convention of the National Wood Manufacturers Association, Pace said that in addition to "tactical" atomic bombs for use by aircraft, there is being developed atomic artillery which can outrange the gun-type weapon—"guided missiles and rockets to receive atomic warheads." Units have been training for the use of such weapons and the program is being increased, Pace said.

Baby Tumbles Into Running Washing Machine

Evansville, Ind. (AP)—A 22-month-old boy died yesterday in the tub of a running washing machine.

Coroner Herman T. Combs said he had not determined whether the boy drowned or was beaten to death by the agitator.

The mother, Mrs. Edward T. Whitner, said the boy, Teddy, apparently had tumbled into the tub from a chair onto which he had climbed. She was in the yard hanging up clothes at the time.

Dealer Loses Little Time In Relaxing Curbs

Los Angeles (AP)—A used car dealer who calls himself "the one and only Honest John" observed the relaxing of credit controls by advertising yesterday:

"Cad. '52 convert. $3695. 5 years to pay."

Chicago (AP)—Ross D. Siragusa, president of Admiral Corp., said yesterday the Federal Reserve Board's action in lifting credit controls "should act as a powerful medicine to improve the general health of the appliance business."

House Approves Fair Trade Bill

Washington, (AP)—Legislation to give Federal sanction to state laws allowing price-fixing on trademarked goods was passed yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

Passage was by standing vote of 196 to 10.

Known as the "Fair Trade" bill and sponsored by Rep. McGuire (D-Conn) with House Commerce Committee backing, the bill permits fair trade laws of 45 states to be enformed against non-signers of pricing agreements between retailers and distributors or manufacturers.

These agreements generally provide for a retail sales price below which an article may not be sold. Enforcement is through civil suits for damages.

Red Casualties Rise

Washington, (AP)—The Army yesterday estimated total enemy military casualties in Korea at 1,683,545 through April 29. This represented an increase of 17,476 in the last two weeks.

Pension Bills Pass

Truce Talks Beclouded By Dodd Seizure

Munsan, Korea, Friday (AP)—Korean truce talks, near collapse over prisoner exchange, were clouded further today with the seizure of Bridg. Gen. Francis T. Dodd by Red war prisoners on Koje Island.

The meeting at Panmunjom today lasted only 10 minutes. Another meeting was called for tomorrow.

Communist negotiators are already angry over the large number of Allied-held prisoners who won't return to Red soil. They are expected to use the incident for new charges that the Allies mistreat prisoners.

The news that Dodd, Koje Island commander, was seized Wednesday reached here at a time when the negotiating atmosphere was electric and no new sparks were needed. Dodd still is held hostage.

A U. N. Command spokesman declined comment on what use he thought the Red truce negotiators would make of Dodd's seizure.

Communist delegates Thursday accused the Allies of refusing to negotiate on the crucial issue of prisoner exchange.

Yet they brushed aside a second United Nations Command request for an indefinite recess and called for another session today.

As the tenth month of negotiations ends today, U. N. negotiators were leaving no room for Communist haggling over the prisoner issue.

The U. N. delegates were committed to a stand of no retreat from the principle that captives in Allied hands never will be forced to return to Red rule against their wishes.

Allied delegates were fortified by statements of full support from President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson and high government officials of Britain and Canada.

The U. N. offered to return 70,000 prisoners who said they would go to Communist territory without being forced. But about 60,000 Chinese and North Korean soldiers declared they would rather die than return to Communist soil.

U. S. Agrees To Pay Truckers For FDR Seizure

Washington (AP) — The government agreed yesterday to pay 8½ million dollars to settle claims of six times that amount growing out of its World War Two seizure of the trucking industry in the Midwest.

The Justice Department, which made the announcement, said this will "completely discharge" the damage claims filed by 91 trucking firms as a result of the 1944 seizure of their lines by President Roosevelt.

The seizure, ordered because of a strike over wage demands, was in effect for a year. The companies' claims for reimbursement for use of their equipment and for a wage increase granted by the government after seizure have been in controversy ever since.

Washington (AP)— The personal papers of the late Harold L. Ickes, including letters and speeches written over a 44-year period, have been given to the Library of Congress by Mrs. Ickes.

4% Pay Hike In Store For Servicemen

Washington (AP) — A four per cent pay increase for all persons in the nation's armed services was agreed upon yesterday as a congressional compromise. It would cost the government nearly half a billion dollars a year.

Termed a "cost of living" boost, the measure would raise the pay of 3½ million persons in the Army, Air Force, Navy, Marines and four smaller uniformed services.

It would also boost food and rent allowances 14 per cent for every one from private to general.

Both the House and Senate must approve the compromise and President Truman must sign it before it becomes effective.

Dropped from the measure was a Senate proposal of $45 a month extra combat pay for front-line troops in Korea.

Taft Differs With Ike On Foreign Aid

Washington, (AP)—Two leading contenders for the Republican presidential nomination split sharply yesterday over the size of the foreign aid program needed to guarantee American security during the next 12 months.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said congressional proposals to cut foreign aid by one billion dollars would be "heavily and seriously felt" and that cuts substantially beyond that point might endanger U. S. security.

"I do not at all agree," Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio declared at a Hartford, Conn., news conference when informed of Eisenhower's statement.

The senator said a cut of even two billion dollars, bringing mutual security spending down to about six billion for the next fiscal year, "would in no way endanger the program or the security of the United States."

Eisenhower, commander of the North Atlantic Treaty forces, said his statement about aid funds was based on the assumption that the financial computation on President Truman's $7,900,000,000 foreign aid bill have been "competently made on the basis of our military requirements."

Complaint Filed Against Debellis

Philadelphia (AP)—The U.S. Department of Labor yesterday filed a civil complaint in federal district court against Philip P. Debellis of Roseto, Pa., on charges of violating the Fair Labor Standards Act.

The department said Debellis, owner of the Lorraine Manufacturing Co., Northampton, Pa., paid less than the minimum wage an hour, failed to pay proper overtime, employed a person under 16 years old and moved these illegally produced goods in interstate commerce.

Charges Dismissed

Waynesburg (AP) — Charges against three Waynesburg College students who were arrested on charges of polluting water after taking a swim in the community reservoir were dropped at a hearing last night.

Ridgway Orders Use Of Force To Free U.S. General

Pusan, Korea, Friday (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway has ordered the U. S. Eighth Army "to take whatever action is required and to use whatever force is necessary" to free Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd, a hostage of Communist prisoners of War on Koje Island for more than two days.

The Red prisoners today continued to ignore an Army demand for his release.

Dodd, who was sent to Koje several months ago to tighten up control of the stormy prison compounds, was seized Wednesday by hothead Communist prisoners.

He was reported well. Apparently Dodd was attempting to negotiate his own release.

Eighth Army Headquarters said at 9:30 a.m. (8:30 p.m., EDT, Thursday) that messages from Dodd were being received by telephone from the Communist compound on Koje.

It said American-cooked meals were being passed to the general through the compound gates. Prisoners in the compound were quiet last night, headquarters added.

Ridgway, who leaves Tokyo Monday to become supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe, called the seizure of Dodd a flagrant disregard of authority.

He said the United Nations Command had given the Communist prisoners fair treatment and would continue to do so.

He gave his stern orders to Gen James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, last night before ending his farewell visit to Korea.

Ridgway said the Red prisoners had made no ransom demands.

Another officer was seized but escaped in an unexplained manner.

Brig. Gen. Charles F. Colson, who took over as commander of the Southeast Korean Island stockade when Red prisoners seized Dodd, demanded release of the general.

Dodd last night requested that a hospital representative and 1,000 sheets of paper be sent into the compound. The reason for the request was not disclosed—other than it had been demanded by the prisoners.

The Second Logistical Command in Seoul, which is in close contact with Pusan and Koje, said that Colson had not sent the men or paper into the compound. The command added, tersely:

"They have at the gates 1,000 sheets of paper which the POWs demanded last night. The paper was not delivered to the POWs."

The command said Dodd "is all right and is being treated fine." It said "he feels strongly that a meeting this morning may be the final meeting."

The reference apparently was to Dodd's efforts to obtain his own release.

Denationalization Measure Offered

London, (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative government took the first step yesterday toward returning a big slice of the British trucking industry to private ownership.

It published this trucking scheme as the first of two slated denationalization measures. An iron and steel denationalization bill is scheduled to come along later.

Laborites have given notice they will fight both measures tooth and nail in Parliament. Strong trade union groups lined up against the proposed legislation.

Allies Turn Red Base Into Flaming Ruin

Seoul, (AP)—Allied war planes yesterday turned a big North Korea base into flaming ruin with the mightiest air blow of the entire Korean War, the Fifth Air Force said.

The base that felt the fury of Allied air power was Suan, a big supply complex 35 miles southeast of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital. It covers eight square miles.

The first F-80 Shooting Star flashed over Suan as the sun broke over the surrounding hills, let go with demolition bombs, and from then on until sundown the defenders of Suan knew no peace.

The Air Force, in calling this the biggest single attack of the war, said wave on wave of jet fighter-bombers and prop-driven Mustangs, and Corsairs, Skyraiders and Panther Jets of the attached 1st Marine Air Wing thundered over.

Court Upholds Real Estate Transfer Tax

Harrisburg, (AP)—The Dauphin County Court yesterday upheld the constitutionality of the 1951 act imposing a one per cent tax on real estate transfers in Pennsylvania.

Judge Karl E. Richards handed down the court's decision in a suit seeking to declare the levy invalid.

The tax was part of a package passed by the 1951 Legislature to raise 113 million dollars in new revenue during the next two years. The levy was estimated to yield 20 million dollars.

The court dismissed the suit brought by the Morris Amusement Co. and Lawrence Tornetta, both of Norristown.

In their suit against the tax, the complainants asserted that the act was unconstitutional because it violates a section of the Constitution requiring that all taxes be unifrom.

They said a provision exempting real estate transfers between parent and child, and husband and wife from payment of the tax is discriminatory.

Aviation Gasoline Delivery Limited

Washington (AP) — The government yesterday forbade the delivery of aviation gasoline to resellers or consumers who have as much as a three-day supply on hand.

Secretary of the Interior Chapman, who took the action, said it was "a further move to conserve scarce supplies" because of the nation-wide strike of oilworkers which has affected roughly one third of the industry. Chapman acted in his capacity as petroleum administrator for defense.

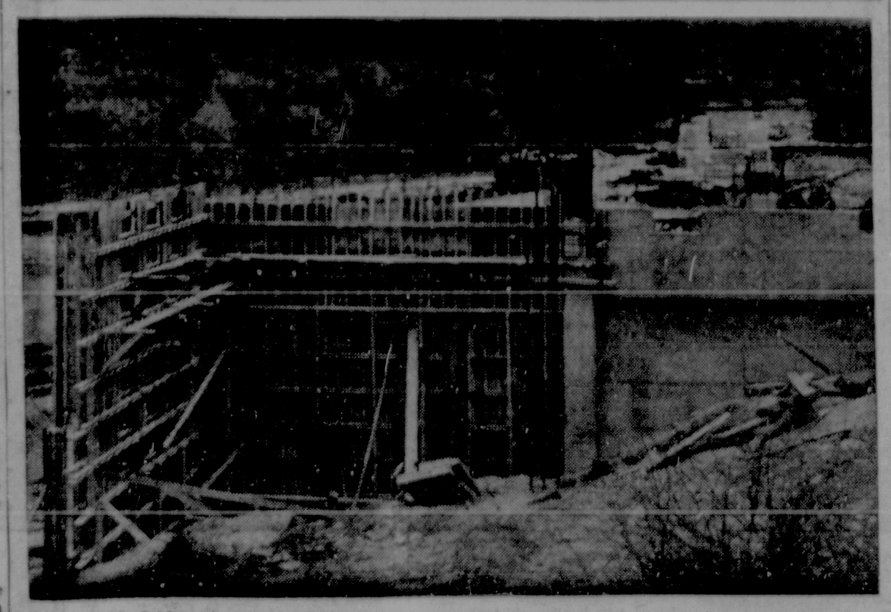

The order provides that when a consumer's or re-seller's supply falls below the three-day level, he may get a delivery in his customary quantity, even though this raises his inventory above the three-day limit.

Record Writer Discovers United States Has Become Music Center Of World

Editor's Note: Following is the 32rd in a series of reports from Britain and Europe by Ruth Haller Ottaway, mother of James H. Ottaway, publisher of The Daily Record. The writer is an experienced journalist and traveler and her reports from abroad in recent years have received a favorable reception by Record readers.

By Ruth Haller Ottaway

London—An overall picture of musical conditions in France and England gives radio the center of interest. This statement may be surprising coming from the professional ilk who might be expected to damn radio and its overwhelming amount of jazz as against the classics. We do have a justifiable wail against crooners (where is the American man who makes love like that?), against sweet and swing music, tunes that are all alike, and sheer, ear-splitting noise. But we appreciate our finest jazz bands whose players are among the world's most skilful, and whose music is orchestration at its cleverest. American jazz has spread all over Europe, is at its height in Paris, and in London we frequently found the best-trained musicians playing jazz marvelously. But, strangely enough, for the performance of the best music of the past and also of experimental and modern music, we have the radio of France and England to thank.

Mrs. Ottaway

The BBC has a so-called Third Program, loftily indifferent to popular appeal, which plays both classic and modern music unabridged, and as regular features presents poetry hours and lectures on the arts and sciences. It means as much to the English people as Oxford and Cambridge as a cultural heritage. Sir William Haley, the director-general, says, "Let it enable the intelligent public to hear the best that has been said or thought or composed in the world."

Government subsidized, but run independently, as is the BBC, the keen and versatile author-composer, Henri Barraud, has made the Radiodiffusion famous for its presentation of new musical works by its fine Nationale and Symphonique orchestras. In both France and England the regular symphony orchestras are forced by the public and the box-office to keep on playing the old and the familiar. The men must subsist. The orchestras must survive. The radio orchestras rehearse and play the year around, and therefore are the best. Quite different is the picture in our country with our ability to finance our fine orchestras with good rehearsal time and longer seasons.

You do not need to be a musical expert to enjoy music festivals, and you will find many awaiting you. A grea stir is being made in Paris in preparation for the great Festival of Music and the Arts, a propaganda move to show Soviet Russia that the Western World is not entirely concerned with "monopoly and war-mongering." The Boston Symphony Orchestra will play. "The Four Saints in Three Acts" by Gertrude Stein and Virgil Thomson with an entire cast of American Negroes will demonstrate the progress of that race in America. Offerings from many countries will make it an exciting event. In fact, France is full of music festivals, too full, says the Government official who doles out the subsidies. The Pablo Casals (famed and venerated world's finest 'cellist) Festival at Prades in Southern France is the mecca of Americans.

The Edinborough Festival has become a great institution. Last summer the New York Philharmonic played there, and this year from August 17 to September 6 other superb organizations and artists will perform.

The United States has become unquestionably the music center of the world, a fact which naturally irks both England and France. In London this Spring a series of "internationally famous" artists' series are all either naturalized or born Americans. A subconscious resentment probably dictates a stingy criticism of our orchestras and performances. The Philharmonic might have been better. The Philadelphia Orchestra lacked suavity (its chief asset). The pundits find nothing entirely admirable in their often too-heavy writing. From the London Times: "The tenor soloist spoiled his eloquent declamation by breathy articulation—he continuously broke melismatic phrases with puffs of incipient aspirates." Poor dentures?

Why not stop with the intelligible word "eloquent?"

France thinks ill of its artists who have become American citizens and live in the United States (the violinist, Francescatti, the pianist, Casadesus, etc.). "They do not play for us any more."

To add insult to injury, our GIs at Fort Lewis in Seattle, Wash., have a bag-pipe band which wear the Kilts reserved for hundreds of years for the Royal Stewarts!

"To him that hath, it shall be given." Do we realize how rich we are in the best that the world affords musically and otherwise?

Boy Charged With Slaying School Chum

Harrisburg (AP) — Fourteen-year-old John Sarver 2nd, was charged with murder yesterday in the rifle-knife death of a 10-year-old junior high school classmate.

Alderman J. L. Madden issued a warrant charging young Sarver with "feloniously, wilfully and of his malice aforethought" killing Kenneth E. Teacher while they were rifle target shooting late Monday.

Dist. Att. Nuette F. Dowling said after questioning the Sarver boy Tuesday that he admitted to accidentally shooting the Teacher boy, but became scared and cut through the rifle wound with a machete "partly to conceal the wound and partly to hide the crime."

The murder charge was filed by County Detective Harry Farina, who later served the warrant on the Sarver boy at the Dauphin County Children's Detention home. The boy has been detained there since he was taken into custody on Tuesday.

The Teacher boy's body was found early Tuesday morning in a wooded area on the outskirts of Harrisburg. It ended a frantic six-hour search for him.

Stroudsburg, Pa.
Gentlemen:

I read with interest today, your story of the SPCA in Monroe County. As a former resident of Greater New York City where the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has various shelters and hospitals for the care of strays, unwanted or sick animals, whether dog, cat, monkey or even snake, I am quite familiar with their set-up.

Just before coming to East Stroudsburg as a resident, we had a dog over thirteen years old. I had a tumor removed from his hind leg by a "vet" at a cost of $50 for the operation and hospitalization. He never quite recovered and developed a skin ailment shortly after. When I took him to the ASPCA hospital, they advised me to have him put to sleep because of his age and other infirmities. Reluctantly, I agreed. I cannot understand any owner of a dog, or other animal, asking to have its faithful pet put to sleep, unless it has reached a point where it is incapable of living without being in pain, unable to walk, or some other real reason for this act. Perhaps by the time its owners reach old age, some law will be in effect to put them to sleep also. The fee for the job could be donated to the SPCA; a worthwhile project.

However, I am not surprised by the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Young often get such requests. I have heard dog owners speak of putting their pets to sleep as though they were bestowing a gift upon the animal for his faithfulness in living in a cold dog-house throughout the bitter, cold days and nights of Winter when we ourselves stay indoors when the temperature goes below zero. In addition, he has been thoughtful enough to bark at intruders, protecting their property. They do not even deign to notice him as they pass in and out of their warm homes. Yes, they do give him a little food in a dirty pan and some water which immediately freezes into a solid mass of ice!

Well, perhaps we are "soft" but a little mongrel attached himself to us about 1½ years ago. He's homely, has an appetite like a horse, covers us with dog hair, and has no pedigree to recommend him; only a long tongue full of love. I wouldn't think of leaving him outdoors, but he will run loose for hours if he gets a chance to, always coming back at mealtime. But that's no reason to put him to sleep. We also have a cat which will be fourteen years old very soon.

In New York City, the fee for a license was $3 for the first time; $2 thereafter. I believe it has now been raised to $3 per annum. If I am not mistaken, this fee goes to the ASPCA which keeps the records and sends out a postal prior to the due date. The previous license card (bearing the number) is returned with the annual fee, following which the new card and tag are sent to the owner. For visits to their hospitals, and care they request a donation. If a dog is picked up, it may be reclaimed by payment of the license fee. Previously, strays were put to sleep but under the new Hatch Bill, which I think is a hateful thing, they may be sent out for medical research use. In Nassau County, where we lived several years ago, the fee was $3 for males; $5 for females.

It's too late this year but couldn't they add a dollar to the license fee for the benefit of the SPCA? The poor Commonwealth wouldn't lose its $1.10 and the SPCA could do a lot with the other one dollar. Or would this added expense for the dog which helps you hunt, protects your property, or just plain loves you and your children be too much of a strain on the yearly budget?

Very truly yours,
Edwina J. Knapp

These School Districts

There are more than 100,000 local governments, of all kinds, in the United States. And most of them are school districts.

That's a brief statement of one of the tough problems of self-government—how to set up and operate your own school system, give the kids the kind of schooling they should have and still not tax the daylights out of the property owners.

Of the 119,464 state and local governments in the U.S. tabulated by the American Municipal Association, no less than 70,452 are school districts. Which indicates the tenacity with which people hold on to the idea of home rule in education.

Pennsylvania is no exception. A good share of these local governments, and school districts are here. Neither is Monroe County, which has 41 local governments, of which 20 are school districts.

The trobule with small school districts is that many of them are too small for effective administration and proper teaching. Shifts of population may either swamp the school system or leave empty seats in expensive buildings. Costs are high because what the citizens spend can't be spread very far.

There's some evidence that this is being changed. Ten years ago the U.S. had 108,579 school districts, since reduced to 70,452—a decrease of 35.1 per cent.

Here in Monroe County, a number of districts either have gone in with neighboring districts in new school "jointures", or are considering such jointures. There has been only one proposal for possible merger—that between the county's two largest school systems.

The reason for all of this, as stated some time ago by the Pennsylvania Economy League:

"There is no logic in the boundry lines of the average Pennsylvania school district. The districts have been shaped by tradition and by successive political accidents. They bear little relation to the attendance areas that form the natural basis for school administration."

Pennsylvania school districts can merge on either of two plans. They can form a joint school district, in which each district retains its own identity and the school systems are merged, or a union school district, which makes one district out of two or more.

Many mergers were brought about throughout Pennsylvania by successive years of planning. But there's still a lot to be done along this line.

The financial benefits of such mergers are great, enabling better education at less cost. The educational benefits are just as large, particularly when they enable several small communities to operate high schools larger and with better teaching facilities than any one of them could provide.

Spellbound

School officials in Los Angeles are trying to decide whether to throw away 155,000 report cards because the "u" got where the "a" should have been in the word "language" (lunguage).

Seems as thougfl things like this are always happening to report cards. Just the other day our seven-year-old was explaining how the "d" got where the "a" should have been in "spelling."

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

Hollywood Meets A Crisis

For many years those who managed the motion picture industry took the position that they were not concerned with the politics of those engaged in the industry; that the only criterion of employment was talent. In 1947, this question became a national issue because of the appearance of "friendly" and "unfriendly" witnesses before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, some of the unfriendly ones going to prison for contempt. It became clear during those hearings that Communists had infiltrated the industry.

The motion picture companies met at the Waldorf-Astoria where decisions were made not to employ known Communists or those who took advantage of the Fifth Amendment to avoid admitting that they were Communists. This placed the industry in an awkward position legally.

On the other hand, voluntary groups of citizens, acting independently of each other, not only picketed theaters, but also, by word of mouth, denounced certain motion pictures and their personalities. There is no way of combatting such movements of the people, as no one can be forced to spend his money in a theater.

The top management of the industry, faced by these facts, were compelled to meet this problem by practical measures. Obviously, the presence of Communists, pro-Communists, fellow-travelers and opportunists, who had made bad records for themselves, was encountering a sales resistance.

The industry organized to combat criticism, but most efforts failed because the records of the individuals criticized could only be voided by themselves and their own subsequent conduct.

Beginning last summer, a series of meetings between some motion picture producers and a few active anti-Communists resulted in a formula which is now being tried with a surprising measure of success. This formula may be stated as follows:

1. As long as such organizations of the people as the American Legion, the Catholic War Veterns, etc., take a definite position on the employment of Communists, pro-Communists, etc. in the motion picture industry, a picture in which they appear is defective and bad business;

2. No person can clear another of the taint of being favorably disposed to our national enemy, Soviet Russia. Only the person himself, who made the record, can unmake it, by a frank statement of the facts of the relationship;

3. It is not necessary for such a person to hire anyone to clear him; all that needs to be done is for him to look at his already reported record and to write a letfer to his employer stating the facts as he knows or believes them to be;

4. Such letters are circulated, at first confidentially, and after criticism for the record, among those most active in their opposition to the employment of Communists in motion pictures.

This formula has encountered less resistance than had been anticipated. First tried out by Columbia, it is now in full force at Twentieth Century-Fox and M. G. M. Warner Brothers, R. K. O., and Republic have programs of their own which have been effective.

The simple method of self-confession is more realistic and to the point for so large a number of persons, many of whom have truthful explanations for their acts; some are obviously innocent of bad intent.

The enthusiastic and active cooperation of top management was not anticipated. Thus far, each of the companies adopting the program has used its own methods. The task is not easy because often involved are contractual relations, prospective lawsuits to which the Communists always resort, and loss of revenue on pictures already made. Nevertheless, the program of meetinlg these problems continues in a day-by-day fashion. There is no reason why any motion picture, radio or television company, any more than any other American enterprise, should employ a known Communist.

Try And Stop Me

Gene Tunney tells the story of the old heavyweight champ who dreamed up the notion of adding to his income by giving boxing lessons, but abandoned the project after one half-hour session. "It's like this," explained the champ. "A shrimp from Wall Street with a lot of money but no muscle comes to me and says he wants to learn enough boxing so he can knock the daylights out of an enemy he's got. I try not to hurt the shrimp—in fact, I don't think I ever hit him once—but an hour after the first lesson he calls me up to say, 'If it's all the same to you, I'll just send down my enemy to take the rest of the course for me'."

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—Assuming that a Republican is elected President next November, General Omar Bradley is slated to be fired as the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and to be replaced by General Alfred M. Gruenther.

Gruenther now is Chief of Staff to General Dwight Eisenhower and will retain that post for at least six months after General Matthew B. Ridgway succeeds "Ike" next month. But that's about as long as it will last.

Eisenhower already has promised Gruenther that as far as he's concerned, Gruenther will be the next chairman of the Joint Chiefs. Several important members of the United States Senate have told him the same thing.

Again assuming that the Republican nominee wins the election (and I'm assuming for the sake of argument, not prediction) Gruenther can hardly miss getting the job.

If Eisenhower gets the GOP nomination and wins in November, it will be a mere matter of picking up the telephone and ordering Gruenther to Washington. If Senator Robert A. Taft wins it, Gruenther still has the inside track.

Taft already has said that among his first official acts, if he is elected, will be to fire Bradley. Few voices were raised in protest in the Senate as a result of that statement. Bradley has not endeared himself to the Senators as a whole. His devotion is almost wholly to President Truman.

During the hearings on Gen. MacArthur's ousting as Supreme Commander in the Far East, Bradley was less than frank with the Senators. He refused to discuss a number of issues, stating that he would not violate any Presidential confidences.

Under ordianry circumstances no one in the Senate expects military leaders to publicly relate conversations with the President, but in the case of MacArthur's firing the Senate was seeking information relating to the political pressures that led to the White House decision. It has long been understood in Washington that left-wingers worked for years to get MacArthur out of Japan. The Communists have picked Japan as their next target for control of Asia.

Bradley also played it coy over Korea. He defied Congress when efforts were made to determine just who had ordered U. S. troops into Korea and why those forces were shackled with restrictive limitations on military targets. Bradley played this one politically, too, in a misguided effort to protect the White House. Thus, few will decry his fate if he is a victim of politics when Mr. Truman vacates the White House.

Gruenther was the choice of most members of the Senate for the job Mr. Truman gave to Ridgway. He was also Eisenhower's choice, but none of his supporters tried to exert much pressure on the White House, because they had to admit that Ridgway is a pretty good man, too. Furthermore, they concluded that eight months is not too long to wait for a reward in lieu of Eisenhower's job.

Gruenther would bring to the Joint Chiefs of Staff what it sorely needs—a devotion to military strategy instead of politics. He is a student of strategy, having devoted virtually all of his army life to military planning. He has been close to Eisenhower for a number of years, although his reputation was made long before Eisenhower rose to prominence. He undoubtedly would give the Joint Chiefs the spark of life it has lost under the politically-minded Bradley.

Ridgway is a protege of former Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall. Marshall managed Ridgway's initial assignment to Korea with the expectation that eventually he would replace MacArthur. Although Marshall has been out of the country recently, apparently vacationing in Mexico, he keeps in touch with Mr. Truman via long distance telephone.

Gruenther's appointment as the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff possibly could be blocked by Air Force or Navy insistence that one of its ranking officers get the job. There is a theory that the chairmanship should be rotated among the Services, but Air Force and Navy brass isn't likely to argue too robustly over the wishes of a new President in this direction.

My New York

—By Mel Heimer

New York—I do not know how things are going in your home town, so far as the mailing or receiving of letters is concerned, but I would like to point out somewhat sadly that there is a new kind of parlor joke being enjoyed in Manhattan these evenings. It consists of everybody putting on their hats and coats and taking a bus or cab up to the main post office, at 33rd street and Eighth avenue, and then looking up at the facade of that block-long building and, like little Audrey, laughing and laughing and laughing. This is what they see:

"Not snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

This is, technically, the motto of the United States Postal Service, an organization of some years' standing which is said to specialize in the receipt and delivery of post cards, letters, packages and messages to Santa Claus. It may need some small translation, but if you break it down to modern English usage, what it means is: Jack nothing, but nothing, keeps our pavement pounders from bringing you the postal loot each a. m. on the button.

There is only one thing wrong with the motto, actually — and that is that it is just ever so teentsy-weentsy out of date. There was a time, especially in this progressive, all-new, streamlined metropolis, when a postman would virtually cut off his flat feet if it meant getting a letter, even just a bill (particularly a bill, I used to think), to you on time.

Some sly propagandist, a long time ago, impressed it on the post office people that it was the thing to do to get the mail to the citizenry on schedule. You would be surprised how many mailmen, in the old days, had their hair lifted by stray Indians or their ribs puctured by arrows because the silly souls operating the Pony Express kept drumming it into their heads that the mail had to go through.

I can report truthfully that in the last couple of years here in New York, the mail people have seen the error of their foolish ways and have taken off their shoes and relaxed.

This realistic attitude seems to stem directly from the time when it was ordered that only one mail delivery a day be made instead of two; now, reliable word has it, the boys have been sitting around behind the windows lately and pondering—why deliver at all? They argue, what is the sense? So you get a letter. So tomorrow the atom bomb destroys us all. Live in blissful ignorance until the end comes. Mail—who wants mail?

It has taken me a little while to adjust to this new way of life, because I come from something of a postal family. My father was a postal official and both of my brothers were special - delivery messengers at night during their high school days. As I recall there were only two things sacred to the Heimer family in those formative years of mine — the New York Giants and the United States Mail. Either was beyond reproach and to be defended to the death.

I have been coming around to the scheme of things, however; indeed, now when I want to get rid of an unpleasant character on the telephone, I just ask him politely to send me a note about what he has in mind. I know the note never will reach me, or will turn up in, say, three months, when the convertible he wants to sell me has become kind of impractical because the snow already is flying.

Now, this all may sound as if I am making things up, but I even have chapter and verse at hand.

The other day, a press agent named Carl Cooper, who lives in Brooklyn like all press agents, mailed a letter to his bank. He dropped the letter into a mailbox at Broadway and 49th street, Manhattan. It was headed for a bank just seven blocks away.

The letter turned up at the bank just five days later. It was addressed correctly, franked so no stamp was needed and otherwise completely kosher. It traveled the seven blocks at the rate of a block and a half each day, which, I guess, is about par for the course these months.

Katie White's husband down in Savannah, Ga., certainly got the surprise of his life when he came home for supper.

When he arrived at the house she told him that, while waiting for him she had fallen in love with another man and had filed annulment papers.

Oh, I forgot to tell you that Katie's husband had left his home forty-seven years earlier.

You can't really blame any woman for not waiting that long in the kitchen.

This marriage business is certainly something that is difficult to understand.

For two people who get along as well as can be expected — which, I presume, is about the average—it is a rather simple affair.

They get married, each does his ordinary share of love, companionship and routine, and they never go in much for analyzing what it's all about.

But to others, marriage seems to be an awesome problem.

However, I have found that most of those to whom marriage IS a problem are really "problem children" themselves.

They dramatize themselves and everything that concerns them.

They seem to have an enormously exaggerated idea of their own importance in the general scheme of things.

Just the other day a woman complained to me that her husband didn't tell her often enough that he loves her.

"A woman wants to be TOLD that her husband still thinks as much of her as he did when he married her," she said.

A few days later I had lunch with another woman — strictly business, of course.

She said she was terribly bored with life.

"My husband tells me all the time how MUCH he loves me," she complained. "It's getting very monotonous. And it's awfully hard to live up to so much love."

So, what is a fellow going to do?

Love his wife and not tell her he does, or not love her BUT tell her he does?

Now I'm getting all mixed up.

A Cleveland woman applied for a divorce because her husband had not lived up to a set of "articles of good conduct" they drew up after their first marital spat in 1949.

She referred particularly to Article 2, which specified, "His shortcomings of former days are forbidden and he must be debonair and gallant." (He is a fireman.)

But there were other articles, among them:

"No. 1: Husband shall be kind to his wife and must understand her virtues, weaknesses and vagaries.

"No. 3: He shall be generous to her faults and lapses.

"No. 4: He shall not provoke any arguments.

"No. 7: In discord, the custody of the children shall be the mother's.

"No. 11: He shall refrain from interfering with wife's private enterprises.

"No. 12: Any violation shall be considered as his admission of marital infractions."

If the fellow signed THAT agreement, I'd hate to have him for a fireman if a fire started in MY house.

Hollywood—Glimpses of Glammerville—

Requests for that nude calendar photo of Marilyn Monroe are "well into the thousands" since a magazine ran it, Western Lithograph reports. Business houses, Individuals, fratenities at "practically every college in the country," GIs, and military spokesmen are inquiring. The company, which is bracing for the reacting from the lads in Korea, plans to re-issue the same photo on a '53 calendar . . .

Speaking of cheesecake, ever wonder what holds up strapless gowns worn on the screen by the likes of Miss Monroe, Jane Russell, Ava Gardner, Marie Wilson, Janet Leigh, and Susan Hayward? Michael Woulfe, who has costumed all of 'em at RKO, spills the secret: thin, narrow strips of whalebone running up the sides. And sometimes one in center front.

In commercial gowns, the whaleboning runs up across the breasts, which would create undesirable ridges and shadows on the screen.

Woulfe also told how he got the idea for the currently discussed gold gown worn by Miss Russell in "Macao." "I was thinking at the Academy Award ceremonies last year," he said, "'Woudn't it be wonderful if the Oscars were shaped like Jane Russell!"

The dress cost $700, weighs more than 20 pounds, and is made of gold-plated mesh such as ladies' handbags are made of. An astonished Massachusetts manufacturer filled Woulfe's order for the stuff in yard width.

Studio seamstresses put the gown together with tinsnips and hammers. Little prongs which link the individual squares together scratched Miss Russell's hide, so the creation had to be lined with chiffon . . .

"Carbine Williams" purports to be a biography of a real-life chap who made wonderful gun inventions while confined to prison. As played by Jimmy Stewart, he's agreeable enough. But the script is overloaded with the usual Hollywood corn—the diresome heartaches of people straight from story conferences rather than from life.

Jean Hagen plays his wife, Wendell Corey the warden. One shot of Miss Hagen reading a letter to Stewart's big family is so self-consciously posed as to seem suitable for framing . . .

The Once Over

Mother Of The Year

A Chinese laundrywoman, Mrs. Toy Len Goon, of Portland, Maine, has been chosen America's Mother of the Year and will be so proclaimed at a Waldorf-Astoria dinner Friday night. Widowed, she raised eight children, each making good in the finest American tradition, while running the Portland laundry. Any mother who does her own washing and raises eight kids has her work cut out and one who does the washing for an entire neighborhood and raises 'em shapes up as extraordinary under any system of handicapping in the Motherhood Derby.

There was a time when all mothers were in the laundry business. They automatically entered it immediately after the wedding march. They were knee-deep in washing and ironing most of their lives. And, in addition, they were in the bakery, cleaning, house renovating, and dressmaking businesses. This is no longer true, due partly to household labor-saving devices. Mrs. Toy Len Goon, however, has been in there with the soapsuds and the flatirons all the time.

The neighborhood Chinese laundry used to be just about the last place to look for a mother of the year. In fact, you could make a tour of them without finding a woman around. Mrs. Goon, however, meets all the specifications and it is about time, we think, that in naming a Mother of the Year, the washing and ironing were taken into consideration.

It is, of course, impossible to say that Mrs. Goon or any other mother is the best in the land of some pretty fine mothers. There are others with big families who have been widowed and made a gallant fight of it. By any cross-section test, the lady looks a winner. She is certainly the only one who not only did all the washing but did it under conditions that opened her work to community review and criticism. (It must be pretty tough to try to look after eight small fry while listening to one man who says he got back only five socks in his wash, to another who complains that there was too much starch in the cuffs and to a third who demands his laundry back without the check.)

There was no time on Mrs. Toy Len Goon's agenda for cocktail lounges, daily attendance at jackpot programs, all the movies, the smarter nightclubs and audience participation entertainments. We doubt if she even took time out to clip a box top and write an essay in twenty-five words telling why no family could know health and happiness without a specific cereal. (Or win a month's vacation in Miami by composing a jingle on a soap that "makes all your laundry problems disappear.")

How about picking a father of the Year from among the fathers on the committee that shoulders the task of picking the Mothers of the Year?

West End Township Schools Consider Five-District Jointure

Call Meeting May 14 To Discuss Plan

Brodheadsville—Directors of five West End school districts will meet here May 14 with officials of the Department of Public Instruction and the office of County Superintendents of Schools to discuss and explore possibilities of a five-district jointure.

The meeting is one of the most significant of the recent jointure studies which have been made.

Geographically, the five districts represent all of what is known as the "West End" section of Monroe County.

Two of the districts — Chestnuthill and Polk—have consolidated school systems through secondary grades.

The others are Hamilton, Ross, Eldred.

Ross is already set up for a jointure with Chestnuthill, effective with the next fiscal year.

Hamilton and Eldred have well advanced plans for possible building operations.

County Superintendent of Schools John C. Litts and Walter Sebring, assistant superintendent, have set up plans for the meeting with cooperation of directors and officers of the five districts.

Orren Wagner, Department of Elementary Education, and J. K. Bowman, adviser in the Department of Consolidation and Transportation, both of Department of Public Instruction, will develop all the pertinent aspects of jointure of districts and also, for those interested, explain possibilities of union of districts.

Hamilton, in its exploratory work on development of its school system, has already met with Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap and Stroud Township for jointure discussions.

The meeting of the five West End boards will be confined strictly to the board members and administrators.

COMPLETION OF THE SALE of a Brodhead Ave., East Stroudsburg house to the Congregation of Sons of Israel, was announced yesterday. Details were wound up at the offices of Maxwell H. Cohen, Stroudsburg. Temple Israel Buys House For Rectory

A two-story frame house at 279 Brodhead Ave., East Stroudsburg, will be the new rectory for Temple Israel in East Stroudsburg.

Deed for the house and land was recorded yesterday at the courthouse.

The purchase, by the Congregation of Sons of Israel, East Stroudsburg, climaxed more than two years of hunting for a suitable dwelling to serve as a rectory.

The temple, erected on Brown St. about 1924, has never had a rectory, and housing for rabbis and their families has always been a problem.

Months ago Henry Reader, Temple Israel Brotherhood president, appointed Ben Wilkins as chairman of a house committee. The committee finally decided on the Brodhead Ave. property.

Sons of Israel officials and LaVerne Staples, former owner, completed the transaction Saturday. Possession of the premises was taken immediately.

At present, the interior and exterior of the five-room house are being improved and renovated. Rabbi Maurice Idell will move into the rectory June 1.

Other deeds recorded at the courthouse yesterday were:

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Kosko to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kreck, all of Barrett Township, a lot in the township on the lot plan of Oaklyn Park.

Carrie S. Neuman, East Stroudsburg, to Miriam N. Dresdner, Trenton, N. J., an East Stroudsburg property on the north side of Analomink St., adjoining land of Ola G. Swain.

Laurel Time Festivities Take Shape

Plans for the annual Pocono Mountain Laurel Blossom Time festival have been completed by the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

Resorts, inns, restaurants, business firms and industry in the region will combine their efforts to make Laurel Blossom Time, June 5-25 a festive occasion.

The festival is to be a 20-day long Mountain Mardi Gras. In addition to elaborate affairs at the various resorts, the climax event will be staged with a grand ball Wednesday night, June 25 at Shawnee Inn, Shawnee-on-Delaware.

Each resort in the region will also select its own Laurel princess who will become a lady-in-waiting to the Laurel Queen.

The Laurel Queen will be selected from among the nation's most impressive list of stage and screen stars and will be crowned at colorful coronation ceremonies the night of the grand ball.

The Laurel Festival was first started in the Poconos and part of the project involved having the Laurel Blossom legislated as the State Flower.

Judge Chester H. Rhodes, president of the Pennsylvania Superior Court, then a member of the Pennsylvania Legislature, sponsored the measure which made the Laurel Blossom the State Flower.

Engineers Still Idle

Tobyhanna — The majority of workers remained off the job at the Signal Corps construction project here yesterday as a strike of AFL Operating Engineers continued.

Most of the operating engineers are employed by Rochez Brothers, contractors on the first phase of the project now in the clean-up stage.

Members of the Teamsters union were also off the job because there is no work for them to do when engineers are not working.

Consolidated Construction Co., contractors on the second phase of the project, had a few men working, a depot spokesman said, mostly laborers. Consolidated is also involved in the strike of operating engineers.

No meetings took place yesterday between company and union representatives, and none were expected in the immediate future, it was reported.

The operating engineers are seeking a 40-cent hourly raise. The strike involves all of Eastern Pennsylvania. It was reported last night that the Anthracite Bridge Co., Scranton, has been struck by operating engineers employed by the steel construction firm.

Depot Puts Water System Into Service; Will Provide Over 65,000 Gallons Daily

Tobyhanna—Despite the strike at the Signal Corps construction project here, one step toward completion of the project has been made, it was reported yesterday.

The Consolidated Construction Co., contractors on the second phase of the project, connected two water lines which had operated independently until Wednesday.

The single water system now in use can furnish the estimated requirements of 65,000 gallons daily. This, actually, is less than half of the pumping capacity of either of the two pumping stations in the system.

Officials at the project said they are confident the new system will meet all the water requirements necessary until construction is completed.

A major part of the system is an electric pumping station which can supply all the water to contractors through the two-inch pipes of the consolidated system.

It is located in the hospital area on the project. The hospital was built at the depot during World War Two at a cost of a million dollars, was abandoned after seven months' use.

In the event of power failure, a diesel-electric pumping station can supply needed water on an emergency basis.

New Building Erected At Merry Hill

Cresco — Vicki Fossa, owner of Merry Hill Lodge near here will shortly make reservations available for "Melody", a new deluxe building, the twelfth on the lodge grounds in her six years at the Pocono Mountains resort.

Architectural features of each room in the new building afford private entrance from the grounds, twin-closets, built-in drawers, wide view windows and private bath.

"Melody" was named by Kenneth Murray, Jersey City, N. J. one of several hundred entrants in the "christening" contest announced last fall by metropolitan resort editors.

All of Merry Hills Lodge, cottage and cabin buildings, both interior and exterior, have been redecorated. Many new furnishings have been added.

The Lodge dining room will be extended from 70 to 100 settings.

Concert Given At Tobyhanna

Tobyhanna — Coolbaugh Township High School music students held their annual spring concert last night at the high school, under the direction of Elsie Braxtor.

The concert included performances by the 64-voice mixed chorus and the boys' and girls glee clubs. A 22-piece school orchestra also appeared.

The glee clubs sang 12 songs including "Dry Bones" and the operetta tune "Stout-Hearted Men." Lorraine Pope and Jean Kresge served as accompanists.

The orchestral portion of the program included the "Queen of Sheba Processional," by Gounod, and the "Regimental Review March" by Underwood.

Approximately 150 persons attended.

Forest Fires Believed Set By Incendiary

Incendiarism had fire wardens on the run early yesterday in the Snow Hill section west of Route 290.

The fires were spotted by a ranger's daughter, Martha Ann Brush, as she returned after a movie shortly after midnight. On reaching her house at Snow Hill she told Ranger Ellis Brush what she had seen.

When alerted rangers and wardens arrived in the area, they found that five or six separate fires "had been set", said the office of District Forester E. C. Pyle.

The burn-off was finally beaten by 10 a. m. yesterday. The property over which the blazes traveled is owned by the Mount Allen Hunting Club, according to the forester's office.

Another small blaze was reported at 10:30 a. m. on State lands near Mud Pond Run, north of Effort Mountain. It was extinguished in less than a half hour.

The forester's office said all the fires burning in the county Wednesday were out yesterday.

Six Girl Guards To Take Exams For General's Medal

Six girls from the Stroudsourgs Girl Guard Troop of the East Stroudsburg Salvation Army Citadel will go to Scranton this afternoon to be examined by an examining board to see if they qualify for the General's Medal.

This is one of the high honors in the Girl Guard movement. In order to qualify for this honor, the girl must be at least 14 years of age, be a Girl Guard for two years or more, pass all ranks tests, and pass certain proficiency badges such as Bible study, Salvation Army, outdoor accidents, indoor accidents, home nursing, child care, needlewoman, marketing, cooking, public health, literary and laundrywoman. The Guard must also be of good character and be recommended for this honor by the corps commanding officer.

SPCA Receives Memorial Gift

The Monroe County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals received a memorial gift of $25 this week from a woman who had "just finished reading that article in The Daily Record".

The woman, whose 18-year-old pet dog had recently died, had intended to give "a gift" to the society, anyway. Reading the article, however, she said, made her decide to do it immediately without putting it off any longer. The article dealt with the work of the SPCA in Monroe County.

Mrs. Ellen Albenzi, in accepting the gift on behalf of the society, expressed her gratitude for the memorial donation and a hope that the money might be used to help animals in need of care in the county.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Seems as if this has been the most musical spring I ever do remember with Music Week spreading out in both directions.

Think a lot of local people will be delighted to hear that Ellie Roberts is coming here for the closing Music Club recital next Tuesday. She certainly left a big hole in club affairs when she and Steve moved away.

Anyway, it's been an exciting time for music lovers and it's no wonder a lot of people are walking along as if to remembered tunes. Of course, all the Smithfield parents were walking around on air anyway after that concert the kids gave last night.

However, with all the extra activities of music week and Mothers Day to fit into an already overflowing schedule, I do think they might have postponed National Health Week until afterwards when mothers, particularly, could use the services to better advantage.

Add to that the super-charged atmosphere of a home where teen-agers are planning to venture forth into the junior high and high school proms and you have somewhat of a bedlam. However, I guess maybe we'll make it to the haven of the weekend without walking off in all directions. That is if nobody says "Boo."

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

"Why don't you write a column about Mother?" one of my coworkers asked yesterday. "You could pull out all the stops and make it a real tear jerker. Then you'd have something."

Well . . . maybe. But, to put it frankly, I'm not much on eulogies. I think there's nothing more wonderful in all the world than mother love, and no prettier sight anywhere than a young mother with her heart in her eyes and her child in her arms. There's nothing braver, in my opinion, than a woman taking a stand against the world to provide her children with those things, material and spiritual, which she feels they need . . . or fighting for their physical well-being and security. I feel that Job was never more patient than is the woman surrounded by active, noisy, adventurous youngsters, who can keep peace within herself and her home, and hold onto her wits. I envy that woman whole-heartedly, recognizing in her a strength that too often deserts too many of us. And being a mother myself, I'm correct, I know, in saying that the most miraculous feeling a woman can ever have, comes when she cuddles a warm, precious bundle in her arms, realizing for the first time the meaning of motherhood in terms of love, responsibility, and God-granted favor.

But to write a column about it . . . that's something else again. And as for coaxing tears with the story of the mother whose sons and daughters are grown and forgetful; the mother who smiles valiantly, pretending to understand how they can be too busy to drop a card or send a gift . . . Well, I'd just rather not. I prefer to forget that such things ever happen because there's actually no reason why they ever should.

Here at Wyckoff's, I see men and women stopping daily in our stationery department to choose from our extensive Hallmark, Norcross and Rustcraft displays, the perfect card for the Mom, Mother, or Mommy who is dear to their heart. I see shoppers selecting gifts from every department and asking for Mother's Day gift wrappings. And I observe our helpful Wyckoff ad writers suggesting everything from French perfume to bedspreads, to delight women of all tastes. To write an article about mothers is a project for which I'm ill suited. Mother, after all, is not what you read in a column, but what you remember deep in your heart.

Congressional Attempts To Impeach Truman Recall Senate Trial Of President Johnson

By Franklin Johnson
Central Press Correspondent

Washington — It is a long hop, skip and jump from the filing in the House of Representatives of a resolution to impeach the President, such as that introduced by Rep. Robert Hale (R), Maine, and now before the House Judiciary Committee, and actual trial before the Senate.

However, pendency of this action against Harry S. Truman, together with the fact that the only impeachment in history of an occupant of the White House occurred at virtually the same relative point in the term of Andrew Johnson and other striking parallels with the present situation, highlights the provisions in the United States Constituiton for this most dramatic of all types of public trial.

Johnson, tried for "high crimes and misdemeanors," eked out an acquittal on May 26, 1868, with his term, like Truman's, in its last year. It climaxed a long deterioration in relations between the White House and Congress, not unlike the current situation.

Hardly a President has escaped entirely some muttered threats of impeachment, even George Washington's most radical foes urging the step because they accused him of "royalists tendencies", but few actual resolutions have been introduced and only nine trials have been held. President Johnson has been the only President who had to defend himself against ouster.

Congress' power to impeach comes from the Constitution giving the House "the sole power of impeachment," and the Senate "the sole power to try all impeachments". Beyond that, the Constitution is silent.

* * *

When removal from office was considered in the Constitutional Convention, James Madison and others argued against it "because the President would be at the mercy of Congress." However, Madison also doubted that any President "would be so daring" as to veto an Act of Congress.

The English Parliament, at that time, frequently impeached high officials, with the Commons preferring charges and the House of Lords sitting as the highest court. This pattern was adopted for the United States.

Ironically, England ceased using impeachments shortly afterward, and none have been held in Parliament since 1805, the requiring of regular reports by Cabinet officers being viewed as a substitute.

Foes of giving Congress impeachment powers salvaged several limitations, one of them being that while the House may impeach on a bare majority, the Senate can convict only by at least a two-thirds vote.

That provision saved President Johnson after his 57-day ordeal, because the 35-19 count against him fell one short, the final senator on the roll call explaining that he would have voted "guilty" if his ballot would not have been the direct cause of "disgrace" to fall upon the nation.

When the Senate tries the President, the chief justice of the Supreme Court must preside, because the Founding Fathers feared the bias of a vice president, who usually presides over the Senate, in a proceeding which could precipitate him into the White House.

Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase earned general praise for his conduct of the Johnson trial, which presented another unusual situation in that Johnson had succeeded to the presidency upon Lincoln's assassination, and there was no vice president in line.

* * *

The possibility that "Bluff Ben" Wade, the radical president of the Senate, would move into the White House is said to have deterred some of the 19 from casting "guilty" votes.

Lacking any specific rules for such a trial, the Senate drafted a set which probably would guide any impeachment today. The case of chief performers now would include Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson as presiding officer, with Vice President Alben Barkley standing by to become President in case of a conviction.

Senators with trial experience as lawyers would act as prosecutors, or "managers" as they were called in the Johnson impeachment, and President Truman undoubtedly would appoint as his own counsel modern counterparts of Evarts and Groesbeck, Johnson's famous and triumphant attorneys.

* * *

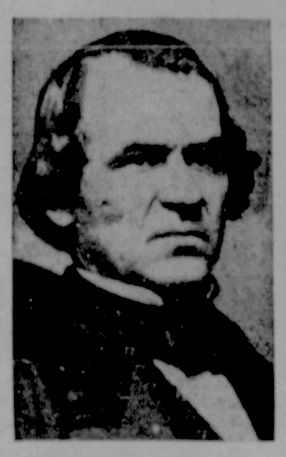

The proceeding would be much like an ordinary trial, packed with the greatest tension and excitement imaginable. The Senate, in addition, would face the decision whether to allow it to be televised.

Johnson was indicted on 11 counts, but the real issue was his firing of Secretary of War Edward M. Stanton in defiance of the Tenure of Office Act, later repealed after Ulysses S. Grant became President. Today the issue would undoubtedly turn upon validity of the steel plant seizure invoked by Truman.

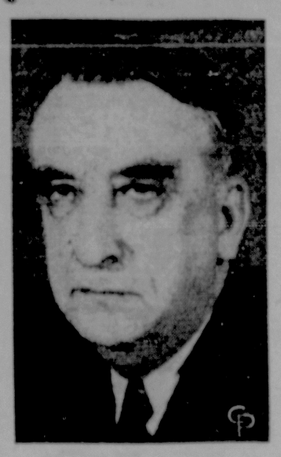

The Constitution provides another limitation: If the Senate convicts, it cannot do more than remove the President from office and destroy his eligibility for any other public post. A regular court of law must mete out any additional punishment in an ordinary trial.

Rep. Robert Hale and President Truman
His resolution asks impeachment of him.

President Andrew Johnson
He won by one vote.

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson
He would preside at trial.

Dr. Charles J. Naegle

A. L. Helmes

Three Veteran Members Of College Staff To Retire

merce and in an executive capacity with the American Red Cross.

The retirements of both Drs. Naegle and Breitwieser are effective with the close of the present college year.

Succeeding Dean Naegle as dean of instruction, Dr. Theodore Moore brings to his new position a background of 21 years experience in public schools, private schools and colleges.

He holds a B.A. degree from Princeton; a Masters from Harvard; Doctor of Philosophy from Cornell and has done graduate work at both the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Chicago.

He has previously served 14 years as headmaster of Germantown Academy and as head of the English Department, William and Mary College for a period of three years. He has been a member of the English Department faculty at the local college during the past year, during which time he also acted as faculty advisor for the Student Christian Association.

Dr. Nathan Meyer, newly-appointed to succeed Dr. Breitweiser, has had 28 years teaching experience in public schools and colleges, having served with the high school at Baltimore, Md. and as high school principal at Glenville, Pa.

Dr. Meyer served as assistant superintendent of schools for Monroe County for 14 years. He has also occupied a position as critic teacher at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and a member of the campus laboratory school staff. For the past four years he has been head of the Department of Education at the college.

Succeeding Dr. Meyer as head of the Department of Education will be Dr. Francis B. McGarry, a member of that department for the past 14 years. He is a graduate of ESSTC, holding a B. S. Education from the local college. He received his Masters' degree in education from Columbia and a Doctor of Education degree from N. Y. U.

Named by the board of trustees to take over Mr. Helmes' position as business manager of the institution is Melvin Schissler, who served for 22 years as assistant business manager at Lehigh University.

Schissler's appointment was approved by Gov. John S. Fine earlier this month, following its approval by the board of trustees.

Mr. Helmes was first associated with the college in August, 1920, as business manager. He came to the position with a long and varied career in private enterprise behind him.

He had previously been employed by the Ingersoll Rand Co. and the Stewart Contracting Co. In 1920 he represented banks in Stroudsburg and Scranton at the Pocono Pines Assembly.

Schissler is scheduled to assume his duties as Mr. Helmes' successor June 1.

In announcing the potential retirement of Drs. Naegle and Breitwieser and Mr. Helmes, Dr. Noonan expressed his gratitude and the gratitude of the trustees for their long and faithful service to the institution.

Formal announcement of the retirements and appointments was made last night on the campus at a meeting of the faculty, with Dr. Noonan in charge.

Stroudsburg Little League Asks For Help On New Field

John R. Wilson, secretary of the Stroudsburg Little League, issued a call for help last night and directed it to the fathers of all boys in the Little League and to any other men in the community who are interested in this type of baseball.

Wilson would like aid from all those available on Saturday, at which time plenty of work is scheduled to take place at the newly constructed Little League park at Stroudsburg Playground.

Although the work on the new park's fence has been completed, there is a hundred and one things still to be done if the field is to be ready for the first game of the season, scheduled to take place on Monday, June 2.

There are still some trees to be uprooted, basketball backboards from the playground court must be taken down, the infield must be marked off and skinned, in an effort to have the best playing surface possible.

The league would like to have all these chores completed on Saturday.

Russ Bergman and George Metropoulos will be in charge of the group, which should be ready for action by 9 a. m., if possible.

Wilson also announced last night that the Stroudsburg Little League would again feature an opening day parade.

The line of march will begin at the Penn-Stroud Hotel and end at the newly constructed park.

Indians Score Third Victory Of Series Over Yankees 12-5

New York, (AP)—Ray Boone, elevated to the cleanup role, came through in spectacular style yesterday, clubbing a home run and single to drive in five runs and lead the rampaging Cleveland Indians to a 12-5 victory and a sweep of the three-game series with the New York Yankees.

Bob Feller, with the aid of Bob Lemon, gained credit for the triumph.

Same Story

Just as they manhandled Vic Raschi Wednesday, the Indians racked up Ed Lopat in five innings, pummeling their long-time nemesis for seven of their 14 hits before sending him to the showers with his second loss of the season. It was only the ninth time the Indians have beaten the veteran southpaw who holds 33 decisions over them.

In addition to Boone's four-bagger, Lopat also yielded a circuit blast to Harry Simpson and three base hits to Al Rosen and Bob Kennedy. Boone was moved into the cleanup spot when the Indians' giant first baseman, Luke Easter, came up with a pulled muscle in his right thigh and was forced to the sidelines.

Steve Gromek blanked the Yanks in the first game of the series and Mike Garcia won on Wednesday.

Gromek, considered a second stringer on the Indian mound staff, pitched a neat 1-0 four-hitter in beating the Yanks and Allie Reynolds Tuesday night for the third time.

The last time Gromek started against the Yanks in Yankee Stadium—May 19, 1949—he trimmed the Bombers, 3-2. The time before that—in Cleveland in 1948—he downed the Yanks, 2-1.

Gromek's shutout was the first time a Cleveland pitcher has blanked the Yanks since Bob Feller's no-hitter in April, 1946.

Steve not only handcuffed the Yanks with four singles but had the crowd of 35,914 limp at the finish when he retired the last three batters with the potential tying run on base.

"Credit the sinker I developed during spring training," Gromek said afterwards. "I had them off stride. My new sinker was working fine in the beginning and when they began to look for it, I switched to my fast ball, which was 'alive.' It was breaking up and away."

Bolt Sets Record In Mexico Play

Mexico City (AP) — Tommy Bolt, Oklahoma-born pro playing out of Durham, N. C., yesterday set a course record for the new Mexico Golf Club with a spectacular eight-under-par 32-32—64, and staked himself to a four-stroke lead over runner-up Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, in the first round of the Pan-American $15,000 Invitation Golf Tournament.

Far Behind

The rest of the field, including U. S. Open champion Jack Burke Jr., of Houston, trailed far behind Bolt and Mangrum over the 7,347-yard course.

Four pros were tied for third at 71—Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif.; Robert de Vicenzo, champion of Argentina; Douglas Higgins, Ft. Worth, Texas; and Iverson Martin, Ft. Worth.

First Place At Stake On TTHS Field

First place will be at stake today, when the Monroe County League sends all six of its entries into battle on its regular weekly outing. It will be the third round of games this season and will send a pair of undefeated clubs, namely Chestnuthill and Tobyhanna Township, into battle in the game of the day.

Chestnuthill enters today's contest at Pocono Pines with successive victories over Polk and Barrett, while TTHS, today's host club, has won over Coolbaugh and Pocono thus far this season. Neither team has tasted defeat as yet.

Today's action is scheduled to get underway at 2 p. m.

Chestnuthill is currently seeking its third straight league title and fourth in the past five years.

The other 2 p. m. contest on today's agenda will feature Pocono High against Coolbaugh, on the latter's home field in Tobyhanna. Both teams have identical records of one victory and a single loss.

Results

Pocono fell before TTHS, then came back to blank Polk last week. Coolbaugh opened the campaign with a convincing nod over Barrett, but lost to TTHS last week.

Barrett and Polk are scheduled to cross bats in Kresgeville today, at 3 p. m., in the circuit's third contests of the day. Once again both teams take identical records of no wins and two setbacks into the contest.

Polk has suffered setbacks at the hands of Chestnuthill and Pocono, while Barrett has fallen before Coolbaugh and Chestnuthill in successive outings.

The Monroe County League also has two games on the agenda for next Friday, both to be played at 2 p. m.

The Monroe County League is only playing five games for the second straight year, as the circuit fights the rising cost of operation.

Maxwell Set For Links Show

Dallas—It has been two decades since an amateur won the National Open golf championship but Texans wouldn't be surprised if one did it here June 12-14.

The big links show will be held at Northwood Club in Dallas on that date.

Billy Maxwell, the Texas collegian who won the national amateur last year, has been playing Northwood course at every opportunity and should know every inch of the layout by the time of the Open.

He won't admit anything better than a par 70.

Straight

Charles Tims, assistant pro at Northwood, accompanied Maxwell on a recent round of the 6,811-yard course. "He hit everyone of his tee shots squarely down the middle," Tims reports. "And don't forget accuracy is going to be at a premium on the narrowed fairways of the Open."

As for Maxwell's approaches to the greens, 16 of them "landed right on the money," says Tims. "The other two were on the frog-hair."

Oliver Leads In Greenbrier Golf Tourney

By George Bowen

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. (AP)—Ed. "Porky" Oliver of Lemont, Ill., got away to a fast start in the Greenbrier Golf Open yesterday by shooting to within one stroke of the course record of 60.

Oliver's 61 put him three strokes up over Sam Snead, the host pro who set the old White record for 18 holes two years ago. Par for the 6,368 yard course is 70.

Best Round

Oliver's round, however, was the best ever scored in the five-year-old Greenbrier. Snead's record was set playing in a non-tourney foursome. Both Oliver and Snead laid the foundation for challenging the Greenbrier's 72-hole record of 259 set by Ben Hogan two years ago.

Just a stroke behind Snead in the field of 37 scrambling for $10,000 came young Harry Dee of New York.

Tied for fourth at 67 were Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., and Dave Douglas of Newark, Del. Another stroke behind were Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., and Don Finsterwald of Athens, O.

Also beating par, by one stroke, were Marty Furgol of Atlanta, Ga., Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., and Max Faulkner, the British Open champion.

Another nine equalled par. Thus 19, or more than half the field, did par or better.

Bout On, Off —Now Doubtful

New York (AP) — Ray Robinson's manager changed his mind again yesterday and said the middleweight king would go through with a May 26 non-title bout with Billy Brown of Hartford, Conn., at the Eastern Parkway Arena.

Switch

But shortly after the switch was announced, Brown sent word from Jacksonville, Fla., that he had sprained his back and couldn't fight.

Bob Christenberry, chairman of the state athletic commission, said the matter would be settled at the commission's meeting today.

Gowdy Still Loves Game

Columbus, O. — The mere fact that Harry (Hank) Gowdy isn't drawing a salary from baseball doesn't mean he has severed his affiliation with the game.

Gowdy, catching star of the Boston Braves miracle team of 1914, recently was released by the Cleveland Indians after serving for four years as a troubleshooter in the Tribe's farm system.

Late

He received his "walking papers" so late that he was unable to make another connection. Under the circumstances, you'd think he would be bitter about it. On the contrary, Gowdy has nothing but praise for Ellis Ryan, Hank Greenberg and the rest of the Cleveland brass.

Besides, Hank is too busy doing what he can for the game he loves. Recently, he was a faculty member at the baseball clinic co-sponsored by Ohio State University and the Ohio High School Athletic Association. He's also speaking at banquets and doing what he can to help youngsters who aspire to professional baseball careers.

The tall likeable Gowdy, now 62, looks back on his own long and honorable diamond career, which began in 1908. Take Hank's word for it—he'll return to baseball next year in some capacity or other.

Dean Of Irish Coaches

Notre Dame, Ind. (AP)—Rev. George L. Holderith, C.S.C., is in his 20th year as the Notre Dame golf coach. Father Holderith is the dean of all Notre Dame mentors, holding a one year edge over baseball coach Jake Kline. Under Holderith the Irish linksmen have won 124 matches, lost 40 and tied eight.

New Pro Named

Dunedin, Fla., (AP)—Leo O'Grady, former golf pro at Buffalo's Transit Valley Country Club, is the new pro-manager of the PGA National Golf Club here. A pro since 1936, O'Grady is 38.

Former Long Island University Basketball Player Faces Possible Stiff Jail Sentence

New York (AP)—Jack Goldsmith, former Long Island University basketball player, pleaded guilty yesterday to two counts of bribery in the college basketball "fix" scandal.

General Sessions Judge Saul S. Streit ordered him held without bail pending sentencing on May 28 after Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor declared:

"He has never shown the slightest desire to cooperate and has taken a hardened criminal attitude."

Instructor

Goldsmith, a Brooklyn resident who gave his occupation as a camp instructor, had been free under $50,000 bail. He faces a maximum possible penalty of 10 years in prison and $20,000 in fines.

Goldsmith pleaded guilty in the bribing of Harvey Connie Schaff, a New York University player, to control his team's score in a game with Cornell University on January 1, 1950, at Madison Square Garden.

Cornell, the underdog, won, 69 to 56.

He also pleaded guilty to bribing four LIU players to lose a game to Duquesne University in the 1950-51 season. Duquesne, also an underdog, won 64 to 55.

Softball Circuit Ready To Open Flag Dash On Monday

Officers were elected and eight teams entered in the Monroe County Softball League last night, during a meeting of the circuit at the Monroe County YMCA. The meeting was the final one to be held before the opening of the regular season on Monday.

Dr. Gail Fegley was elected as president of the league, while Bill Weber was named to serve as secretary-treasurer of the same circuit.

Two more clubs entered the fold last night to bring the league up to its expected strength of eight teams. However, Tucker's Chevrolet was listed as only a probable starter, although it expects to be ready for opening day. The certain entry last night was the Ronson contingent.

Other clubs in the circuit this year are Worthington Mower, Kulp's Foundry, Union Printers, Tru-Matic Tool, Eagles and IAM.

All eight organizations were represented at the meeting.

It was also announced that an all-star series will be held at the end of the first half of the season, at which time the cream of the crop from the first, third, fifth and seventh place clubs meets the best talent from the second, fourth, sixth and eighth place teams, in a three-game series.

The regular post-season championship series between the first and second-half champions will also be held.

All games will be played at Stroudsburg Playground and the East Stroudsburg Junior High school field. Action will begin promptly at 6:15 p.m. Each game will be seven innings in length.

The annual Gold Medal Softball Tournament is also expected to be held at the end of the coming campaign.

Umpires will receive pay for working league games and have been given the power to suspend players.

It was also decided to purchase softballs in advance at last night's meeting.

Marshall Drives Home Four Runs As Braves Down Cubs

Chicago, (AP)—Outfielder Willard Marshall tripled with the bases loaded and singled across a fourth run to lead the Boston Braves to a 6-4 win over the Chicago Cubs yesterday before a chilled crowd of only 2,046.

Chicago's defeat enabled the idle Cincinnati Reds to climb into a third-place tie with the Cubs.

Starter Jim Wilson was credited with his second win against one defeat although he walked seven and had to be rescued by Sheldon Jones and Lew Burdette.

Relief

Burdette supplanted Jones in the ninth inning with the bases loaded and two out, and ended the game by getting pinchhitter Bruce Edwards to roll out to third.

"Turk" Lown, who had hurled eight hitless innings before bowing to Brooklyn 3-1 last Friday, was the loser. Lown retreated after a four-run Boston fourth which featured Marshall's triple and hitting the second batter to face him in the fifth.

Although beaten, those Chicago Cube are right in there pitching.

And pitching is the word for it, with 10 complete games in 19 starts fashioned by a mound staff that seems to have surprised everybody except Bruin pilot Phil Cavarretta.

Within five days, Cub hurlers turned in two three-hitters and a four-hitter. Unfortunately, only one of those sparkling hill efforts—Johnny Klippstein's three-hit effort yesterday—paid off with a victory. Klippstein shut out the Braves, 2-0.

Last Friday, Turk Lown pitched no-hit ball against the Brooklyn Dodgers for eight innings, but yielded three blows in the ninth for a 3-1 loss. Then Monday lefty Paul Minner spaced four hits against the New York Giants only to lose 3-2.

Such pitching has been the rule rather than the exception for the Cubs, 1951 tail-enders who aren't supposed to finish far from the National League basement, if not in it, this year. They have been in the first division most of the time since the season opened.

Bangor To Clash With Fountain Hill

Bangor—Bangor High school's baseball team is scheduled to tangle with Fountain Hill High here at Memorial Park in a Lehigh-Northampton League contest at 4 p.m. today.

The Slaters will be searching for their first circuit victory of the season, as they go through their paces before the tome town fans.

Bangor lost to Nazareth, Wilson Borough and Parkland in league games and fought Coplay to an 8-8 deadlock. The charges of Coach Dave Thomas also dropped pre-season verdicts to Nazareth and Belvidere.

Talent

Thomas will probably stick with the same lineup that has carried the bulk of the load thus far this season.

Sherman Schoonover is a possible starting hurler.

Bangor is listed for track action on Saturday, when the Slaters take part in the Lehigh-Northampton League annual track meet, at Allentown High school's field. Parkland, Wilson Borough and Nazareth are also entered in the meet.

The Slaters have dropped regular season meets to Wilson Borough and Nazareth to date.

Unanimous Decision

Open Date For Greene-Dreher

Newfoundland—Greene-Dreher-Sterling High School enjoys a day off from the 1952 baseball wars today, as the club draws an open date on the schedule. Instead of baseball, an annual May Day celebration will highlight the school activities for the day.

Setbacks

Greene-Dreher-Sterling has lost all three of its games thus far this season, bowing to Lake Township, Hawley and Barrett in that order.

Newfoundland Opens Home Season Sunday

Newfoundland—Sharing the lead in the Pocono Mountain Baseball Association with three other clubs, Newfoundland-Sterling opens its home season here Sunday with South Canaan furnishing the opposition. Game time is 2:30 p. m.

Co-managers Henry "Hank" Botjer and Lyle "Mike" Stevens will probably send Dick Dunning to the hill against the Canaanites. Dunning will be seeking his second victory of the season, having stopped Gouldsboro in the loop opener last week. Hubert "Buck" Hutchins will do the catching.

The locals pitching problems will be eased somewhat in the near future with the return of "Sad Sam" Curtis, the left-handed Penn-State sophomore, who fashioned a no-hitter in the PMA last season.

Other games in the league pit Maple Lake against Mount Cobb, Gouldsboro against Tobyhanna and Daleville against St. Catherines, Moscow.

BONUS—Smiling Ray Young, 19, a recent graduate of Lindblom High school in Chicago, has been signed by the Detroit Tigers for a reported bonus of $35,000. A shortstop and right-handed batter, Young hit .453 for his school nine last year.

Fetherman To Hurl For Mountaineers

Stroudsburg High will be out to even its Lehigh Valley League record at three victories and the same number of defeats today, when the Mountaineers play host to a strong Slatington High contingent, at Gordon Giffels field. Action is scheduled to get underway at 4 p.m.

The Mountaineers unlimbered the lumber on Tuesday and smothered Whitehall, 11-2, but at the same time Slatington was showing its power against a highly regarded Palmerton crew, as today's visitor ran wild for an 18-1 decision over the Blue Bombers, who won over Stroudsburg recently, 2-1.

Stroudsburg, for the first time this season, hit with expected force against Whitehall, banging out 13 safeties, including three triples. The charges of Coach Jerry Stulgaitis are hopeful that they can continue the same pace against Slatington today, before an expected large turnout of fans.

The Mountaineers have defeated Northampton and Whitehall thus far this season, while the Stulgaitismen have dropped close decisions to Emmaus, Catasauqua and Palmerton.

Pitcher

Stulgaitis announced last night that Alden "Red" Fetherman would do the pitching for the Mountaineers in today's important contest. The hard-working right hander has won one and lost three games to date, all involving hair-line decisions.

The Stroudsburg infield will feature Floyd Williams at first base; Paul "Doc" Lim, second base; Karl Weingartner, shortstop; Jack Newell, third base, and Layton DeHaven will handle the catching duties.

Gene Caskie, injured fly chaser, may be ready to return to his center field position today, with Al Adelmann in left and Benny Miller in right field.

Bill Metzgar will be available for relief duties if needed on the mound.

Today's outing will be Fetherman's fourth start of the campaign, in addition to one outstanding relief appearance.

Service Cage Stars

Morgantown, W. Va., (AP)—Eddie Beach, Leland Byrd and Clyde Green of West Virginia U.'s great 1946-47-48 basketball teams were outstanding players on various Army service teams last season. Beach was the leading scorer of the European Theater of Operations. He led the Stuttgart, Germany team to the ETO crown.

East Stroudsburg High Tangles With Coplay Today

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Stroudsburg High school's baseball team gave its best hitting demonstration of the season on Tuesday of this week, when the charges of Coach Jerry Stulgaitis hammered out an 11-2 decision over Whitehall, on the latter's home field. The most gratifying thing to followers of the Mountaineers was the number of extra base knocks included in the total of 13 base hits. Triples were apparently the order of the day. Stroudsburg has been facing some tough pitching this season, almost as good as the Mountaineers have been receiving, but against Whitehall nothing could halt the Stroudsburg offensive.

While speaking of Stroudsburg this appears to be the proper spot in which to announce that the rumor making the rounds at the present time, dealing with the report that Stroudsburg High will drop baseball next season, is entirely false, so this column has been informed." The reports, so I have been informed, began when new steel bleachers were ordered for Gordon Giffels field. The rumors were undoubtedly spread by someone who thought the new seats couldn't be moved, once they were set up for baseball. However, I have been informed that the new bleachers are so constructed that they may be easily shifted.

East Stroudsburg High, now back on an even footing with the other leaders of the Lehigh-Northampton League, is scheduled to tangle with Coplay today, in a contest that shouldn't prove too tough for the Cavaliers. However, as has been the case so many times throughout the history of the game of baseball, there are many occasions when the underdog rises up and smacks down the favorite.

Baseball players at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, who also take part in Blue Mountain League contests, were warned this week by school authorities to stop the latter practice immediately, and until the college diamond campaign is completed. While on the subject of the Blue Mountain League it might be good to remind one and all that Pocono A.C. is featuring free admission to its Gordon Giffels field contest with Portland on Sunday. However, the club will pass the hat in an effort to obtain some badly needed cash during the contest.

Mike Koons, colorful manager of two North Atlantic League teams, during the fading years of that circuit, is also a bowler of note. Mike, who lists Hazleton as his home town, recently rolled a 713 match in the American Bowling Congress tournament in Milwaukee, but fell off late in the action to finish with a 1,864 count for nine games. The former Mahanoy City and Berwick pilot wound up the affair with a 586 in doubles and a 565 in singles.

Ray Steele and Alden "Red" Fetherman appear almost certain to enter Moravian in September, with the latter facing the possibility of playing all three sports. Art Jollowsky, ardent follower of Stroudsburg High athletic teams in recent years is also virtually certain of attending Moravian. All three were at the college of their choice on Saturday and each in turn was well pleased with conditions. Dick Umberger, southpaw pitcher with Lebanon, of the North Atlantic League, in 1949, pitched Allentown to a 3-1 victory over the York Roses on Wednesday, in an Inter-State League contest.

Pen Argyl High's bench was plenty tough on Steele in Tuesday's game at the East Stroudsburg Playground, but not half as tough as the lanky right hander was on Pen Argyl hitters, as he retired 16 of the visiting batsmen on strikes. In all probability Fred "Benny" Leonard's presence on the Pen Argyl bench on Tuesday was the latter's last trip to East Stroudsburg as a Pen Argyl coach. Leonard, who recently resigned, is scheduled to take up a coaching position at Phillipsburg, N. J., High next season.

There are 316 Little Leagues in Pennsylvania this year as compared to only 176 last season. The total of 316 includes three in Monroe County and one in Bangor. The Monroe County circuits are Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg and the Pocono Mountains Little League. Alex McNeilance, who opened his professional baseball career as a pitcher with Nazareth, North Atlantic League, in 1947, is now doing his hurling for Little Rock, Ark., of the Southern Association. McNeilance recently balked at being sent down to Williamsport, of the Eastern League, and was allowed to remain at Little Rock. McNeilance has spent time with Williamsport in the past.

Louis Heyman, catcher with the Carbondale Pioneer Blues in 1947, has been converted into a first baseman at Schenectady, N. Y., of the Eastern League. The move was made by the parent Philadelphia Phillies, because the former North Atlantic League star is suffering with an arm ailment.

Cavaliers Search For Third Win

East Stroudsburg High school will attempt to keep pace with Pen Argyl and Parkland in the Lehigh-Northampton League baseball race today, when the charges of Coach Jack Kist tangle with Coplay High, on the latter's home field. The only meeting of the two rivals this season is scheduled to get underway at 4 p.m.

Kist announced last night that he would send his reliable right hander, Ray Steele, to the hill once again, as the Cavaliers attempt to land their third victory of the present compaign, to go with a single setback.

The loss was inflicted by Nazareth, while the East Stroudsburg victories were registered against Hellertown and Pen Argyl.

Kist also made it known that the remainder of his lineup would be exactly the same as the one that squared off against Pen Argyl at the East Stroudsburg Playground on Tuesday.

Lineups

Leon Alberts will catch for Steele in today's battle.

Today's game is the only league contest to be played by Coplay this week.

East Stroudsburg faces a rugged schedule next week, when the Cavaliers take on Bangor and Parkland on Monday and Tuesday. Both games will be held at the East Stroudsburg Playground.

Joe Antonotci is scheduled to do the pitching against Bangor on Monday, with Steele to hurl against the strong Parkland nine the following day.

The Cavaliers also play Fountain Hill on Friday of next week.

Giants Blank Cardinals, 3-0

St. Louis (AP)— Dave Koslo pitched a nifty four-hitter here yesterday afternoon as he hurled the New York Giants to a 3-0 shutout over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Thus Koslo maintained his ninth straight conquest of the Redbirds in a three-season span which started in July, 1950. The last time the Cards beat him was on June 11 of that season.

Good Pitching

The New York southpaw allowed only one hit until the seventh inning and wound up with the four, two of them doubles by Stan Musial.

A single by Dave Williams and a double by Whitey Lockman in the third inning scored the Giants first run. In the fourth, the Giants got their two remaining runs on a double by Don Mueller, a walk by Alvin Dark, Willie May's single and an error by left fielder Larry Miggins who let Mays' hit go through his legs.

Rivera Homers In Ninth To Give Browns Edge Over A's

Philadelphia, (AP)—Jim Rivera, who had been benched for weak hitting, entered the game in the sixth inning yesterday in time to make a sensational catch and hit a ninth inning game winning homer as the St. Louis Browns beat the Philadelphia Athletics 9 to 8 in a slugfest at Shibe Park.

Old Satchel Paige, the fourth St. Louis pitcher, recorded his first victory of the season for the Browns who rallied from a 5 to 0 deficit to win.

"Sad Sam" Zoldak, left hander making his first start of the season, was staked to his early lead with the help of Gus Zernial's first home run of the season. Last year's American League home run king hit for the circuit with one on in the first. But Zoldak couldn't stand prosperity and left in the fifth for Dick Fowler who retired in the sixth for losing pitcher Carl Scheib.

Richards Fined For Pushing Ump

Boston (AP) — Chicago White Sox manager Paul Richards said yesterday he had been fined $100 for pushing Umpire Charley Berry in Sunday's doubleheader against the New York Yankees.

Blasts

Richards' pitcher, Saul Rogovin, drew a fine of $50 for verbal blasts at the umpire.

Before yesterday's White Sox-Red Sox game, the Red Sox announced that pitcher Harry Taylor's contract had been assigned outright to Louisville.

Pirates Send Beard To Coast

Pittsburgh (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates released outfielder Teddy Beard outright today to the Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast League yesterday.

Fourth Try

Beard, up for his fourth try with the Pirates, batted only .182 in 15 games this season. His release brings the Bucs roster to 28, three above the May 15 limit.

Pale Hose Take Measure Of Bosox, 4-2

Boston (AP) — The Chicago White Sox salvaged the final game of their three game series yesterday by defeating the Boston Red Sox 4-2 as Saul Rogovin threw a five hitter and Ed Stewart produced a two-run homer, his third of the year, in the seventh inning.

Scoring

The Pale Hose, trailing 0-1, scored twice in the fourth as Ed Robinson hit the first of his two singles with one out. Sam Mele tripled to right to score Robinson and Mele counted on Phil Masi's single to center.

Starter and loser Ray Scarborough then settled down until two were out in the Chicago seventh when Ted Lepcio bobbled Nelson Fox's hard ground ball and missed the runner at first with a wide peg. Stewart belted a homer into the rightfield stands for the final markers.

Giants Obtain Wilson From Sox

St. Louis (AP)—The New York Giants finally bought outfielder George Wilson from the Chicago White Sox yesterday for "over the $10,000 waiver price."

Deal Folds

The deal originally was to send catcher Sal Yvors to Chicago for Wilson but that stalled when the Giants were unable to get waivers on the catcher.

Strict Curbs Expected

Richmond, Va. (AP) — The Southern Conference is expected to slap strict curbs on lengths of athletic seasons when representatives of the 17 schools open their spring meeting today. A spokesman said limitations probably would also be placed on the number of contests a member may play during a season.

New York, (AP)—Slambang Sammy Giuliani, an aggressive but crude young middleweight from Stamford, Conn., trades punches tonight with oft-beaten Johnny Williams, Montgomery, Ala., in a ten rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

Giuliani is a nine to five favorite over the 25-year-old trial horse.

The 10 p. m. (EDT) radio-television bout winds up the boxing season at St. Nicks. Next Friday the pugilists will move to Madison Square Garden as the circus departs.

Study Reveals Important Grid Video Facts

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

New York (AP)—Television hurts collegiate football attendence — badly.

This conclusion, along with several others, was reached through a year-long study made, at a cost of $50,000, by the National Opinion Research Center of the University of Chicago for the National Collegiate A. A.

The NORC report, embodied in a 30-page booklet replete with graphs and statistical tables, was released yesterday after the NCAA Television Committee ended a two-day meeting to plan for a 1952 program of controlled television.

Other conclusions reached were:

"Attendance is particularly off in those 'heavily saturated' TV areas where 40 per cent or more families are set-owners.

Success

"The NCAA's 1951 experimental plan of limiting telecasting of college games succeeded in reducing television's harmful effects on attendance. In 1950 . . . the difference between the relative attendance trends of colleges exposed to television competition and those not exposed was significantly greater than it was in 1951."

Challenging previous studies, which seemed to indicate that television had only a temporary effect on attendance and might in the long run prove beneficial, the NORC study indicates a steady decline in attendance coinciding with the growth of television.

Robert A. Hall, Yale athletic director and chairman of the NCAA television committee, characterized the report as a "complete refutation" of reports made to the NCAA by Jerry Jordan, who made the previous studies, and of the stands taken by Pennsylvania, Notre Dame and other colleges favoring unrestricted television of football.

This and other factors brought to light were carefully considered by the NCAA committee in drawing up a plan for further controlled television in 1952. The detailed program will be released after it has been approved by the NCAA membership. The committee previously had indicated that it expects to provide more televised games next fall than there were in 1951 and to include more small colleges in the program.

Johnson Denied Boxing License

Philadelphia (AP) — Honeychile Johnson, Philadelphia welterweight boxer yesterday was denied a boxing license in Pennsylvania.

Statement

John "Ox" Da Grosa, Pennsylvania state athletic commissioner, said Johnson's application for a license was denied after the commission learned the boxer declined to keep a verbal agreement to fight in Harrisburg last night.

Senators, Tigers Battle To Deadlock In Eleven Innings

Washington, (AP)—Washington and Detroit played a 4-4 tie yesterday in a game called at the end of the 11th to permit the Tigers to catch a train. The game will be resumed at a later date from the point of suspension.

The Tigers grabbed a 4-2 lead in the eighth inning against Sandy Consuegra, but the Senators picked up a run in the eighth and tied the score in the ninth against Billy Hoeft and Hal White.

Leads Attack

Pat Mullin led the Tigers' 11-hit attack with two doubles and a single.

The Tigers staked Marlin Stuart to a lead in the third when they clipped Don Johnson for two runs, but the Senators got a run in the fifth on singles by Eddie Yost, Jim Busby and Archie Wilson.

Two Escape County Jail At Beaver

Beaver (AP)—Two prisoners sawed and slugged their way out of the Beaver County jail yesterday.

Warden Cecil Baldwin identified them as Marion Michelotti, 28, of Pittsburgh, and Fred J. Henry of Rochester, Pa.

Baldwin said the men slugged Turnkey Wilson A. Rhodes after squirming through a 12-by-8 inch opening in a cellblock.

Rhodes quoted Henry as saying: "I'll kill somebody but I'll get out of here."

Baying bloodhounds lost the trail of the pair along the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad tracks four miles from the prison.

Michellotti was awaiting trial on charges of robbing the Rochester Elks Club. Henry was slated to be transferred to Western Penitentiary to serve a 7-14 year term for breaking and entering.

President's Description Of World Situation As 'Grave' Taken To Mean Just That—Roberts

By J. M. Roberts Jr.
Associated Press News Analyst

President Truman has a long record of optimistic off-the-cuff statements about international affairs. When he, in turn, says they are grave, he can expect to be taken at his word.

Once we were "nearer peace" than two years ago. Sometimes he has been "always optimistic." These expressions have always been made against the background of determination to do the hard things—rearm, fight in Korea, contain Soviet aggression.

It is only natural that optimism should be the President's mein when he is discussing the success of this program, and that he should adopt gravity when Congress or the Allies are interfering with it.

At the moment, Congress is in the process of denying some of the funds he thinks he needs, and labor-managment disputes threaten the vital defense resources. The context of his remarks, his statements that these things play into the hands of Stalin, show clearly that these are the things uppermost in his mind now.

It is also true that the Allies are now entering what they have long expected to be the critical period of the rearmament program.

The next 18 to 24 months will see the end of the time when Russia might hope to conduct a successful war under present conditions. The odds all seem to be that if Russia does not strike within this period, she will have to take years organizing her Eastern European and Asiatic satellites for a vastly greater effort than would be required now.

That would mean, very probably, that the time for a change of regime in Russia due to the deaths of Stalin and other top leaders of the moment would be bridged by a time of enforced military idleness and a time of opportunity for change in Russian objectives. The purchase of time for these changes, coupled with the hope that improved Russian economic conditions would reduce the pressure for continued expansion at the expense of others, has been a fundamental concept of the containment program.

Everything now depends, therefore, on whether Russia's leaders will submit to this process, or whether they will take the last long chance while it still exists.

The pressure on Russia for what she would term a "preventive" war is going to be very great as she sees the power of West Germany being added to the growing Allied strength.

Not only is it a time of gravity. The very air is likely to scream with tension before the die is finally cast.

Indianapolis (AP) — American Legionnaires will make a mass pilgrimage to France after their national convention in New York Aug. 24-28.

The Legion's national executive committee has approved the pilgrimage to help dedicate a memorial to dead of World Wars 1 and II in the American military cemetery in Suresne, a Paris suburb, on Sept. 13.

It will be led by Donald R. Wilson, national commander. The last pilgrimage was in 1947.

William Fox, Film Pioneer, Dies At 73

New York (AP) — William Fox, 73, one-time multi-millionaire giant of the movie industry, died yesterday after a career as fabulous as any of his pictures.

He had a personal fortune of 35 million dollars before the depression but went bankrupt in 1936.

Despite this comedown, he was reported "well off" at his death. He had been living quietly for some years on Long Island after serving a prison term for trying to influence a bankruptcy verdict.

Fox started his career with one shabby theater, a Brooklyn nickelodeon. Later he operated more than 250 theaters worth 100 million dollars.

Among his great movies were "What Price Glory" and "Seventh Heaven."

His stars included Theda Bara, the original screen "vamp," and Annette Kellerman, who made the one-piece bathing suit famous.

Two twists of fate put Fox on the pathway to fame and fortune.

The first occurred when he was a $17-a-week pants presser on the lower East Side of New York. His boss refused him a $3 raise and Fox quit.

The second came when he was talked into investing his savings of $1,600 in the Brooklyn nickelodeon. The owner let patrons in free to convince Fox that business was good. Fox thought the crowds were paying their way in.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.85 plus tax at (A. B. Wyckoff's).—Adv.

It Will Be in Demand When It's 10 Years Old!

Take a new Cadillac home with you—use it with common prudence and give it reasonable service and care—

—and ten years from today, there should be many, many people anxious to drive it and call it their own!

The soundness of this prediction is attested on used car lots throughout America. Every day, eager buyers are coming into possession of Cadillacs built before the war—and are doing so with pride and anticipation.

There are many and vital reasons for this enduring value of a Cadillac car.

First, of course, is quality. Through the years, Cadillac cars have been built to the highest standard it is practical to enforce in the production of a motor car.

The watchword, the goal and the inspiration of those who design and build for Cadillac are one and the same—how good and how enduring can this car be made?

Year in and year out, the search for improvement goes relentlessly ahead.

Small wonder that the car keeps its youth and its performance—far, far beyond the normal span.

And then there is its sound and enduring beauty. Cadillac styling is a development—with continuous improvement and refinement. Older Cadillacs, of course, are not to be mistaken for the current ones; but, regardless of age, they are still Cadillacs—and are distinguished and dignified in their own individual rights.

And then, of course, there is the wonderful Cadillac name—which never loses its significance, no matter how old the car which bears it. Year for year and age for age, a Cadillac is always aside and apart from other cars.

It is not unusual at all for a Cadillac to pass through four or five or even six different families—each one owning it with pride and driving it with pleasure.

Think of this when you buy your next car. If you get a Cadillac—there can be no doubt that others will be eager to own it when it has served you the normal span.

Why not come in—and see and drive this wonderful car? We'd be happy to welcome you any time.

Resorts Expect Busy Season; PSES Announces Job Openings

By James B. Gaffney

There's an overwhelming demand for resort employes. This statement from Jack Muschock, manager of the East Stroudsburg office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service is not too surprising, in view of the accompaning yawns from every corner, a real indication that vacation approaches.

With banks mailing vacation club checks to prospective sojourners and relaxationists, the influx is near and the Poconos stand paramount on the list of calendar -watching people.

Muschock said the concentration is on chambermaids, handymen, clerk-typists, stenographers, waiters and waitresses and cooks and chefs. About the latter professions Muschock says "This may sound like double talk, but actually a chef is one qualified to prepare and purchase food, while the cook is one who prepares the food only."

Two new business houses will make their debut in Stroudsburg in the near future.

Jack Muehlhan, operator of a shoe repair shop on S. Sixth St., just off Main eyed construction workers avidly this week as they continued work on the new brick structure.

One store room will be 18 by 30 feet and the other just three feet wider. The addition also will give Community Jewelers an extra 18-foot extension to their store.

Muehlhan said an apartment over the stores will be occupied by his family. He resided there prior to razing the property in March and expects to move in by the end of next month. Identity of the new businesses was not revealed by the owner. He said the names of leasees would be told later.

Flagstaff Foods recently began a new advertising campaign in The Daily Record. Every week Flagstaff will be sending home its advertising messages to the readers of this newspaper. Eleven different Flagstaff items will be featured in this hard hitting, consistent advertising campaign which has the slogan "Taste and Compare" as its theme throughout.

A Wind Gap resident and veteran of the U. S. Army, Ellis Griffith has been elected manager of the Monroe County Milk Producers Cooperative Association.

Griffith succeeds F. Layton Gearhart who resigned two weeks ago. The new manager worked for the coop from 1941 to 1945 when he entered the Army. After 21 months service, a year of which was spent in the Pacific Theatre, he was honorably discharged and entered the employ of the Citizens Bank of Wind Gap. After two years at that post he opened his own bookkeeping and accounting offices and accepted the managership with the coop after a year and a half in business for himself.

Walter Anglemeyer, president of the board of directors was in charge of the meeting when Griffith was named to the office. The new coop manager resides with his family in Wind Gap.

Dr. David G. Peifly who opened his dental office Monday at 723 Main St., Stroudsburg is no stranger to this section.

A native of Bangor, where his father, Dr. O. H. Peifly maintains his dental office, he has long been active in veterans affairs.

Honorably discharged from the U. S. Army Dental Corps last Thursday, he immediately came here and reopened the office of the late Dr. Monroe B. LaBarre.

While in service Dr. Peifly served in the Pacific Theatre and in many camps in the states. With a total of nine years service he returned to civilian life after attaining the rank of Major, ORC.

He was dental surgeon for the 25th division during World War Two in the Philippines and served with the occupation forces in Japan and several years ago was at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C.

His last post was at the U. S. Army Hospital, Camp Gordon, Ga.

He will make his residence here with his wife and children, a daughter, Sandy, 13 and son, David, 10.

Mother's Day To Be Observed

Delaware Water Gap—Mrs. N. B. Hostetter will speak on "Mothers of the Bible" here Sunday when a special Mother's Day service is held at the Methodist Church at 11:15 a.m.

Miss Barbara Christian will sing "Whispering Hope" and flower arrangements for the service will be by Mrs. John Staples and girls from the Sunday School.

Also scheduled to take part in the program are Mrs. Willard Kitchen, Mrs. Delbert Davis, Mrs. Harold Akers, Mrs. Harold Leightner, Mrs. Willard Jennings and Mrs. Layton Zimmerman.

FRED POTCHER JR. (left) and Frank Talasz, partners in the firm Penn Craft Manufacturing Co., East Stroudsburg, display a railing they just finished at their shop. Yesterday afternoon the custom-made banister was installed in a home outside Stroudsburg.

Plant Expansion Hinges On Availability Of Steel

The eighteenth of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Aim of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James Gaffney

A futile attempt to secure more steel is the only reason an East Stroudsburg firm has not expanded its productivity and branched out to employ more people.

Penn Craft Manufacturing Co. at 79 Ridgeway St. currently produces a manifold of heavy-duty metalic work but because of a low priority rating they have not faired too well where the allocation of this now precious metal is concerned.

A partnership, the concern is operated by Fred Potcher Jr. and Frank Talasz and while both men are the only means of production at present, their products have been shipped to all parts of the east. And by giving an assist to another area industry, their component parts are spread throughout the nation.

Started as a hobby by Potcher, the younger partner in the firm, the firm was founded only three years ago and is anxious to expand.

Potcher made iron railings for individuals and the installation was completed by Talasz, who at that time was considered a builder. The men decided to pool their efforts and the company was born. Today by combining their abilities they turn out custom-made ornamental iron work, railings, fences, do welding and brazing and make practically anything the individual or contractor needs for the home.

As Talasz explained "We make anything from a new part to an arch support to heavy-duty fences."

Both men, who are veterans of World War Two, applaud strongly the cooperation they received and are getting now from other industrial plants in the area.

Many of the resort hotels in the Poconos have come to the partners to build railings for sun decks, sign brackets and the host of decorative iron trimmings that are necessary and, at the same time, add color to the environs surrounding their properties.

Practically all work is custom-made, but the men will design ornaments if the customer so desires.

One of their largest completed products of the local plant were sold to a department store for use as rug racks. Slate quoit board, lawn furniture, lamps, modernistic tables and many personalized sign racks for homes and stores are made by Penn Craft.

In installing guard railings another appealing factor to their work is that molten lead is poured into the four inch holes drilled in the cement. It is packed first with steel shims and later calked against interference by the weather.

Penn Craft works cooperatively with another area firm, Rim Rock Co., owned by Val-Robbins at McMichaels. Robbins operates a wood working firm and one of his best items, a fruit bowl used as a centerpiece, contains the metal spiral metallic work that is completed in East Stroudsburg.

Among the many pieces of equipment that dot the workshop of Penn Craft are lathes, punch and drill presses, saws, grinders and welding equipment.

After searching for over a year for some method of preserving their finished metal products, the partners finally came across a system called bonderizing. It etches steel and applies a coating for greater paint adhesion. The partners claim once this process is applied to their metal the customer never has to worry about the weather rusting the article.

Emphasizing that quality rather than quantity is their main selling point, Potcher and Talasz said they spent a great deal of time testing various paints and found the more expensive ones proved to be the cheaper ones for them, since they never are called to a customer's home to repaint their ornaments.

Because of an NPA regulation that has halted the allocation of bronze, this is one metal the firm is not able to get in any degree. They also work with brass and aluminum but both metals are in critical categories and practically impossible to buy.

But once the steel market opens wide and the controls are lifted, Potcher and Talasz are destined to expand. They already have been contacted to make the move but knowing that materials for their type of business are not to be had, have held off and hope that soon they may grow. When that happens it is a certainty there will be employment for many men, especially those with skilled trades, will be needed to assist in the operation.

High School to COLLEGE

(Editors Note: This is the first in a series of articles on career opportunities for high school and college students in important vocational fields. They are based on a prospectus prepared by Penn College, Cleveland, and were prepared in cooperation with business, industry and the professions.)

College freshman takes manual dexterity test.

PSYCHOLOGY

Man studied mathematics and astronomy in 4,000 B. C. He investigated logic, art, architecture, and government before the birth of Christ. But it was not until the work of Henry James in the early 1900's that men began a systematic inquiry into psychology — his most vital science.

What is Psychology

Psychology is the study of human behavior and consciousness Feelings, emotions, attitudes, the nervous system, and the human brain are its area of inquiry; psychological tests, therapy, and counseling are its weapons in the constant struggle for adjustment and happiness.

So You Want to be a Psychologist!

Guidance of human beings is important, exacting work and can be trusted only to highly skilled, trained personnel. Students planning to enter this field will need a liberal arts degree with a psychology major and will probably want to do graduate work to qualify for the more desirable jobs. Some branches of this widely varied field are:

Psychometrist: Qualified by specialized training to administer, grade, and interpret psychological tests. Can work for industry, schools, colleges, guidance centers.

Industrial Psychologist: Works for industry or consulting firm. Job is selection, placement, and promotion of employes, improving working conditions, industrial counseling. This is one of the newest fields of psychology and is rapidly expanding.

School Psychology: More and more psychologists are being employed by public schools. Problem is student adjustment, causality of psychological difficulties, and vocational and educational guidance.

Teaching of Psychology: Teaching in college or university. Usually engaged in research and counseling. Graduate degrees are a must!

Consulting Psychologist: Counseling and rehabilitation in private practice. Requirements are a doctor's degree and some fruitful years of experience.

The Psychologist's Reward

The field of psychology is vital, fascinating, expanding, and constantly changing. Psychologists gain high professional standing in the community, plus the extreme satisfaction of helping human beings in trouble.

College Training in Psychology

Subjects required by most colleges are: general psychology, personality and adjustment, abnormal psychology, experimental psychology, industrial psychology, plus a wide variety of electives in history, sociology, philosophy, biology, English, and fine arts.

Graduate study would include a deeper examination of experimental and clinical techniques, advanced work in the student's field of specialization, and in some cases, complete psychological analysis and therapy by distinguished psychologists and psychiatrists.

Truman Views World Crisis With Alarm

Washington, (AP)—President Truman called the world situation very grave yesterday. He said Congress' move to cut defense spending and the current labor-management disputes are right down Stalin's alley.

But the President added a flat prediction that World War Three will be avoided if Congress votes all he asks for the defense of this country and its allies, and if American industrial production can be kept at a high level.

Truman offered these serious thoughts in a generally good-humored news conference on his 68th birthday and the seventh anniversary of Germany's military collapse in World War Two.

With a robust grin, the President declared that he feels like a man of 28. And he said that once he leaves the White House next Jan. 20 he proposes to spend 10 years having a good time and doing just as he damn pleases.

Truman said he'd like to travel abroad, among other things.

Asked if he might visit Russian Premier Stalin as a private citizen, he replied that he would go nowhere and see nobody that might embarass the next President in his conduct of foreign policy.

Truman said he had no intention at this time of throwing his support behind any one of the Democrats who hope to succeed him. But he added that, as an American citizen, he doesn't propose to gag himself if he does decide to express a preference.

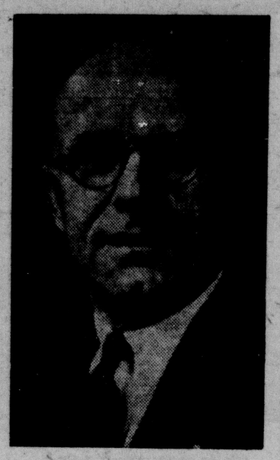

He told newsmen, too, they could be sure the Democratic platform would be based on his Jefferson-Jackson day dinner address and would be a good one.

Truman wouldn't talk about the steel situation, saying that's before the Supreme Court. The court is to hear opening arguments next Monday on the constitutionality of his seizure of the steel industry.

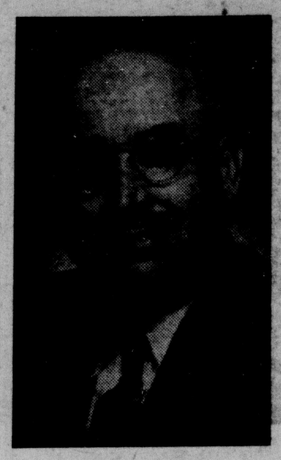

He said he is working very hard to get a settlement of the oil strike and is hopeful of early success. At this time, he said, no consideration is being given to use of the Taft-Hartley act in the oil dispute.

Three Veteran Staff Members To Retire At Close Of College Term; Successors Chosen

Dr. Joseph F. Noonan, president of East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, yesterday announced the approval by the Board of Trustees of retirement from active teaching and administrative duty for three of the college's employes.

Retiring from active teaching and supervisory duties are Dr. Charles J. Naegle, dean of instruction; Dr. Thomas J. Breitwieser, director of teacher training and placement, and A. L. Helmes, business manager for the college.

Succeeding Dr. Naegle as dean of instruction will be Dr. Theodore N. Moore.

Dr. Breitwieser's position as director of teacher training and placement has been assigned to Dr. Nathan G. Meyer.

Mrs. Helmes' successor will be Melvin Schissler, formerly of Lehigh University in Bethlehem.

Announcement of all three appointments was made simultaneously with the notices of retirement by Dr. Noonan's office.

Dr. Naegle's retirement comes as a climax to 32 years of service to the college. He came to the then East Stroudsburg State Normal School in September, 1920 as director of teacher training.

Prior to his appointment here he had served as principal of the high schools in Kane and Meadville, Pa.; supervising principal of the Sauquoit, N. Y. public schools and the city superintendency at Corry, Pa.

After two years as director of teacher training with the local college he was appointed to the position of director of extension work from East Stroudsburg State Normal School. During the years he held this post he traveled extensively in Northeastern Pennsylvania, in addition to teaching education and administration courses on the campus.

In 1933, upon retirement of A. D. Wannemaker, Dr. Naegle was appointed dean of instruction, a post which he has held since that time.

Dr. Naegle has been extremely active in community life throughout the 40 years of his academic career, having been, at one time or another, president of the Stroudsburg Rotary, chairman of the Community Chest budget, and district chairman of the Boy Scouts of America.

He now serves as chairman of the Board of Trustees, East Stroudsburg Methodist Church; a director of the Keystone Building and Loan Association; a member of the advisory board to the Salvation Army and national representative of the Boy Scouts of America from this area.

Dr. Naegle holds degrees in public school and college administration from three universities. He earned his Ph. B. and A.B. degrees at Syracuse University; an A.M. from Columbia and a Ph. D from New York University.

Of the more than 10,000 students who have been graduated from the college, Dean Naegle has personally seen more than 7,000 receive their degrees.

Included among these 7,000 have been his own son and daughter, The son, Lester now lives in Succasunna, N. J. The daughter, Mrs. James Morgan, now makes her home in East Stroudsburg.

Dr. Breitwieser came to the college (which has been accredited as a State Teachers College in that year) in 1926, having perviously taught in the public schools in Tipton county, Indiana; a teachers college at Terre Haute, Ind., and a number of years as dean of faculty at Ball State Teachers College in Muncie, Ind.

He was named to the position of director of the East Stroudsburg Laboratory School in 1926. Fourteen years later, in 1940, he became Director of Teacher Training and Placement, his present assignment.

Dr. Breitwieser began teaching in 1904. He received his A.B., Masters and Ph.D. degrees from Indiana University, Bloomington and did graduate study work at both Columbia and N.Y.U.

He is a past president of the Kiwanis Club; president of the East Stroudsburg National Bank; president of the Keystone Building and Loan Association; member of the board of trustees, East Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church; a director of the General Hospital board; and is active in the work of both the Children's Aid Society and the Monroe County Crippled Children's Association.

In the past Dr. Breitwieser has served on the board of directors of the Chamber of Com-

Truce Talks Beclouded By Dodd Seizure

Munsan, Korea, Friday (AP)—Korean truce talks, near collapse over prisoner exchange, were clouded further today with the seizure of Bridg. Gen. Francis T. Dodd by Red war prisoners on Koje Island.

The meeting at Panmunjom today lasted only 10 minutes. Another meeting was called for tomorrow.

Communist negotiators are already angry over the large number of Allied-held prisoners who won't return to Red soil. They are expected to use the incident for new charges that the Allies mistreat prisoners.

The news that Dodd, Koje Island commander, was seized Wednesday reached here at a time when the negotiating atmosphere was electric and no new sparks were needed. Dodd still is held hostage.

A U. N. Command spokesman declined comment on what use he thought the Red truce negotiators would make of Dodd's seizure.

Communist delegates Thursday accused the Allies of refusing to negotiate on the crucial issue of prisoner exchange.

Yet they brushed aside a second United Nations Command request for an indefinite recess and called for another session today.

As the tenth month of negotiations ends today, U. N. negotiators were leaving no room for Communist haggling over the prisoner issue.

The U. N. delegates were committed to a stand of no retreat from the principle that captives in Allied hands never will be forced to return to Red rule against their wishes.

Allied delegates were fortified by statements of full support from President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson and high government officials of Britain and Canada.

The U. N. offered to return 70,000 prisoners who said they would go to Communist territory without being forced. But about 60,000 Chinese and North Korean soldiers declared they would rather die than return to Communist soil.

4% Pay Hike In Store For Servicemen

Washington (AP) — A four per cent pay increase for all persons in the nation's armed services was agreed upon yesterday as a congressional compromise. It would cost the government nearly half a billion dollars a year.

Termed a "cost of living" boost, the measure would raise the pay of 3½ million persons in the Army, Air Force, Navy, Marines and four smaller uniformed services.

It would also boost food and rent allowances 14 per cent for every one from private to general.

Both the House and Senate must approve the compromise and President Truman must sign it before it becomes effective.

Dropped from the measure was a Senate proposal of $45 a month extra combat pay for front-line troops in Korea.

Taft Differs With Ike On Foreign Aid

Washington, (AP)—Two leading contenders for the Republican presidential nomination split sharply yesterday over the size of the foreign aid program needed to guarantee American security during the next 12 months.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower said congressional proposals to cut foreign aid by one billion dollars would be "heavily and seriously felt" and that cuts substantially beyond that point might endanger U. S. security.

"I do not at all agree," Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio declared at a Hartford, Conn., news conference when informed of Eisenhower's statement.

The senator said a cut of even two billion dollars, bringing mutual security spending down to about six billion for the next fiscal year, "would in no way endanger the program or the security of the United States."

Eisenhower, commander of the North Atlantic Treaty forces, said his statement about aid funds was based on the assumption that the financial computation on President Truman's $7,900,000,000 foreign aid bill have been "competently made on the basis of our military requirements."

Ridgway Orders Use Of Force To Free U.S. General

Pusan, Korea, Friday (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway has ordered the U. S. Eighth Army "to take whatever action is required and to use whatever force is necessary" to free Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd, a hostage of Communist prisoners of War on Koje Island for more than two days.

The Red prisoners today continued to ignore an Army demand for his release.

Dodd, who was sent to Koje several months ago to tighten up control of the stormy prison compounds, was seized Wednesday by hothead Communist prisoners.

He was reported well. Apparently Dodd was attempting to negotiate his own release.

Eighth Army Headquarters said at 9:30 a.m. (8:30 p.m., EDT, Thursday) that messages from Dodd were being received by telephone from the Communist compound on Koje.

It said American-cooked meals were being passed to the general through the compound gates. Prisoners in the compound were quiet last night, headquarters added.

Ridgway, who leaves Tokyo Monday to become supreme commander of Allied forces in Europe, called the seizure of Dodd a flagrant disregard of authority.

He said the United Nations Command had given the Communist prisoners fair treatment and would continue to do so.

He gave his stern orders to Gen James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, last night before ending his farewell visit to Korea.

Ridgway said the Red prisoners had made no ransom demands.

Another officer was seized but escaped in an unexplained manner.

Brig. Gen. Charles F. Colson, who took over as commander of the Southeast Korean Island stockade when Red prisoners seized Dodd, demanded release of the general.

Dodd last night requested that a hospital representative and 1,000 sheets of paper be sent into the compound. The reason for the request was not disclosed—other than it had been demanded by the prisoners.

The Second Logistical Command in Seoul, which is in close contact with Pusan and Koje, said that Colson had not sent the men or paper into the compound. The command added, tersely:

"They have at the gates 1,000 sheets of paper which the POWs demanded last night. The paper was not delivered to the POWs."

The command said Dodd "is all right and is being treated fine." It said "he feels strongly that a meeting this morning may be the final meeting."

The reference apparently was to Dodd's efforts to obtain his own release.

Allies Turn Red Base Into Flaming Ruin

Seoul, (AP)—Allied war planes yesterday turned a big North Korea base into flaming ruin with the mightiest air blow of the entire Korean War, the Fifth Air Force said.

The base that felt the fury of Allied air power was Suan, a big supply complex 35 miles southeast of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital. It covers eight square miles.

The first F-80 Shooting Star flashed over Suan as the sun broke over the surrounding hills, let go with demolition bombs, and from then on until sundown the defenders of Suan knew no peace.

The Air Force, in calling this the biggest single attack of the war, said wave on wave of jet fighter-bombers and prop-driven Mustangs, and Corsairs, Skyraiders and Panther Jets of the attached 1st Marine Air Wing thundered over.

Court Upholds Real Estate Transfer Tax

Harrisburg, (AP)—The Dauphin County Court yesterday upheld the constitutionality of the 1951 act imposing a one per cent tax on real estate transfers in Pennsylvania.

Judge Karl E. Richards handed down the court's decision in a suit seeking to declare the levy invalid.

The tax was part of a package passed by the 1951 Legislature to raise 113 million dollars in new revenue during the next two years. The levy was estimated to yield 20 millon dollars.

The court dismissed the suit brought by the Morris Amusement Co. and Lawrence Tornetta, both of Norristown.

In their suit against the tax, the complainants asserted that the act was unconstitutional because it violates a section of the Constitution requiring that all taxes be unifrom.

They said a provision exempting real estate transfers between parent and child, and husband and wife from payment of the tax is discriminatory.

Gross Calls More Cops 'Grafters'

New York (AP)—Two more of ex-mayor William O'Dwyer's "honest" police brass were labeled grafters yesterday by boss bookie Harry Gross.

They were former Chief Inspector August Flath and former Chief of Detectives William Whalen.

"Honest as the day is long" O'Dwyer called Flath, Whalen and former Police Commissioner William P. O'Brien in the midst of the probe of Gross' 20-million-dollar-a-year gambling ring.

O'Brien was named yesterday by Gross as sharing in the bookie's million-dollar-a-year protection payoffs when O'Brien was inspector. O'Brien called the accusation a lie.

"These are vicious, base lies," Flath said of Gross' testimony, "and I wish to state categorically that I have never met with this man, nor received anything from him in my whole life."

Under cross examination, Gross testified that some high names he originally gave Brooklyn authorities are still a secret to this day. He said:

"I gave testimony of names much higher than these. Perhaps . . . someone was paid a piece of change."

The long-silent Gross, who broke up an earlier police trial by his stubborn silence, has been singing at the top of his voice for the past two days at the departmental trial of five policemen.

He has identified more than 100 cops he said took his crooked money—from beat patrolmen right up to the former top brass of the world's biggest police force.

Army Reveals Details Of Atomic Artillery Weapon

New York, (AP)—The Army boldly claimed last night its first atomic artillery weapon can "hit its target under any weather conditions and give ground troops the kind of devastating close support never before available in warfare."

Secretary Frank Pace, in an address laying heavy emphasis on the Army's importance in atomic warfare, revealed for the first time some official specifications on the atomic gun, which has been tested with non-atomic ammunition. He said:

"It is essentially an artillery piece—but with immeasurably greater power than any artillery hitherto known.

"Carried on a platform suspended between two engine cabs at front and rear, this highly mobile weapon can travel at a speed of about 35 miles per hour on highways. Weighing about 75 tons, it can cross bridges which Army engineers are already trained to build for present heavy divisional equipment. It can travel cross-country, fit into a landing ship designed for amphibious operations. It can fire with accuracy comparable to conventional artillery and tests indicate it is much more accurate at long ranges."

Speaking at a convention of the National Wood Manufacturers Association, Pace said that in addition to "tactical" atomic bombs for use by aircraft, there is being developed atomic artillery which can outrange the gun-type weapon—"guided missiles and rockets to receive atomic warheads." Units have been training for the use of such weapons and the program is being increased, Pace said.

Baby Tumbles Into Running Washing Machine

Evansville, Ind. (AP)—A 22-month-old boy died yesterday in the tub of a running washing machine.

Coroner Herman T. Combs said he had not determined whether the boy drowned or was beaten to death by the agitator.

The mother, Mrs. Edward T. Whitner, said the boy, Teddy, apparently had tumbled into the tub from a chair onto which he had climbed. She was in the yard hanging up clothes at the time.

House Approves Fair Trade Bill

Washington, (AP)—Legislation to give Federal sanction to state laws allowing price-fixing on trade-marked goods was passed yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

Passage was by standing vote of 196 to 10.

Known as the "Fair Trade" bill and sponsored by Rep. McGuire (D-Conn) with House Commerce Committee backing, the bill permits fair trade laws of 45 states to be enformed against non-signers of pricing agreements between retailers and distributors or manufacturers.

These agreements generally provide for a retail sales price below which an article may not be sold. Enforcement is through civil suits for damages.

Red Casualties Rise

Washington, (AP)—The Army yesterday estimated total enemy military casualties in Kofea at 1,683,545 through April 29. This represented an increase of 17,476 in the last two weeks.

Pension Bills Pass

Washington, (AP)—The House passed by voice vote yesterday a pair of bills aimed at boosting veterans' payments an estimated 202 million dollars a year.

U. S. Agrees To Pay Truckers For FDR Seizure

Washington (AP) — The government agreed yesterday to pay 8½ million dollars to settle claims of six times that amount growing out of its World War Two seizure of the trucking industry in the Midwest.

The Justice Department, which made the announcement, said this will "completely discharge" the damage claims filed by 91 trucking firms as a result of the 1944 seizure of their lines by President Roosevelt.

The seizure, ordered because of a strike over wage demands, was in effect for a year. The companies' claims for reimbursement for use of their equipment and for a wage increase granted by the government after seizure have been in controversy ever since.

Ickes Papers Given

Washington (AP)— The personal papers of the late Harold L. Ickes, including letters and speeches written over a 44-year period, have been given to the Library of Congress by Mrs. Ickes.

Complaint Filed Against Debellis

Philadelphia (AP)—The U.S. Department of Labor yesterday filed a civil complaint in federal district court against Philip P. Debellis of Roseto, Pa., on charges of violating the Fair Labor Standards Act.

The department said Debellis, owner of the Lorraine Manufacturing Co., Northampton, Pa., paid less than the minimum wage an hour, failed to pay proper overtime, employed a person under 16 years old and moved these illegally produced goods in interstate commerce.

Charges Dismissed

Waynesburg (AP) — Charges against three Waynesburg College students who were arrested on charges of polluting water after taking a swim in the community reservoir were dropped at a hearing last night.

Denationalization Measure Offered

London, (AP) — Prime Minister Churchill's Conservative government took the first step yesterday toward returning a big slice of the British trucking industry to private ownership.

It published this trucking scheme as the first of two slated denationalization measures. An iron and steel denationalization bill is scheduled to come along later.

Laborites have given notice they will fight both measures tooth and nail in Parliament. Strong trade union groups lined up against the proposed legislation.

Aviation Gasoline Delivery Limited

Washington (AP) — The government yesterday forbade the delivery of aviation gasoline to resellers or consumers who have as much as a three-day supply on hand.

Secretary of the Interior Chapman, who took the action, said it was "a further move to conserve scarce supplies" because of the nation-wide strike of oilworkers which has affected roughly one third of the industry. Chapman acted in his capacity as petroleum administrator for defense.

The order provides that when a consumer's or re-seller's supply falls below the three-day level, he may get a delivery in his customary quantity, even though this raises his inventory above the three-day limit.

22 Cars Derailed

Record Writer Discovers United States Has Become Music Center Of World

Editor's Note: Following is the 33rd in a series of reports from Britain and Europe by Ruth Haller Ottaway, mother of James H. Ottaway, publisher of The Daily Record. The writer is an experienced journalist and traveler and her reports from abroad in recent years have received a favorable reception by Record readers.

By Ruth Haller Ottaway

London—An overall picture of musical conditions in France and England gives radio the center of interest. This statement may be surprising coming from the professional ilk who might be expected to damn radio and its overwhelming amount of jazz as against the classics. We do have a justifiable wail against crooners (where is the American man who makes love like that?), against sweet and swing music, tunes that are all alike, and sheer, ear-splitting noise. But we appreciate our finest jazz bands whose players are among the world's most skilful, and whose music is orchestration at its cleverest. American jazz has spread all over Europe, is at its height in Paris, and in London we frequently found the best-trained musicians playing jazz marvelously. But, strangely enough, for the performance of the best music of the past and also of experimental and modern music, we have the radio of France and England to thank.

Mrs. Ottaway

The BBC has a so-called Third Program, loftily indifferent to popular appeal, which plays both classic and modern music unabridged, and as regular features presents poetry hours and lectures on the arts and sciences. It means as much to the English people as Oxford and Cambridge as a cultural heritage. Sir William Haley, the director-general, says, "Let it enable the intelligent public to hear the best that has been said or thought or composed in the world."

Government subsidized, but run independently, as is the BBC, the keen and versatile author-composer, Henri Barraud, has made the Radiodiffusion famous for its presentation of new musical works by its fine Nationale and Symphonique orchestras. In both France and England the regular symphony orchestras are forced by the public and the box-office to keep on playing the old and the familiar. The men must subsist. The orchestras must survive. The radio orchestras rehearse and play the year around, and therefore are the best. Quite different is the picture in our country with our ability to finance our fine orchestras with good rehearsal time and longer seasons.

You do not need to be a musical expert to enjoy music festivals, and you will find many awaiting you. A grea stir is being made in Paris in preparation for the great Festival of Music and the Arts, a propaganda move to show Soviet Russia that the Western World is not entirely concerned with "monopoly and war-mongering." The Boston Symphony Orchestra will play. "The Four Saints in Three Acts" by Gertrude Stein and Virgil Thomson with an entire cast of American Negroes will demonstrate the progress of that race in America. Offerings from many countries will make it an exciting event. In fact, France is full of music festivals, too full, says the Government official who doles out the subsidies. The Pablo Casals (famed and venerated world's finest 'cellist) Festival at Prades in Southern France is the mecca of Americans.

The Edinborough Festival has become a great institution. Last summer the New York Philharmonic played there, and this year from August 17 to September 6 other superb organizations and artists will perform.

The United States has become unquestionably the music center of the world, a fact which naturally irks both England and France. In London this Spring a series of "internationally famous" artists' series are all either naturalized or born Americans. A subconscious resentment probably dictates a stingy criticism of our orchestras and performances. The Philharmonic might have been better. The Philadelphia Orchestra lacked suavity (its chief asset). The pundits find nothing entirely admirable in their often too-heavy writing. From the London Times: "The tenor soloist spoiled his eloquent declamation by breathy articulation—he continuously broke melismatic phrases with puffs of incipient aspirates." Poor dentures?

Why not stop with the intelligible word "eloquent?"

France thinks ill of its artists who have become American citizens and live in the United States (the violinist, Francescatti, the pianist, Casadesus, etc.). "They do not play for us any more."

To add insult to injury, our GIs at Fort Lewis in Seattle, Wash., have a bag-pipe band which wear the Kilts reserved for hundreds of years for the Royal Stewarts!

"To him that hath, it shall be given." Do we realize how rich we are in the best that the world affords musically and otherwise?

Boy Charged With Slaying School Chum

Harrisburg (AP) — Fourteen-year-old John Sarver 2nd, was charged with murder yesterday in the rifle-knife death of a 10-year-old junior high school classmate.

Alderman J. L. Madden issued a warrant charging young Sarver with "feloniously, wilfully and of his malice aforethought" killing Kenneth E. Teacher while they were rifle target shooting late Monday.

Dist. Att. Nuette F. Dowling said after questioning the Sarver boy Tuesday that he admitted to accidentally shooting the Teacher boy, but became scared and cut through the rifle wound with a machete "partly to conceal the wound and partly to hide the crime."

The murder charge was filed by County Detective Harry Farina, who later served the warrant on the Sarver boy at the Dauphin County Children's Detention home. The boy has been detained there since he was taken into custody on Tuesday.

The Teacher boy's body was found early Tuesday morning in a wooded area on the outskirts of Harrisburg. It ended a frantic six-hour search for him.

Gentlemen:

I read with interest today, your story of the SPCA in Monroe County. As a former resident of Greater New York City where the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals has various shelters and hospitals for the care of strays, unwanted or sick animals, whether dog, cat, monkey or even snake, I am quite familiar with their set-up.

Just before coming to East Stroudsburg as a resident, we had a dog over thirteen years old. I had a tumor removed from his hind leg by a "vet" at a cost of $50 for the operation and hospitalization. He never quite recovered and developed a skin ailment shortly after. When I took him to the ASPCA hospital, they advised me to have him put to sleep because of his age and other infirmities. Reluctantly, I agreed. I cannot understand any owner of a dog, or other animal, asking to have its faithful pet put to sleep, unless it has reached a point where it is incapable of living without being in pain, unable to walk, or some other real reason for this act. Perhaps by the time its owners reach old age, some law will be in effect to put them to sleep also. The fee for the job could be donated to the SPCA; a worthwhile project.

However, I am not surprised by the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Young often get such requests. I have heard dog owners speak of putting their pets to sleep as though they were bestowing a gift upon the animal for his faithfulness in living in a cold dog-house throughout the bitter, cold days and nights of Winter when we ourselves stay indoors when the temperature goes below zero. In addition, he has been thoughtful enough to bark at intruders, protecting their property. They do not even deign to notice him as they pass in and out of their warm homes. Yes, they do give him a little food in a dirty pan and some water which immediately freezes into a solid mass of ice!

Well, perhaps we are "soft" but a little mongrel attached himself to us about 1½ years ago. He's homely, has an appetite like a horse, covers us with dog hair, and has no pedigree to recommend him; only a long tongue full of love. I wouldn't think of leaving him outdoors, but he will run loose for hours if he gets a chance to, always coming back at mealtime. But that's no reason to put him to sleep. We also have a cat which will be fourteen years old very soon.

In New York City, the fee for a license was $3 for the first time; $2 thereafter. I believe it has now been raised to $3 per annum. If I am not mistaken, this fee goes to the ASPCA which keeps the records and sends out a postal prior to the due date. The previous license card (bearing the number) is returned with the annual fee, following which the new card and tag are sent to the owner. For visits to their hospitals, and care they request a donation. If a dog is picked up, it may be reclaimed by payment of the license fee. Previously, strays were put to sleep but under the new Hatch Bill, which I think is a hateful thing, they may be sent out for medical research use. In Nassau County, where we lived several years ago, the fee was $3 for males; $5 for females.

It's too late this year but couldn't they add a dollar to the license fee for the benefit of the SPCA? The poor Commonwealth wouldn't lose its $1.10 and the SPCA could do a lot with the other one dollar. Or would this added expense for the dog which helps you hunt, protects your property, or just plain loves you and your children be too much of a strain on the yearly budget?

Very truly yours,
Edwina J. Knapp

These School Districts

There are more than 100,000 local governments, of all kinds, in the United States. And most of them are school districts.

That's a brief statement of one of the tough problems of self-government—how to set up and operate your own school system, give the kids the kind of schooling they should have and still not tax the daylights out of the property owners.

Of the 119,464 state and local governments in the U.S. tabulated by the American Municipal Association, no less than 70,452 are school districts. Which indicates the tenacity with which people hold on to the idea of home rule in education.

Pennsylvania is no exception. A good share of these local governments, and school districts are here. Neither is Monroe County, which has 41 local governments, of which 20 are school districts.

The trobule with small school districts is that many of them are too small for effective administration and proper teaching. Shifts of population may either swamp the school system or leave empty seats in expensive buildings. Costs are high because what the citizens spend can't be spread very far.

There's some evidence that this is being changed. Ten years ago the U.S. had 108,579 school districts, since reduced to 70,452—a decrease of 35.1 per cent.

Here in Monroe County, a number of districts either have gone in with neighboring districts in new school "jointures", or are considering such jointures. There has been only one proposal for possible merger—that between the county's two largest school systems.

The reason for all of this, as stated some time ago by the Pennsylvania Economy League:

"There is no logic in the boundry lines of the average Pennsylvania school district. The districts have been shaped by tradition and by successive political accidents. They bear little relation to the attendance areas that form the natural basis for school administration."

Pennsylvania school districts can merge on either of two plans. They can form a joint school district, in which each district retains its own identity and the school systems are merged, or a union school district, which makes one district out of two or more.

Many mergers were brought about throughout Pennsylvania by successive years of planning. But there's still a lot to be done along this line.

The financial benefits of such mergers are great, enabling better education at less cost. The educational benefits are just as large, particularly when they enable several small communities to operate high schools larger and with better teaching facilities than any one of them could provide.

Spellbound

School officials in Los Angeles are trying to decide whether to throw away 155,000 report cards because the "u" got where the "a" should have been in the word "language" (lunguage).

Seems as though things like this are always happening to report cards. Just the other day our seven-year-old was explaining how the "d" got where the "a" should have been in "spelling."

These Days - - By George E. Sokolsky

Hollywood Meets A Crisis

For many years those who managed the motion picture industry took the position that they were not concerned with the politics of those engaged in the industry; that the only criterion of employment was talent. In 1947, this question became a national issue because of the appearance of "friendly" and "unfriendly" witnesses before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, some of the unfriendly ones going to prison for contempt. It became clear during those hearings that Communists had infiltrated the industry.

The motion picture companies met at the Waldorf-Astoria where decisions were made not to employ known Communists or those who took advantage of the Fifth Amendment to avoid admitting that they were Communists. This placed the industry in an awkward position legally.

On the other hand, voluntary groups of citizens, acting independently of each other, not only picketed theaters, but also, by word of mouth, denounced certain motion pictures and their personalities. There is no way of combatting such movements of the people, as no one can be forced to spend his money in a theater.

The top management of the industry, faced by these facts, were compelled to meet this problem by practical measures. Obviously, the presence of Communists, pro-Communists, fellow-travelers and opportunists, who had made bad records for themselves, was encountering a sales resistance.

The industry organized to combat criticism, but most efforts failed because the records of the individuals criticized could only be voided by themselves and their own subsequent conduct.

Beginning last summer, a series of meetings between some motion picture producers and a few active anti-Communists resulted in a formula which is now being tried with a surprising measure of success. This formula may be stated as follows:

1. As long as such organizations of the people as the American Legion, the Catholic War Veterns, etc., take a definite position on the employment of Communists, pro-Communists, etc. in the motion picture industry, a picture in which they appear is defective and bad business;

2. No person can clear another of the taint of being favorably disposed to our national enemy, Soviet Russia. Only the person himself, who made the record, can unmake it, by a frank statement of the facts of the relationship;

3. It is not necessary for such a person to hire anyone to clear him; all that needs to be done is for him to look at his already reported record and to write a letfer to his employer stating the facts as he knows or believes them to be;

4. Such letters are circulated, at first confidentially, and after criticism for the record, among those most active in their opposition to the employment of Communists in motion pictures.

This formula has encountered less resistance than had been anticipated. First tried out by Columbia, it is now in full force at Twentieth Century-Fox and M. G. M. Warner Brothers, R. K. O., and Republic have programs of their own which have been effective.

The simple method of self-confession is more realistic and to the point for so large a number of persons, many of whom have truthful explanations for their acts; some are obviously innocent of bad intent.

The enthusiastic and active cooperation of top management was not anticipated. Thus far, each of the companies adopting the program has used its own methods. The task is not easy because often involved are contractual relations, prospective lawsuits to which the Communists always resort, and loss of revenue on pictures already made. Nevertheless, the program of meetinlg these problems continues in a day-by-day fashion. There is no reason why any motion picture, radio or television company, any more than any other American enterprise, should employ a known Communist.

Try And Stop Me

Gene Tunney tells the story of the old heavyweight champ who dreamed up the notion of adding to his income by giving boxing lessons, but abandoned the project after one half-hour session. "It's like this," explained the champ. "A shrimp from Wall Street with a lot of money but no muscle comes to me and says he wants to learn enough boxing so he can knock the daylights out of an enemy he's got. I try not to hurt the shrimp—in fact, I don't think I ever hit him once—but an hour after the first lesson he calls me up to say, 'If it's all the same to you, I'll just send down my enemy to take the rest of the course for me'."

Harry Hershfield was visiting a blonde star backstage when a man rudely pushed the stage door attendant aside and burst into the star's dressing room. "You want my autograph, I presume," she said haughtily. "No, ma'am," the man assured her. "Your auto. I'm from the finance company."

Washington Report

—by Fulton Lewis, Jr.

Washington—Assuming that a Republican is elected President next November, General Omar Bradley is slated to be fired as the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and to be replaced by General Alfred M. Gruenther.

Gruenther now is Chief of Staff to General Dwight Eisenhower and will retain that post for at least six months after General Matthew B. Ridgway succeeds "Ike" next month. But that's about as long as it will last.

Eisenhower already has promised Gruenther that as far as he's concerned, Gruenther will be the next chairman of the Joint Chiefs. Several important members of the United States Senate have told him the same thing.

Again assuming that the Republican nominee wins the election (and I'm assuming for the sake of argument, not prediction) Gruenther can hardly miss getting the job.

If Eisenhower gets the GOP nomination and wins in November, it will be a mere matter of picking up the telephone and ordering Gruenther to Washington. If Senator Robert A. Taft wins it, Gruenther still has the inside track.

Taft already has said that among his first official acts, if he is elected, will be to fire Bradley. Few voices were raised in protest in the Senate as a result of that statement. Bradley has not endeared himself to the Senators as a whole. His devotion is almost wholly to President Truman.

During the hearings on Gen. MacArthur's ousting as Supreme Commander in the Far East, Bradley was less than frank with the Senators. He refused to discuss a number of issues, stating that he would not violate any Presidential confidences.

Under ordiary circumstances no one in the Senate expects military leaders to publicly relate conversations with the President, but in the case of MacArthur's firing the Senate was seeking information relating to the political pressures that led to the White House decision. It has long been understood in Washington that left-wingers worked for years to get MacArthur out of Japan. The Communists have picked Japan as their next target for control of Asia.

Bradley also played it coy over Korea. He defied Congress when efforts were made to determine just who had ordered U. S. troops into Korea and why those forces were shackled with restrictive limitations on military targets. Bradley played this one politically, too, in a misguided effort to protect the White House. Thus, few will decry his fate if he is a victim of politics when Mr. Truman vacates the White House.

Gruenther was the choice of most members of the Senate for the job Mr. Truman gave to Ridgway. He was also Eisenhower's choice, but none of his supporters tried to exert much pressure on the White House, because they had to admit that Ridgway is a pretty good man, too. Furthermore, they concluded that eight months is not too long to wait for a reward in lieu of Eisenhower's job.

Gruenther would bring to the Joint Chiefs of Staff what it sorely needs—a devotion to military strategy instead of politics. He is a student of strategy, having devoted virtually all of his army life to military planning. He has been close to Eisenhower for a number of years, although his reputation was made long before Eisenhower rose to prominence. He undoubtedly would give the Joint Chiefs the spark of life it has lost under the politically-minded Bradley.

Ridgway is a protege of former Secretary of Defense George C. Marshall. Marshall managed Ridgway's initial assignment to Korea with the expectation that eventually he would replace MacArthur. Although Marshall has been out of the country recently, apparently vacationing in Mexico, he keeps in touch with Mr. Truman via long distance telephone.

Gruenther's appointment as the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff possibly could be blocked by Air Force or Navy insistence that one of its ranking officers get the job. There is a theory that the chairmanship should be rotated among the Services, but Air Force and Navy brass isn't likely to argue too robustly over the wishes of a new President in this direction.

My New York

—By Mel Heimer

New York—I do not know how things are going in your home town, so far as the mailing or receiving of letters is concerned, but I would like to point out somewhat sadly that there is a new kind of parlor joke being enjoyed in Manhattan these evenings. It consists of everybody putting on their hats and coats and taking a bus or cab up to the main post office, at 33rd street and Eighth avenue, and then looking up at the facade of that block-long building and, like little Audrey, laughing and laughing and laughing. This is what they see:

"Not snow nor rain nor heat nor gloom of night stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

This is, technically, the motto of the United States Postal Service, an organization of some years' standing which is said to specialize in the receipt and delivery of post cards, letters, packages and messages to Santa Claus. It may need some small translation, but if you break it down to modern English usage, what it means is: Jack—nothing, but nothing, keeps our pavement pounders from bringing you the postal loot each a. m. on the button.

There is only one thing wrong with the motto, actually — and that is that it is just ever so teentsy-weentsy out of date. There was a time, especially in this progressive, all-new, streamlined metropolis, when a postman would virtually cut off his flat feet if it meant getting a letter, even just a bill (particularly a bill, I used to think), to you on time.

Some sly propagandist, a long time ago, impressed it on the post office people that it was the thing to do to get the mail to the citizenry on schedule. You would be surprised how many mailmen, in the old days, had their hair lifted by stray Indians or their ribs puctured by arrows because the silly souls operating the Pony Express kept drumming it into their heads that the mail had to go through.

I can report truthfully that in the last couple of years here in New York, the mail people have seen the error of their foolish ways and have taken off their shoes and relaxed.

This realistic attitude seems to stem directly from the time when it was ordered that only one mail delivery a day be made instead of two; now, reliable word has it, the boys have been sitting around behind the windows lately and pondering—why deliver at all? They argue, what is the sense? So you get a letter. So tomorrow the atom bomb destroys us all. Live in blissful ignorance until the end comes. Mail—who wants mail?

It has taken me a little while to adjust to this new way of life, because I come from something of a postal family. My father was a postal official and both of my brothers were special - delivery messengers at night during their high school days. As I recall there were only two things sacred to the Heimer family in those formative years of mine — the New York Giants and the United States Mail. Either was beyond reproach and to be defended to the death.

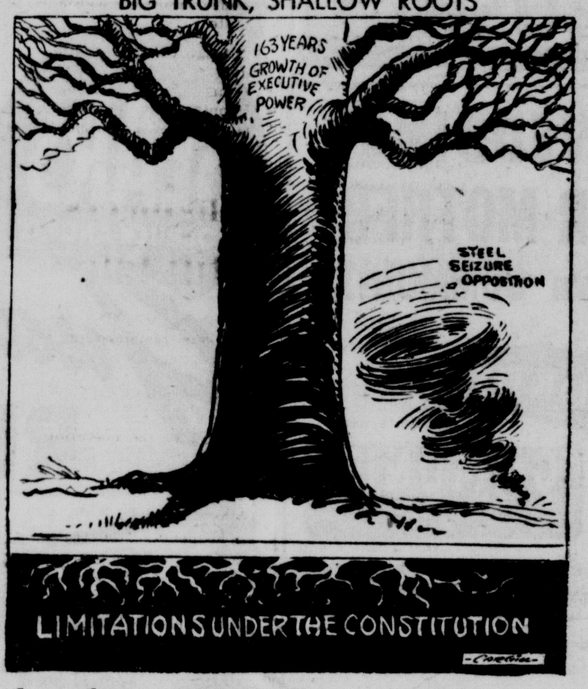

I have been coming around to the scheme of things, however; indeed, now when I want to get rid of an unpleasant character on the telephone, I just ask him politely to send me a note about what he has in mind. I know the note never will reach me, or will turn up in, say, three months, when the convertible he wants to sell me has become kind of impractical because the snow already is flying.

Now, this all may sound as if I am making things up, but I even have chapter and verse at hand.

The other day, a press agent named Carl Cooper, who lives in Brooklyn like all press agents, mailed a letter to his bank. He dropped the letter into a mailbox at Broadway and 49th street, Manhattan. It was headed for a bank just seven blocks away.

The letter turned up at the bank just five days later. It was addressed correctly, franked so no stamp was needed and otherwise completely kosher. It traveled the seven blocks at the rate of a block and a half each day, which, I guess, is about par for the course these months.

BIG TRUNK, SHALLOW ROOTS

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

Katie White's husband down in Savannah, Ga., certainly got the surprise of his life when he came home for supper.

When he arrived at the house she told him that, while waiting for him she had fallen in love with another man and had filed annulment papers.

Oh, I forgot to tell you that Katie's husband had left his home forty-seven years earlier.

You can't really blame any woman for not waiting that long in the kitchen.

This marriage business is certainly something that is difficult to understand.

For two people who get along as well as can be expected — which, I presume, is about the average—it is a rather simple affair.

They get married, each does his ordinary share of love, companionship and routine, and they never go in much for analyzing what it's all about.

But to others, marriage seems to be an awesome problem.

However, I have found that most of those to whom marriage IS a problem are really "problem children" themselves.

They dramatize themselves and everything that concerns them.

They seem to have an enormously exaggerated idea of their own importance in the general scheme of things.

Just the other day a woman complained to me that her husband didn't tell her often enough that he loves her.

"A woman wants to be TOLD that her husband still thinks as much of her as he did when he married her," she said.

A few days later I had lunch with another woman — strictly business, of course.

She said she was terribly bored with life.

"My husband tells me all the time how MUCH he loves me," she complained. "It's getting very monotonous. And it's awfully hard to live up to so much love."

So, what is a fellow going to do?

Love his wife and not tell her he does, or not love her BUT tell her he does?

Now I'm getting all mixed up.

A Cleveland woman applied for a divorce because her husband had not lived up to a set of "articles of good conduct" they drew up after their first marital spat in 1949.

She referred particularly to Article 2, which specified, "His shortcomings of former days are forbidden and he must be debonair and gallant." (He is a fireman.)

But there were other articles, among them:

"No. 1: Husband shall be kind to his wife and must understand her virtues, weaknesses and vagaries.

"No. 3: He shall be generous to her faults and lapses.

"No. 4: He shall not provoke any arguments.

"No. 7: In discord, the custody of the children shall be the mother's.

"No. 11: He shall refrain from interfering with wife's private enterprises.

"No. 12: Any violation shall be considered as his admission of marital infractions."

If the fellow signed THAT agreement, I'd hate to have him for a fireman if a fire started in MY house.

Hollywood

Hollywood—Glimpses of Glammerville—

Requests for that nude calendar photo of Marilyn Monroe are "well into the thousands" since a magazine ran it, Western Lithograph reports. Business houses, individuals, fratenities at "practically every college in the country," GIs, and military spokesmen are inquiring. The company, which is bracing for the reacting from the lads in Korea, plans to re-issue the same photo on a '53 calendar . . .

Speaking of cheesecake, ever wonder what holds up strapless gowns worn on the screen by the likes of Miss Monroe, Jane Russell, Ava Gardner, Marie Wilson, Janet Leigh, and Susan Hayward? Michael Woulfe, who has costumed all of 'em at RKO, spills the secret: thin, narrow strips of whalebone running up the sides. And sometimes one in center front.

In commercial gowns, the whaleboning runs up across the breasts, which would create undesirable ridges and shadows on the screen.

Woulfe also told how he got the idea for the currently discussed gold gown worn by Miss Russell in "Macao." "I was thinking at the Academy Award ceremonies last year," he said, "'Woudn't it be wonderful if the Oscars were shaped like Jane Russell!"

The dress cost $700, weighs more than 20 pounds, and is made of gold-plated mesh such as ladies' handbags are made of. An astonished Massachusetts manufacturer filled Woulfe's order for the stuff in yard width.

Studio seamstresses put the gown together with tinsnips and hammers. Little prongs which link the individual squares together scratched Miss Russell's hide, so the creation had to be lined with chiffon . . .

"Carbine Williams" purports to be a biography of a real-life chap who made wonderful gun inventions while confined to prison. As played by Jimmy Stewart, he's agreeable enough. But the script is overloaded with the usual Hollywood corn—the tiresome heartaches of people straight from story conferences rather than from life.

Jean Hagen plays his wife, Wendell Corey the warden. One shot of Miss Hagen reading a letter to Stewart's big family is so self-consciously posed as to seem suitable for framing . . .

The Once Over

—by H. I. Phillips

Mother Of The Year

A Chinese laundrywoman, Mrs. Toy Len Goon, of Portland, Maine, has been chosen America's Mother of the Year and will be so proclaimed at a Waldorf-Astoria dinner Friday night. Widowed, she raised eight children, each making good in the finest American tradition, while running the Portland laundry. Any mother who does her own washing and raises eight kids has her work cut out and one who does the washing for an entire neighborhood and raises 'em shapes up as extraordinary under any system of handicapping in the Motherhood Derby.

There was a time when all mothers were in the laundry business. They automatically entered it immediately after the wedding march. They were knee-deep in washing and ironing most of their lives. And, in addition, they were in the bakery, cleaning, house renovating, and dressmaking businesses. This is no longer true, due partly to household labor-saving devices. Mrs. Toy Len Goon, however, has been in there with the soapsuds and the flatirons all the time.

The neighborhood Chinese laundry used to be just about the last place to look for a mother of the year. In fact, you could make a tour of them without finding a woman around. Mrs. Goon, however, meets all the specifications and it is about time, we think, that in naming a Mother of the Year, the washing and ironing were taken into consideration.

It is, of course, impossible to say that Mrs. Goon or any other mother is the best in the land of some pretty fine mothers. There are others with big families who have been widowed and made a gallant fight of it. By any cross-section test, the lady looks a winner. She is certainly the only one who not only did all the washing but did it under conditions that opened her work to community review and criticism. (It must be pretty tough to try to look after eight small fry while listening to one man who says he got back only five socks in his wash, to another who complains that there was too much starch in the cuffs and to a third who demands his laundry back without the check.)

There was no time on Mrs. Toy Len Goon's agenda for cocktail lounges, daily attendance at jackpot programs, all the movies, the smarter nightclubs and audience participation entertainments. We doubt if she even took time out to clip a box top and write an essay in twenty-five words telling why no family could know health and happiness without a specific cereal. (Or win a month's vacation in Miami by composing a jingle on a soap that "makes all your laundry problems disappear.")

How about picking a father of the Year from among the fathers on the committee that shoulders the task of picking the Mothers of the Year?

Brien McMahon has agreed to be a candidate for the Presidency as Connecticut's favorite (nuclear energy) son. But he knows he hasn't a chance, because of Connecticut's small electoral vote . . . He is merely consenting to be dropped over Las Vegas before a selected audience to determine the extent of the vibrations . . . Red Skelton is getting just about the best sketches being written for video . . . The recent one showing the reactions of a husband at a quiz program as the wife fumbles the questions was a honey . . . Mike Todd's plans for Jones Beach this summer are superdooper and may make him a the Showman of the Decade . . . Television's complete contempt for its own code against crime incentives was exposed by "Life" through a table showing 29 crime shows per week, most of which blueprint criminal routines . . . At Lake Success in humble quarters U.N. was extra receptive to the press and let the reporters in on everything . . . In the new skyscraper home it is barring newspapermen from important meetings, giving them the real chill . . . Can it be that the organization dedicated to candor, truth and simple understandings lets a little luxury go to its head? .

West End Township Schools Consider Five-District Jointure

Call Meeting May 14 To Discuss Plan

Brodheadsville—Directors of five West End school districts will meet here May 14 with officials of the Department of Public Instruction and the office of County Superintendents of Schools to discuss and explore possibilities of a five-district jointure.

The meeting is one of the most significant of the recent jointure studies which have been made.

Geographically, the five districts represent all of what is known as the "West End" section of Monroe County.

Two of the districts — Chestnuthill and Polk—have consolidated school systems through secondary grades.

The others are Hamilton, Ross, Eldred.

Ross is already set up for a jointure with Chestnuthill, effective with the next fiscal year.

Hamilton and Eldred have well advanced plans for possible building operations.

County Superintendent of Schools John C. Litts and Walter Sebring, assistant superintendent, have set up plans for the meeting with cooperation of directors and officers of the five districts.

Orren Wagner, Department of Elementary Education, and J. K. Bowman, adviser in the Department of Consolidation and Transportation, both of Department of Public Instruction, will develop all the pertinent aspects of jointure of districts and also, for those interested, explain possibilities of union of districts.

Hamilton, in its exploratory work on development of its school system, has already met with Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap and Stroud Township for jointure discussions.

The meeting of the five West End boards will be confined strictly to the board members and administrators.

COMPLETION OF THE SALE of a Brodhead Ave., East Stroudsburg house to the Congregation of Sons of Israel, was announced yesterday. Details were wound up at the offices of Maxwell H. Cohen, Stroudsburg. Temple Israel Buys House For Rectory

A two-story frame house at 279 Brodhead Ave., East Stroudsburg, will be the new rectory for Temple Israel in East Stroudsburg.

Deed for the house and land was recorded yesterday at the courthouse.

The purchase, by the Congregation of Sons of Israel, East Stroudsburg, climaxed more than two years of hunting for a suitable dwelling to serve as a rectory.

The temple, erected on Brown St. about 1924, has never had a rectory, and housing for rabbis and their families has always been a problem.

Months ago Henry Reader, Temple Israel Brotherhood president, appointed Ben Wilkins as chairman of a house committee. The committee finally decided on the Brodhead Ave. property.

Sons of Israel officials and LaVerne Staples, former owner, completed the transaction Saturday. Possession of the premises was taken immediately.

At present, the interior and exterior of the five-room house are being improved and renovated. Rabbi Maurice Idell will move into the rectory June 1.

Other deeds recorded at the courthouse yesterday were:

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen J. Kosko to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kreck, all of Barrett Township, a lot in the township on the lot plan of Oaklyn Park.

Carrie S. Neuman, East Stroudsburg, to Miriam N. Dresdner, Trenton, N. J., an East Stroudsburg property on the north side of Analomink St., adjoining land of Ola G. Swain.

Laurel Time Festivities Take Shape

Plans for the annual Pocono Mountain Laurel Blossom Time festival have been completed by the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau.

Resorts, inns, restaurants, business firms and industry in the region will combine their efforts to make Laurel Blossom Time, June 5-25 a festive occasion.

The festival is to be a 20-day long Mountain Mardi Gras. In addition to elaborate affairs at the various resorts, the climax event will be staged with a grand ball Wednesday night, June 25 at Shawnee Inn, Shawnee-on-Delaware.

Each resort in the region will also select its own Laurel princess who will become a lady-in-waiting to the Laurel Queen.

The Laurel Queen will be selected from among the nation's most impressive list of stage and screen stars and will be crowned at colorful coronation ceremonies the night of the grand ball.

The Laurel Festival was first started in the Poconos and part of the project involved having the Laurel Blossom legislated as the State Flower.

Judge Chester H. Rhodes, president of the Pennsylvania Superior Court, then a member of the Pennsylvania Legislature, sponsored the measure which made the Laurel Blossom the State Flower.

Engineers Still Idle

Tobyhanna—The majority of workers remained off the job at the Signal Corps construction project here yesterday as a strike of AFL Operating Engineers continued.

Most of the operating engineers are employed by Rochez Brothers, contractors on the first phase of the project now in the clean-up stage.

Members of the Teamsters union were also off the job because there is no work for them to do when engineers are not working.

Consolidated Construction Co., contractors on the second phase of the project, had a few men working, a depot spokesman said, mostly laborers. Consolidated is also involved in the strike of operating engineers.

No meetings took place yesterday between company and union representatives, and none were expected in the immediate future, it was reported.

The operating engineers are seeking a 40-cent hourly raise. The strike involves all of Eastern Pennsylvania. It was reported last night that the Anthracite Bridge Co., Scranton, has been struck by operating engineers employed by the steel construction firm.

Depot Puts Water System Into Service; Will Provide Over 65,000 Gallons Daily

Tobyhanna—Despite the strike at the Signal Corps construction project here, one step toward completion of the project has been made, it was reported yesterday.

The Consolidated Construction Co., contractors on the second phase of the project, connected two water lines which had operated independently until Wednesday.

The single water system now in use can furnish the estimated requirements of 65,000 gallons daily. This, actually, is less than half of the pumping capacity of either of the two pumping stations in the system.

Officials at the project said they are confident the new system will meet all the water requirements necessary until construction is completed.

A major part of the system is an electric pumping station which can supply all the water to contractors through the two-inch pipes of the consolidated system.

It is located in the hospital area on the project. The hospital was built at the depot during World War Two at a cost of a million dollars, was abandoned after seven months' use.

In the event of power failure, a diesel-electric pumping station can supply needed water on an emergency basis.

The Lodge dining room will be extended from 70 to 100 settings.

Forest Fires Believed Set By Incendiary

Incendiarism had fire wardens on the run early yesterday in the Snow Hill section west of Route 290.

The fires were spotted by a ranger's daughter, Martha Ann Brush, as she returned after a movie shortly after midnight. On reaching her house at Snow Hill she told Ranger Ellis Brush what she had seen.

When alerted rangers and wardens arrived in the area, they found that five or six separate fires "had been set", said the office of District Forester E. C. Pyle.

The burn-off was finally beaten by 10 a. m. yesterday. The property over which the blazes traveled is owned by the Mount Allen Hunting Club, according to the forester's office.

Another small blaze was reported at 10:30 a. m. on State lands near Mud Pond Run, north of Effort Mountain. It was extinguished in less than a half hour.

The forester's office said all the fires burning in the county Wednesday were out yesterday.

SPCA Receives Memorial Gift

The Monroe County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals received a memorial gift of $25 this week from a woman who had "just finished reading that article in The Daily Record".

The woman, whose 18-year-old pet dog had recently died, had intended to give "a gift" to the society, anyway. Reading the article, however, she said, made her decide to do it immediately without putting it off any longer. The article dealt with the work of the SPCA in Monroe County.

Mrs. Ellen Albenzi, in accepting the gift on behalf of the society, expressed her gratitude for the memorial donation and a hope that the money might be used to help animals in need of care in the county.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Seems as if this has been the most musical spring, I ever do remember with Music Week spreading out in both directions.

Think a lot of local people will be delighted to hear that Ellie Roberts is coming here for the closing Music Club recital next Tuesday. She certainly left a big hole in club affairs when she and Steve moved away.

Anyway, it's been an exciting time for music lovers and it's no wonder a lot of people are walking along as if to remembered tunes. Of course, all the Smithfield parents were walking around on air anyway after that concert the kids gave last night.

However, with all the extra activities of music week and Mothers Day to fit into an already overflowing schedule, I do think they might have postponed National Health Week until afterwards when mothers, particularly, could use the services to better advantage.

Add to that the super-charged atmosphere of a home where teen-agers are planning to venture forth into the junior high and high school proms and you have somewhat of a bedlam. However, I guess maybe we'll make it to the haven of the weekend without walking off in all directions. That is if nobody says "Boo."

VFW Meeting

An important business meeting of the VFW Auxiliary will be held at the post home on Monday night at 8. An attendance award will be given.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

"Why don't you write a column about Mother?" one of my coworkers asked yesterday. "You could pull out all the stops and make it a real tear jerker. Then you'd have something."

Well . . . maybe. But, to put it frankly, I'm not much on eulogies. I think there's nothing more wonderful in all the world than mother love, and no prettier sight anywhere than a young mother with her heart in her eyes and her child in her arms. There's nothing braver, in my opinion, than a woman taking a stand against the world to provide her children with those things, material and spiritual, which she feels they need . . . or fighting for their physical well-being and security. I feel that Job was never more patient than is the woman surrounded by active, noisy, adventurous youngsters, who can keep peace within herself and her home, and hold onto her wits. I envy that woman whole-heartedly, recognizing in her a strength that too often deserts too many of us. And being a mother myself, I'm correct, I know, in saying that the most miraculous feeling a woman can ever have, comes when she cuddles a warm, precious bundle in her arms, realizing for the first time the meaning of motherhood in terms of love, responsibility, and God-granted favor.

But to write a column about it . . . that's something else again. And as for coaxing tears with the story of the mother whose sons and daughters are grown and forgetful; the mother who smiles valiantly, pretending to understand how they can be too busy to drop a card or send a gift . . . Well, I'd just rather not. I prefer to forget that such things ever happen because there's actually no reason why they ever should.

Here at Wyckoff's, I see men and women stopping daily in our stationery department to choose from our extensive Hallmark, Norcross and Rustcraft displays, the perfect card for the Mom, Mother, or Mommy who is dear to their heart. I see shoppers selecting gifts from every department and asking for Mother's Day gift wrappings. And I observe our helpful Wyckoff ad writers suggesting everything from French perfume to bedspreads, to delight women of all tastes. To write an article about mothers is a project for which I'm ill suited. Mother, after all, is not what you read in a column, but what you remember deep in your heart.

Congressional Attempts To Impeach Truman Recall Senate Trial Of President Johnson

By Franklin Johnson
Central Press Correspondent

Washington — It is a long hop, skip and jump from the filing in the House of Representatives of a resolution to impeach the President, such as that introduced by Rep. Robert Hale (R), Maine, and now before the House Judiciary Committee, and actual trial before the Senate.

However, pendency of this action against Harry S. Truman, together with the fact that the only impeachment in history of an occupant of the White House occurred at virtually the same relative point in the term of Andrew Johnson and other striking parallels with the present situation, highlights the provisions in the United States Constituiton for this most dramatic of all types of public trial.

Johnson, tried for "high crimes and misdemeanors," eked out an acquittal on May 26, 1868, with his term, like Truman's, in its last year. It climaxed a long deterioration in relations between the White House and Congress, not unlike the current situation.

Hardly a President has escaped entirely some muttered threats of impeachment, even George Washington's most radical foes urging the step because they accused him of "royalists tendencies", but few actual resolutions have been introduced and only nine trials have been held. President Johnson has been the only President who had to defend himself against ouster.

Congress' power to impeach comes from the Constitution giving the House "the sole power of impeachment," and the Senate "the sole power to try all impeachments". Beyond that, the Constitution is silent.

* * *

When removal from office was considered in the Constitutional Convention, James Madison and others argued against it "because the President would be at the mercy of Congress." However, Madison also doubted that any President "would be so daring" as to veto an Act of Congress.

The English Parliament, at that time, frequently impeached high officials, with the Commons preferring charges and the House of Lords sitting as the highest court. This pattern was adopted for the United States.

Ironically, England ceased using impeachments shortly afterward, and none have been held in Parliament since 1805, the requiring of regular reports by Cabinet officers being viewed as a substitute.

Foes of giving Congress impeachment powers salvaged several limitations, one of them being that while the House may impeach on a bare majority, the Senate can convict only by at least a two-thirds vote.

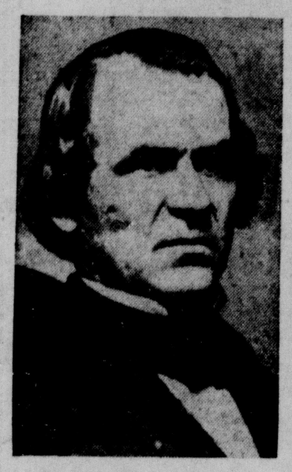

That provision saved President Johnson after his 57-day ordeal, because the 35-19 count against him fell one short, the final senator on the roll call explaining that he would have voted "guilty" if his ballot would not have been the direct cause of "disgrace" to fall upon the nation.

When the Senate tries the President, the chief justice of the Supreme Court must preside, because the Founding Fathers feared the bias of a vice president, who usually presides over the Senate, in a proceeding which could precipitate him into the White House.

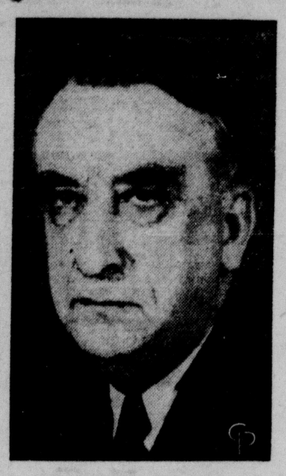

Chief Justice Salmon P. Chase earned general praise for his conduct of the Johnson trial, which presented another unusual situation in that Johnson had succeeded to the presidency upon Lincoln's assassination, and there was no vice president in line.

Rep. Robert Hale and President Truman
His resolution asks impeachment of him.

President Andrew Johnson
He won by one vote.

Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson
He would preside at trial.

* * *

The possibility that "Bluff Ben" Wade, the radical president of the Senate, would move into the White House is said to have deterred some of the 19 from casting "guilty" votes.

Lacking any specific rules for such a trial, the Senate drafted a set which probably would guide any impeachment today. The case of chief performers now would include Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson as presiding officer, with Vice President Alben Barkley standing by to become President in case of a conviction.

Senators with trial experience as lawyers would act as prosecutors, or "managers" as they were called in the Johnson impeachment, and President Truman undoubtedly would appoint as his own counsel modern counterparts of Evarts and Groesbeck, Johnson's famous and triumphant attorneys.

* * *

The proceeding would be much like an ordinary trial, packed with the greatest tension and excitement imaginable. The Senate, in addition, would face the decision whether to allow it to be televised.

Johnson was indicted on 11 counts, but the real issue was his firing of Secretary of War Edward M. Stanton in defiance of the Tenure of Office Act, later repealed after Ulysses S. Grant became President. Today the issue would undoubtedly turn upon validity of the steel plant seizure invoked by Truman.

The Constitution provides another limitation: If the Senate convicts, it cannot do more than remove the President from office and destroy his eligibility for any other public post. A regular court of law must mete out any additional punishment in an ordinary trial.

Dr. Charles J. Naegle

Three Veteran Members Of College Staff To Retire

merce and in an executive capacity with the American Red Cross.

The retirements of both Drs. Naegle and Breitwieser are effective with the close of the present college year.

Succeeding Dean Naegle as dean of instruction, Dr. Theodore Moore brings to his new position a background of 21 years experience in public schools, private schools and colleges.

He holds a B.A. degree from Princeton; a Masters from Harvard; Doctor of Philosophy from Cornell and has done graduate work at both the University of Pennsylvania and the University of Chicago.

He has previously served 14 years as headmaster of Germantown Academy and as head of the English Department, William and Mary College for a period of three years. He has been a member of the English Department faculty at the local college during the past year, during which time he also acted as faculty advisor for the Student Christian Association.

Dr. Nathan Meyer, newly-appointed to succeed Dr. Breitweiser, has had 28 years teaching experience in public schools and colleges, having served with the high school at Baltimore, Md. and as high school principal at Glenville, Pa.

Dr. Meyer served as assistant superintendent of schools for Monroe County for 14 years. He has also occupied a position as critic teacher at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College and a member of the campus laboratory school staff. For the past four years he has been head of the Department of Education at the college.

Succeeding Dr. Meyer as head of the Department of Education will be Dr. Francis B. McGarry, a member of that department for the past 14 years. He is a graduate of ESSTC, holding a B. S. Education from the local college. He received his Masters' degree in education from Columbia and a Doctor of Education degree from N. Y. U.

Named by the board of trustees to take over Mr. Helmes' position as business manager of the institution is Melvin Schissler, who served for 22 years as assistant business manager at Lehigh University.

Schissler's appointment was approved by Gov. John S. Fine earlier this month, following its approval by the board of trustees.

Mr. Helmes was first associated with the college in August, 1920, as business manager. He came to the position with a long and varied career in private enterprise behind him.

He had previously been employed by the Ingersoll Rand Co. and the Stewart Contracting Co. In 1920 he represented banks in Stroudsburg and Scranton at the Pocono Pines Assembly.

Schissler is scheduled to assume his duties as Mr. Helmes' successor June 1.

In announcing the potential retirement of Drs. Naegle and Breitwieser and Mr. Helmes, Dr. Noonan expressed his gratitude and the gratitude of the trustees for their long and faithful service to the institution.

Formal announcement of the retirements and appointments was made last night on the campus at a meeting of the faculty, with Dr. Noonan in charge.

Stroudsburg Little League Asks For Help On New Field

John R. Wilson, secretary of the Stroudsburg Little League, issued a call for help last night and directed it to the fathers of all boys in the Little League and to any other men in the community who are interested in this type of baseball.

Wilson would like aid from all those available on Saturday, at which time plenty of work is scheduled to take place at the newly constructed Little League park at Stroudsburg Playground.

Although the work on the new park's fence has been completed, there is a hundred and one things still to be done if the field is to be ready for the first game of the season, scheduled to take place on Monday, June 2.

There are still some trees to be uprooted, basketball backboards from the playground court must be taken down, the infield must be marked off and skinned, in an effort to have the best playing surface possible.

The league would like to have all these chores completed on Saturday.

Russ Bergman and George Metropoulos will be in charge of the group, which should be ready for action by 9 a. m., if possible.

Wilson also announced last night that the Stroudsburg Little League would again feature an opening day parade.

The line of march will begin at the Penn-Stroud Hotel and end at the newly constructed park.

Indians Score Third Victory Of Series Over Yankees 12-5

New York, (AP)—Ray Boone, elevated to the cleanup role, came through in spectacular style yesterday, clubbing a home run and single to drive in five runs and lead the rampaging Cleveland Indians to a 12-5 victory and a sweep of the three-game series with the New York Yankees.

Bob Feller, with the aid of Bob Lemon, gained credit for the triumph.

Same Story

Just as they manhandled Vic Raschi Wednesday, the Indians racked up Ed Lopat in five innings, pummeling their long-time nemesis for seven of their 14 hits before sending him to the showers with his second loss of the season. It was only the ninth time the Indians have beaten the veteran southpaw who holds 33 decisions over them.

In addition to Boone's four-bagger, Lopat also yielded a circuit blast to Harry Simpson and three base hits to Al Rosen and Bob Kennedy. Boone was moved into the cleanup spot when the Indians' giant first baseman, Luke Easter, came up with a pulled muscle in his right thigh and was forced to the sidelines.

Steve Gromek blanked the Yanks in the first game of the series and Mike Garcia won on Wednesday.

Gromek, considered a second stringer on the Indian mound staff, pitched a neat 1-0 four-hitter in beating the Yanks and Allie Reynolds Tuesday night for the third time.

The last time Gromek started against the Yanks in Yankee Stadium—May 19, 1949—he trimmed the Bombers, 3-2. The time before that—in Cleveland in 1948—he downed the Yanks, 2-1.

Gromek's shutout was the first time a Cleveland pitcher has blanked the Yanks since Bob Feller's no-hitter in April, 1946.

Steve not only handcuffed the Yanks with four singles but had the crowd of 35,914 limp at the finish when he retired the last three batters with the potential tying run on base.

"Credit the sinker I developed during spring training," Gromek said afterwards. "I had them off stride. My new sinker was working fine in the beginning and when they began to look for it. I switched to my fast ball, which was 'alive.' It was breaking up and away."

Bolt Sets Record In Mexico Play

Mexico City (AP) — Tommy Bolt, Oklahoma-born pro playing out of Durham, N. C., yesterday set a course record for the new Mexico Golf Club with a spectacular eight-under-par 32-32—64, and staked himself to a four-stroke lead over runner-up Lloyd Mangrum of Chicago, in the first round of the Pan-American $15,000 Invitation Golf Tournament.

Far Behind

The rest of the field, including U. S. Open champion Jack Burke Jr., of Houston, trailed far behind Bolt and Mangrum over the 7,347-yard course.

Four pros were tied for third at 71—Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif.; Robert de Vicenzo, champion of Argentina; Douglas Higgins, Ft. Worth, Texas; and Iverson Martin, Ft. Worth.

First Place At Stake On TTHS Field

First place will be at stake today, when the Monroe County League sends all six of its entries into battle on its regular weekly outing. It will be the third round of games this season and will send a pair of undefeated clubs, namely Chestnuthill and Tobyhanna Township, into battle in the game of the day.

Chestnuthill enters today's contest at Pocono Pines with successive victories over Polk and Barrett, while TTHS, today's host club, has won over Coolbaugh and Pocono thus far this season. Neith team has tasted defeat as yet.

Today's action is scheduled to get underway at 2 p. m.

Chestnuthill is currently seeking its third straight league title and fourth in the past five years.

The other 2 p. m. contest on today's agenda will feature Pocono High against Coolbaugh, on the latter's home field in Tobyhanna. Both teams have identical records of one victory and a single loss.

Results

Pocono fell before TTHS, then came back to blank Polk last week. Coolbaugh opened the campaign with a convincing nod over Barrett, but lost to TTHS last week.

Barrett and Polk are scheduled to cross bats in Kresgeville today, at 3 p. m., in the circuit's third contests of the day. Once again both teams take identical records of no wins and two setbacks into the contest.

Polk has suffered setbacks at the hands of Chestnuthill and Pocono, while Barrett has fallen before Coolbaugh and Chestnuthill in successive outings.

The Monroe County League also has two games on the agenda for next Friday, both to be played at 2 p. m.

The Monroe County League is only playing five games for the second straight year, as the circuit fights the rising cost of operation.

Maxwell Set For Links Show

Dallas—It has been two decades since an amateur won the National Open golf championship but Texans wouldn't be surprised if one did it here June 12-14.

The big links show will be held at Northwood Club in Dallas on that date.

Billy Maxwell, the Texas collegian who won the national amateur last year, has been playing Northwood course at every opportunity and should know every inch of the layout by the time of the Open.

He won't admit anything better than a par 70.

Straight

Charles Tims, assistant pro at Northwood, accompanied Maxwell on a recent round of the 6,811-yard course. "He hit everyone of his tee shots squarely down the middle," Tims reports. "And don't forget accuracy is going to be at a premium on the narrowed fairways of the Open."

As for Maxwell's approaches to the greens, 16 of them "landed right on the money," says Tims. "The other two were on the frog-hair."

Oliver Leads In Greenbrier Golf Tourney

By George Bowen

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. (AP)—Ed. "Porky" Oliver of Lemont, Ill., got away to a fast start in the Greenbrier Golf Open yesterday by shooting to within one stroke of the course record of 60.

Oliver's 61 put him three strokes up over Sam Snead, the host pro who set the old White record for 18 holes two years ago. Par for the 6,368 yard course is 70.

Best Round

Oliver's round, however, was the best ever scored in the five-year-old Greenbrier. Snead's record was set playing in a non-tourney foursome. Both Oliver and Snead laid the foundation for challenging the Greenbrier's 72-hole record of 259 set by Ben Hogan two years ago.

Just a stroke behind Snead in the field of 37 scrambling for $10,000 came young Harry Dee of New York.

Tied for fourth at 67 were Doug Ford of Harrison, N. Y., and Dave Douglas of Newark, Del. Another stroke behind were Jimmy Clark of Laguna Beach, Calif., and Don Finsterwald of Athens, O.

Also beating par, by one stroke, were Marty Furgol of Atlanta, Ga., Skee Riegel of Tulsa, Okla., and Max Faulkner, the British Open champion.

Another nine equalled par. Thus 19, or more than half the field, did par or better.

Bout On, Off —Now Doubtful

New York (AP) — Ray Robinson's manager changed his mind again yesterday and said the middleweight king would go through with a May 26 non-title bout with Billy Brown of Hartford, Conn., at the Eastern Parkway Arena.

Switch

But shortly after the switch was announced, Brown sent word from Jacksonville, Fla., that he had sprained his back and couldn't fight.

Bob Christenberry, chairman of the state athletic commission, said the matter would be settled at the commission's meeting today.

Gowdy Still Loves Game

Columbus, O. — The mere fact that Harry (Hank) Gowdy isn't drawing a salary from baseball doesn't mean he has severed his affiliation with the game.

Gowdy, catching star of the Boston Braves miracle team of 1914, recently was released by the Cleveland Indians after serving for four years as a troubleshooter in the Tribe's farm system.

Late

He received his "walking papers" so late that he was unable to make another connection. Under the circumstances, you'd think he would be bitter about it. On the contrary, Gowdy has nothing but praise for Ellis Ryan, Hank Greenberg and the rest of the Cleveland brass.

Besides, Hank is too busy doing what he can for the game he loves. Recently, he was a faculty member at the baseball clinic cosponsored by Ohio State University and the Ohio High School Athletic Association. He's also speaking at banquets and doing what he can to help youngsters who aspire to professional baseball careers.

The tall likeable Gowdy, now 62, looks back on his own long and honorable diamond career, which began in 1908. Take Hank's word for it—he'll return to baseball next year in some capacity or other.

Dean Of Irish Coaches

Notre Dame, Ind. (AP)—Rev. George L. Holderith, C.S.C., is in his 20th year as the Notre Dame golf coach. Father Holderith is the dean of all Notre Dame mentors, holding a one year edge over baseball coach Jake Kline. Under Holderith the Irish linksmen have won 124 matches, lost 40 and tied eight.

New Pro Named

Dunedin, Fla., (AP)—Leo O'Grady, former golf pro at Buffalo's Transit Valley Country Club, is the new pro-manager of the PGA National Golf Club here. A pro since 1936, O'Grady is 38.

Mae Foley's Beauty Shop will be closed May 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th.—Adv.

Former Long Island University Basketball Player Faces Possible Stiff Jail Sentence

New York (AP)—Jack Goldsmith, former Long Island University basketball player, pleaded guilty yesterday to two counts of bribery in the college basketball "fix" scandal.

General Sessions Judge Saul S. Streit ordered him held without bail pending sentencing on May 28 after Assistant District Attorney Vincent A. G. O'Connor declared:

"He has never shown the slightest desire to cooperate and has taken a hardened criminal attitude."

Instructor

Goldsmith, a Brooklyn resident who gave his occupation as a camp instructor, had been free under $50,000 bail. He faces a maximum possible penalty of 10 years in prison and $20,000 in fines.

Goldsmith pleaded guilty in the bribing of Harvey Connie Schaff, a New York University player, to control his team's score in a game with Cornell University on January 1, 1950, at Madison Square Garden.

Cornell, the underdog, won, 69 to 56.

He also pleaded guilty to bribing four LIU players to lose a game to Duquesne University in the 1950-51 season. Duquesne, also an underdog, won 64 to 55.

Softball Circuit Ready To Open Flag Dash On Monday

Officers were elected and eight teams entered in the Monroe County Softball League last night, during a meeting of the circuit at the Monroe County YMCA. The meeting was the final one to be held before the opening of the regular season on Monday.

Dr. Gail Fegley was elected as president of the league, while Bill Weber was named to serve as secretary-treasurer of the same circuit.

Two more clubs entered the fold last night to bring the league up to its expected strength of eight teams. However, Tucker's Chevrolet was listed as only a probable starter, although it expects to be ready for opening day. The certain entry last night was the Ronson contingent.

Other clubs in the circuit this year are Worthington Mower, Kulp's Foundry, Union Printers, Tru-Matic Tool, Eagles and IAM.

All eight organizations were represented at the meeting.

It was also announced that an all-star series will be held at the end of the first half of the season, at which time the cream of the crop from the first, third, fifth and seventh place clubs meets the best talent from the second, fourth, sixth and eighth place teams, in a three-game series.

The regular post-season championship series between the first and second-half champions will also be held.

All games will be played at Stroudsburg Playground and the East Stroudsburg Junior High school field. Action will begin promptly at 6:15 p.m. Each game will be seven innings in length.

The annual Gold Medal Softball Tournament is also expected to be held at the end of the coming campaign.

Umpires will receive pay for working league games and have been given the power to suspend players.

It was also decided to purchase softballs in advance at last night's meeting.

Marshall Drives Home Four Runs As Braves Down Cubs

Chicago, (AP)—Outfielder Willard Marshall tripled with the bases loaded and singled across a fourth run to lead the Boston Braves to a 6-4 win over the Chicago Cubs yesterday before a chilled crowd of only 2,046.

Chicago's defeat enabled the idle Cincinnati Reds to climb into a third-place tie with the Cubs.

Starter Jim Wilson was credited with his second win against one defeat although he walked seven and had to be rescued by Sheldon Jones and Lew Burdette.

Relief

Burdette supplanted Jones in the ninth inning with the bases loaded and two out, and ended the game by getting pinchhitter Bruce Edwards to roll out to third.

"Turk" Lown, who had hurled eight hitless innings before bowing to Brooklyn 3-1 last Friday, was the loser. Lown retreated after a four-run Boston fourth which featured Marshall's triple and hitting the second batter to face him in the fifth.

Although beaten, those Chicago Cube are right in there pitching.

And pitching is the word for it, with 10 complete games in 19 starts fashioned by a mound staff that seems to have surprised everybody except Bruin pilot Phil Cavarretta.

Within five days, Cub hurlers turned in two three-hitters and a four-hitter. Unfortunately, only one of those sparkling hill efforts—Johnny Klippstein's three-hit effort yesterday—paid off with a victory. Klippstein shut out the Braves, 2-0.

Last Friday, Turk Lown pitched no-hit ball against the Brooklyn Dodgers for eight innings, but yielded three blows in the ninth for a 3-1 loss. Then Monday lefty Paul Minner spaced four hits against the New York Giants only to lose 3-2.

Such pitching has been the rule rather than the exception for the Cubs, 1951 tail-enders who aren't supposed to finish far from the National League basement, if not in it, this year. They have been in the first division most of the time since the season opened.

Bangor To Clash With Fountain Hill

Bangor—Bangor High school's baseball team is scheduled to tangle with Fountain Hill High here at Memorial Park in a Lehigh-Northampton League contest at 4 p.m. today.

The Slaters will be searching for their first circuit victory of the season, as they go through their paces before the tome town fans.

Bangor lost to Nazareth, Wilson Borough and Parkland in league games and fought Coplay to an 8-8 deadlock. The charges of Coach Dave Thomas also dropped preseason verdicts to Nazareth and Belvidere.

Talent

Thomas will probably stick with the same lineup that has carried the bulk of the load thus far this season.

Sherman Schoonover is a possible starting hurler.

Bangor is listed for track action on Saturday, when the Slaters take part in the Lehigh-Northampton League annual track meet, at Allentown High school's field. Parkland, Wilson Borough and Nazareth are also entered in the meet.

The Slaters have dropped regular season meets to Wilson Borough and Nazareth to date.

Unanimous Decision

Fall River, Mass., (AP)—Jose Contreras, 158, Fall River, won a unanimous 10-round decision last night over Bill Andy, 154, Providence, R. I., in their featured bout at the Casino.

Newfoundland Opens Home Season Sunday

Newfoundland—Sharing the lead in the Pocono Mountain Baseball Association with three other clubs, Newfoundland-Sterling opens its home season here Sunday with South Canaan furnishing the opposition. Game time is 2:30 p. m.

Co-managers Henry "Hank" Botjer and Lyle "Mike" Stevens will probably send Dick Dunning to the hill against the Canaanites. Dunning will be seeking his second victory of the season, having stopped Gouldsboro in the loop opener last week. Hubert "Buck" Hutchins will do the catching.

The locals pitching problems will be eased somewhat in the near future with the return of "Sad Sam" Curtis, the left-handed Penn-State sophomore, who fashioned a no-hitter in the PMA last season.

Other games in the league pit Maple Lake against Mount Cobb, Gouldsboro against Tobyhanna and Daleville against St. Catherines, Moscow.

BONUS—Smiling Ray Young, 19, a recent graduate of Lindblom High school in Chicago, has been signed by the Detroit Tigers for a reported bonus of $35,000. A shortstop and right-handed batter, Young hit .453 for his school nine

Open Date For Greene-Dreher

Newfoundland—Greene-Dreher-Sterling High School enjoys a day off from the 1952 baseball wars today, as the club draws an open date on the schedule. Instead of baseball, an annual May Day celebration will highlight the school activities for the day.

Setbacks

Greene-Dreher-Sterling has lost all three of its games thus far this season, bowing to Lake Township, Hawley and Barrett in that order.

Fetherman To Hurl For Mountaineers

Stroudsburg High will be out to even its Lehigh Valley League record at three victories and the same number of defeats today, when the Mountaineers play host to a strong Slatington High contingent, at Gordon Giffels field. Action is scheduled to get underway at 4 p.m.

The Mountaineers unlimbered the lumber on Tuesday and smothered Whitehall, 11-2, but at the same time Slatington was showing its power against a highly regarded Palmerton crew, as today's visitor ran wild for an 18-1 decision over the Blue Bombers, who won over Stroudsburg recently, 2-1.

Stroudsburg, for the first time this season, hit with expected force against Whitehall, banging out 13 safeties, including three triples. The charges of Coach Jerry Stulgaitis are hopeful that they can continue the same pace against Slatington today, before an expetced large turnout of fans.

The Mountaineers have defeated Northampton and Whitehall thus far this season, while the Stulgaitismen have dropped close decisions to Emmaus, Catasauqua and Palmerton.

Pitcher

Stulgaitis announced last night that Alden "Red" Fetherman would do the pitching for the Mountaineers in today's important contest. The hard-working right hander has won one and lost three games to date, all involving hair-line decisions.

The Stroudsburg infield will feature Floyd Williams at first base; Paul "Doc" Lim, second base; Karl Weingartner, shortstop; Jack Newell, third base, and Layton DeHaven will handle the catching duties.

Gene Caskie, injured fly chaser, may be ready to return to his center field position today, with Al Adelmann in left and Benny Miller in right field.

Bill Metzgar will be available for relief duties if needed on the mound.

Today's outing will be Fetherman's fourth start of the campaign, in addition to one outstanding relief appearance.

Service Cage Stars

Morgantown, W. Va., (AP)—Eddie Beach, Leland Byrd and Clyde Green of West Virginia U.'s great 1946-47-48 basketball teams were outstanding players on various Army service teams last season. Beach was the leading scorer of the European Theater of Operations. He led the Stuttgart, Germany team to the ETO crown.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Stroudsburg High school's baseball team gave its best hitting demonstration of the season on Tuesday of this week, when the charges of Coach Jerry Stulgaitis hammered out an 11-2 decision over Whitehall, on the latter's home field. The most gratifying thing to followers of the Mountaineers was the number of extra base knocks included in the total of 13 base hits. Triples were apparently the order of the day. Stroudsburg has been facing some tough pitching this season, almost as good as the Mountaineers have been receiving, but against Whitehall nothing could halt the Stroudsburg offensive.

While speaking of Stroudsburg this appears to be the proper spot in which to announce that the rumor making the rounds at the present time, dealing with the report that Stroudsburg High will drop baseball next season, is entirely false, so this column has been informed. The reports, so I have been informed, began when new steel bleachers were ordered for Gordon Giffels field. The rumors were undoubtedly spread by someone who thought the new seats couldn't be moved, once they were set up for baseball. However, I have been informed that the new bleachers are so constructed that they may be easily shifted.

East Stroudsburg High, now back on an even footing with the other leaders of the Lehigh-Northampton League, is scheduled to tangle with Coplay today, in a contest that shouldn't prove too tough for the Cavaliers. However, as has been the case so many times throughout the history of the game of baseball, there are many occasions when the underdog rises up and smacks down the favorite.

Baseball players at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, who also take part in Blue Mountain League contests, were warned this week by school authorities to stop the latter practice immediately, and until the college diamond campaign is completed. While on the subject of the Blue Mountain League it might be good to remind one and all that Pocono A.C. is featuring free admission to its Gordon Giffels field contest with Portland on Sunday. However, the club will pass the hat in an effort to obtain some badly needed cash during the contest.

Mike Koons, colorful manager of two North Atlantic League teams, during the fading years of that circuit, is also a bowler of note. Mike, who lists Hazleton as his home town, recently rolled a 713 match in the American Bowling Congress tournament in Milwaukee, but fell off late in the action to finish with a 1,864 count for nine games. The former Mahanoy City and Berwick pilot wound up the affair with a 586 in doubles and a 565 in singles.

Ray Steele and Alden "Red" Fetherman appear almost certain to enter Moravian in September, with the latter facing the possibility of playing all three sports. Art Jollowsky, ardent follower of Stroudsburg High athletic teams in recent years is also virtually certain of attending Moravian. All three were at the college of their choice on Saturday and each in turn was well pleased with conditions. Dick Umberger, southpaw pitcher with Lebanon, of the North Atlantic League, in 1949, pitched Allentown to a 3-1 victory over the York Roses on Wednesday, in an Inter-State League contest.

Pen Argyl High's bench was plenty tough on Steele in Tuesday's game at the East Stroudsburg Playground, but not half as tough as the lanky right hander was on Pen Argyl hitters, as he retired 16 of the visiting batsmen on strikes. In all probability Fred "Benny" Leonard's presence on the Pen Argyl bench on Tuesday was the latter's last trip to East Stroudsburg as a Pen Argyl coach. Leonard, who recently resigned, is scheduled to take up a coaching position at Phillipsburg, N. J., High next season.

There are 316 Little Leagues in Pennsylvania this year as compared to only 176 last season. The total of 316 includes three in Monroe County and one in Bangor. The Monroe County circuits are Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg and the Pocono Mountains Little League. Alex McNeilance, who opened his professional baseball career as a pitcher with Nazareth, North Atlantic League, in 1947, is now doing his hurling for Little Rock, Ark., of the Southern Association. McNeilance recently balked at being sent down to Williamsport, of the Eastern League, and was allowed to remain at Little Rock. McNeilance has spent time with Williamsport in the past.

Louis Heyman, catcher with the Carbondale Pioneer Blues in 1947, has been converted into a first baseman at Schenectady, N. Y., of the Eastern League. The move was made by the parent Philadelphia Phillies, because the former North Atlantic League star is suffering with an arm ailment.

East Stroudsburg High Tangles With Coplay Today

Cavaliers Search For Third Win

East Stroudsburg High school will attempt to keep pace with Pen Argyl and Parkland in the Lehigh-Northampton League baseball race today, when the charges of Coach Jack Kist tangle with Coplay High, on the latter's home field. The only meeting of the two rivals this season is scheduled to get underway at 4 p.m.

Kist announced last night that he would send his reliable right hander, Ray Steele, to the hill once again, as the Cavaliers attempt to land their third victory of the present compaign, to go with a single setback.

The loss was inflicted by Nazareth, while the East Stroudsburg victories were registered against Hellertown and Pen Argyl.

Kist also made it known that the remainder of his lineup would be exactly the same as the one that squared off against Pen Argyl at the East Stroudsburg Playground on Tuesday.

Lineups

Leon Alberts will catch for Steele in today's battle.

Today's game is the only league contest to be played by Coplay this week.

East Stroudsburg faces a rugged schedule next week, when the Cavaliers take on Bangor and Parkland on Monday and Tuesday. Both games will be held at the East Stroudsburg Playground.

Joe Antonotci is scheduled to do the pitching against Bangor on Monday, with Steele to hurl against the strong Parkland nine the following day.

The Cavaliers also play Fountain Hill on Friday of next week.

Giants Blank Cardinals, 3-0

St. Louis (AP)— Dave Koslo pitched a nifty four-hitter here yesterday afternoon as he hurled the New York Giants to a 3-0 shutout over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Thus Koslo maintained his ninth straight conquest of the Redbirds in a three-season span which started in July, 1950. The last time the Cards beat him was on June 11 of that season.

Good Pitching

The New York southpaw allowed only one hit until the seventh inning and wound up with the four, two of them doubles by Stan Musial.

A single by Dave Williams and a double by Whitey Lockman in the third inning scored the Giants first run. In the fourth, the Giants got their two remaining runs on a double by Don Mueller, a walk by Alvin Dark, Willie May's single and an error by left fielder Larry Miggins who let Mays' hit go through his legs.

Rivera Homers In Ninth To Give Browns Edge Over A's

Philadelphia, (AP)—Jim Rivera, who had been benched for weak hitting, entered the game in the sixth inning yesterday in time to make a sensational catch and hit a ninth inning game winning homer as the St. Louis Browns beat the Philadelphia Athletics 9 to 8 in a slugfest at Shibe Park.

Old Satchel Paige, the fourth St. Louis pitcher, recorded his first victory of the season for the Browns who rallied from a 5 to 0 deficit to win.

"Sad Sam" Zoldak, left hander making his first start of the season, was staked to his early lead with the help of Gus Zernial's first home run of the season. Last year's American League home run king hit for the circuit with one on in the first. But Zoldak couldn't stand prosperity and left in the fifth for Dick Fowler who retired in the sixth for losing pitcher Carl Scheib.

Richards Fined For Pushing Ump

Boston (AP) — Chicago White Sox manager Paul Richards said yesterday he had been fined $100 for pushing Umpire Charley Berry in Sunday's doubleheader against the New York Yankees.

Blasts

Richards' pitcher, Saul Rogovin, drew a fine of $50 for verbal blasts at the umpire.

Before yesterday's White Sox-Red Sox game, the Red Sox announced that pitcher Harry Taylor's contract had been assigned outright to Louisville.

Pirates Send Beard To Coast

Pittsburgh (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates released outfielder Teddy Beard outright today to the Hollywood Stars of the Pacific Coast League yesterday.

Fourth Try

Beard, up for his fourth try with the Pirates, batted only .182 in 15 games this season. His release brings the Bucs roster to 28, three above the May 15 limit.

Pale Hose Take Measure Of Bosox, 4-2

Boston (AP) — The Chicago White Sox salvaged the final game of their three game series yesterday by defeating the Boston Red Sox 4-2 as Saul Rogovin threw a five hitter and Ed Stewart produced a two-run homer, his third of the year, in the seventh inning.

Scoring

The Pale Hose, trailing 0-1, scored twice in the fourth as Ed Robinson hit the first of his two singles with one out. Sam Mele tripled to right to score Robinson and Mele counted on Phil Masi's single to center.

Starter and loser Ray Scarborough then settled down until two were out in the Chicago seventh when Ted Lepcio bobbled Nelson Fox's hard ground ball and missed the runner at first with a wide peg. Stewart belted a homer into the rightfield stands for the final markers.

Giants Obtain Wilson From Sox

St. Louis (AP)—The New York Giants finally bought outfielder George Wilson from the Chicago White Sox yesterday for "over the $10,000 waiver price."

Deal Folds

The deal originally was to send catcher Sal Yvors to Chicago for Wilson but that stalled when the Giants were unable to get waivers on the catcher.

Strict Curbs Expected

Richmond, Va. (AP) — The Southern Conference is expected to slap strict curbs on lengths of athletic seasons when representatives of the 17 schools open their spring meeting today. A spokesman said limitations probably would also be placed on the number of contests a member may play during a season.

New York, (AP)—Slambang Sammy Giuliani, an aggressive but crude young middleweight from Stamford, Conn., trades punches tonight with oft-beaten Johnny Williams, Montgomery, Ala., in a ten rounder at St. Nicholas Arena.

Giuliani is a nine to five favorite over the 25-year-old trial horse.

The 10 p. m. (EDT) radio-television bout winds up the boxing season at St. Nicks. Next Friday the pugilists will move to Madison Square Garden as the circus departs.

Study Reveals Important Grid Video Facts

By Hugh Fullerton Jr.

New York (AP)—Television hurts collegiate football attendence — badly.

This conclusion, along with several others, was reached through a year-long study made, at a cost of $50,000, by the National Opinion Research Center of the University of Chicago for the National Collegiate A. A.

The NORC report, embodied in a 30-page booklet replete with graphs and statistical tables, was released yesterday after the NCAA Television Committee ended a two-day meeting to plan for a 1952 program of controlled television.

Other conclusions reached were:

"Attendance is particularly off in those 'heavily saturated' TV areas where 40 per cent or more families are set-owners.

Success

"The NCAA's 1951 experimental plan of limiting telecasting of college games succeeded in reducing television's harmful effects on attendance. In 1950 . . . the difference between the relative attendance trends of colleges exposed to television competition and those not exposed was significantly greater than it was in 1951."

Challenging previous studies, which seemed to indicate that television had only a temporary effect on attendance and might in the long run prove beneficial, the NORC study indicates a steady decline in attendance coinciding with the growth of television.

Robert A. Hall, Yale athletic director and chairman of the NCAA television committee, characterized the report as a "complete refutation" of reports made to the NCAA by Jerry Jordan, who made the previous studies, and of the stands taken by Pennsylvania, Notre Dame and other colleges favoring unrestricted television of football.

This and other factors brought to light were carefully considered by the NCAA committee in drawing up a plan for further controlled television in 1952. The detailed program will be released after it has been approved by the NCAA membership. The committee previously had indicated that it expects to provide more televised games next fall than there were in 1951 and to include more small colleges in the program.

Johnson Denied Boxing License

Philadelphia (AP) — Honeychile Johnson, Philadelphia welterweight boxer yesterday was denied a boxing license in Pennsylvania.

Statement

John "Ox" Da Grosa, Pennsylvania state athletic commissioner, said Johnson's application for a license was denied after the commission learned the boxer declined to keep a verbal agreement to fight in Harrisburg last night.

Senators, Tigers Battle To Deadlock In Eleven Innings

Washington, (AP)—Washington and Detroit played a 4-4 tie yesterday in a game called at the end of the 11th to permit the Tigers to catch a train. The game will be resumed at a later date from the point of suspension.

The Tigers grabbed a 4-2 lead in the eighth inning against Sandy Consuegra, but the Senators picked up a run in the eighth and tied the score in the ninth against Billy Hoeft and Hal White.

Leads Attack

Pat Mullin led the Tigers' 11-hit attack with two doubles and a single.

The Tigers staked Marlin Stuart to a lead in the third when they clipped Don Johnson for two runs, but the Senators got a run in the fifth on singles by Eddie Yost, Jim Busby and Archie Wilson.

Policy Group Backs Splain For New Term

Harrisburg, (AP)—Maurice Splain Jr., Democratic state chairman, has been endorsed for another term as the head of the Democratic State Committee.

The Oil City man was given the support of the Democratic Policy Committee, comprising top Democratic leaders, at a meeting here Wednesday.

The policy group met to complete final arrangements for the reorganization meeting of the newly elected State Committee here on May 20.

State Committee officers endorsed for reelection in addition to Splain were Mrs. Ruth Grigg Horting, Lancaster, vice chairman; J. Warren Mickle, Harrisburg, treasurer; Mayor David L. Lawrence, Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller, Slippery Rock, members of the Democratic National Committee.

The Policy Committee announced Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., (D-NY) will be the featured speaker at the annual Jefferson Day dinner to be held here the night of the State Committee session.

Splain said the 80-member Pennsylvania delegation to the Democratic National Convention will caucus at Chicago on Sunday, July 20. Thus far the delegation, with 70 votes, is unpledged.

William Fox, Film Pioneer, Dies At 73

New York (AP) — William Fox, 73, one-time multi-millionaire giant of the movie industry, died yesterday after a career as fabulous as any of his pictures.

He had a personal fortune of 35 million dollars before the depression but went bankrupt in 1936.

Despite this comedown, he was reported "well off" at his death. He had been living quietly for some years on Long Island after serving a prison term for trying to influence a bankruptcy verdict.

Fox started his career with one shabby theater, a Brooklyn nickelodeon. Later he operated more than 250 theaters worth 100 million dollars.

Among his great movies were "What Price Glory" and "Seventh Heaven."

His stars included Theda Bara, the original screen "vamp," and Annette Kellerman, who made the one-piece bathing suit famous.

Two twists of fate put Fox on the pathway to fame and fortune.

The first occurred when he was a $17-a-week pants presser on the lower East Side of New York. His boss refused him a $3 raise and Fox quit.

The second came when he was talked into investing his savings of $1,600 in the Brooklyn nickelodeon. The owner let patrons in free to convince Fox that business was good. Fox thought the crowds were paying their way in.

President's Description Of World Situation As 'Grave' Taken To Mean Just That—Roberts

By J. M. Roberts Jr.
Associated Press News Analyst

President Truman has a long record of optimistic off-the-cuff statements about international affairs. When he, in turn, says they are grave, he can expect to be taken at his word.

Once we were "nearer peace" than two years ago. Sometimes he has been "always optimistic." These expressions have always been made against the background of determination to do the hard things—rearm, fight in Korea, contain Soviet aggression.

It is only natural that optimism should be the President's mein when he is discussing the success of this program, and that he should adopt gravity when Congress or the Allies are interfering with it.

At the moment, Congress is in the process of denying some of the funds he thinks he needs, and labor-managment disputes threaten the vital defense resources. The context of his remarks, his statements that these things play into the hands of Stalin, show clearly that these are the things uppermost in his mind now.

It is also true that the Allies are now entering what they have long expected to be the critical period of the rearmament program.

The next 18 to 24 months will see the end of the time when Russia might hope to conduct a successful war under present conditions. The odds all seem to be that if Russia does not strike within this period, she will have to take years organizing her Eastern European and Asiatic satellites for a vastly greater effort than would be required now.

That would mean, very probably, that the time for a change of regime in Russia due to the deaths of Stalin and other top leaders of the moment would be bridged by a time of enforced military idleness and a time of opportunity for change in Russian objectives. The purchase of time for these changes, coupled with the hope that improved Russian economic conditions would reduce the pressure for continued expansion at the expense of others, has been a fundamental concept of the containment program.

Everything now depends, therefore, on whether Russia's leaders will submit to this process, or whether they will take the last long chance while it still exists.

The pressure on Russia for what she would term a "preventive" war is going to be very great as she sees the power of West Germany being added to the growing Allied strength.

Not only is it a time of gravity. The very air is likely to scream with tension before the die is finally cast.

Two Escape County Jail At Beaver

Beaver (AP)—Two prisoners sawed and slugged their way out of the Beaver County jail yesterday.

Warden Cecil Baldwin identified them as Marion Michelotti, 28, of Pittsburgh, and Fred J. Henry of Rochester, Pa.

Baldwin said the men slugged Turnkey Wilson A. Rhodes after squirming through a 12-by-8 inch opening in a cellblock.

Rhodes quoted Henry as saying: "I'll kill somebody but I'll get out of here."

Baying bloodhounds lost the trail of the pair along the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad tracks four miles from the prison.

Michellotti was awaiting trial on charges of robbing the Rochester Elks Club. Henry was slated to be transferred to Western Penitentiary to serve a 7-14 year term for breaking and entering.

It Will Be in Demand When It's 10 Years Old!

Take a new Cadillac home with you—use it with common prudence and give it reasonable service and care—

—and ten years from today, there should be many, many people anxious to drive it and call it their own!

The soundness of this prediction is attested on used car lots throughout America. Every day, eager buyers are coming into possession of Cadillacs built before the war—and are doing so with pride and anticipation.

There are many and vital reasons for this enduring value of a Cadillac car.

First, of course, is quality. Through the years, Cadillac cars have been built to the highest standard it is practical to enforce in the production of a motor car.

The watchword, the goal and the inspiration of those who design and build for Cadillac are one and the same—how good and how enduring can this car be made?

Year in and year out, the search for improvement goes relentlessly ahead.

Small wonder that the car keeps its youth and its performance—far, far beyond the normal span.

And then there is its sound and enduring beauty. Cadillac styling is a development—with continuous improvement and refinement. Older Cadillacs, of course, are not to be mistaken for the current ones; but, regardless of age, they are still Cadillacs—and are distinguished and dignified in their own individual rights.

And then, of course, there is the wonderful Cadillac name—which never loses its significance, no matter how old the car which bears it. Year for year and age for age, a Cadillac is always aside and apart from other cars.

It is not unusual at all for a Cadillac to pass through four or five or even six different families—each one owning it with pride and driving it with pleasure.

Think of this when you buy your next car. If you get a Cadillac—there can be no doubt that others will be eager to own it when it has served you the normal span.

Why not come in—and see and drive this wonderful car? We'd be happy to welcome you any time.

Resorts Expect Busy Season; PSES Announces Job Openings

By James B. Gaffney

There's an overwhelming demand for resort employes. This statement from Jack Muschock, manager of the East Stroudsburg office of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service is not too surprising, in view of the accompaning yawns from every corner, a real indication that vacation approaches.

James B. Gaffney

With banks mailing vacation club checks to prospective sojourners and relaxationists, the influx is near and the Poconos stand paramount on the list of calendar -watching people.

Muschock said the concentration is on chambermaids, handymen, clerk-typists, stenographers, waiters and waitresses and cooks and chefs. About the latter professions Muschock says "This may sound like double talk, but actually a chef is one qualified to prepare and purchase food, while the cook is one who prepares the food only."

Two new business houses will make their debut in Stroudsburg in the near future.

Jack Muehlhan, operator of a shoe repair shop on S. Sixth St., just off Main eyed construction workers avidly this week as they continued work on the new brick structure.

One store room will be 18 by 30 feet and the other just three feet wider. The addition also will give Community Jewelers an extra 18-foot extension to their store.

Muehlhan said an apartment over the stores will be occupied by his family. He resided there prior to razing the property in March and expects to move in by the end of next month. Identity of the new businesses was not revealed by the owner. He said the names of leasees would be told later.

Flagstaff Foods recently began a new advertising campaign in The Daily Record. Every week Flagstaff will be sending home its advertising messages to the readers of this newspaper. Eleven different Flagstaff items will be featured in this hard hitting, consistent advertising campaign which has the slogan "Taste and Compare" as its theme throughout.

A Wind Gap resident and veteran of the U. S. Army, Ellis Griffith has been elected manager of the Monroe County Milk Producers Cooperative Association.

Griffith succeeds F. Layton Gearhart who resigned two weeks ago. The new manager worked for the coop from 1941 to 1945 when he entered the Army. After 21 months service, a year of which was spent in the Pacific Theatre, he was honorably discharged and entered the employ of the Citizens Bank of Wind Gap. After two years at that post he opened his own bookkeeping and accounting offices and accepted the managership with the coop after a year and a half in business for himself.

Walter Anglemeyer, president of the board of directors was in charge of the meeting when Griffith was named to the office. The new coop manager resides with his family in Wind Gap.

Dr. David G. Peifly who opened his dental office Monday at 723 Main St., Stroudsburg is no stranger to this section.

A native of Bangor, where his father, Dr. O. H. Peifly maintains his dental office, he has long been active in veterans affairs.

Honorably discharged from the U. S. Army Dental Corps last Thursday, he immediately came here and reopened the office of the late Dr. Monroe B. LaBarre.

While in service Dr. Peifly served in the Pacific Theatre and in many camps in the states. With a total of nine years service he returned to civilian life after attaining the rank of Major, ORC.

He was dental surgeon for the 25th division during World War Two in the Philippines and served with the occupation forces in Japan and several years ago was at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C.

His last post was at the U. S. Army Hospital, Camp Gordon, Ga.

He will make his residence here with his wife and children, a daughter, Sandy, 13 and son, David, 10.

Mother's Day To Be Observed

Delaware Water Gap—Mrs. N. B. Hostetter will speak on "Mothers of the Bible" here Sunday when a special Mother's Day service is held at the Methodist Church at 11:15 a.m.

Miss Barbara Christian will sing "Whispering Hope" and flower arrangements for the service will be by Mrs. John Staples and girls from the Sunday School.

Also scheduled to take part in the program are Mrs. Willard Kitchen, Mrs. Delbert Davis, Mrs. Harold Akers, Mrs. Harold Leightner, Mrs. Willard Jennings and Mrs. Layton Zimmerman.

Plant Expansion Hinges On Availability Of Steel

The eighteenth of a series of articles dealing with industrial operations in Monroe County is presented today by The Daily Record. Aim of the series is to acquaint all citizens with what is produced here; how it is made, the type of people and skills engaged in such production and the economic impact of each industry on this region.

By James Gaffney

A futile attempt to secure more steel is the only reason an East Stroudsburg firm has not expanded its productivity and branched out to employ more people.

Penn Craft Manufacturing Co. at 79 Ridgeway St. currently produces a manifold of heavy-duty metalic work but because of a low priority rating they have not faired too well where the allocation of this now precious metal is concerned.

A partnership, the concern is operated by Fred Potcher Jr. and Frank Talasz and while both men are the only means of production at present, their products have been shipped to all parts of the east. And by giving an assist to another area industry, their component parts are spread throughout the nation.

Started as a hobby by Potcher, the younger partner in the firm, the firm was founded only three years ago and is anxious to expand.

Potcher made iron railings for individuals and the installation was completed by Talasz, who at that time was considered a builder. The men decided to pool their efforts and the company was born. Today by combining their abilities they turn out custom-made ornamental iron work, railings, fences, do welding and brazing and make practically anything the individual or contractor needs for the home.

As Talasz explained "We make anything from a new part to an arch support to heavy-duty fences."

Both men, who are veterans of World War Two, applaud strongly the cooperation they received and are getting now from other industrial plants in the area.

Many of the resort hotels in the Poconos have come to the partners to build railings for sun decks, sign brackets and the host of decorative iron trimmings that are necessary and, at the same time, add color to the environs surrounding their properties.

Practically all work is custom-made, but the men will design ornaments if the customer so desires.

One of their largest completed products of the local plant were sold to a department store for use as rug racks. Slate quoit board, lawn furniture, lamps, modernistic tables and many personalized sign racks for homes and stores are made by Penn Craft.

In installing guard railings another appealing factor to their work is that molten lead is poured into the four inch holes drilled in the cement. It is packed first with steel shims and later calked against interference by the weather.

Penn Craft works cooperatively with another area firm, Rim Rock Co., owned by Val Robbins at McMichaels. Robbins operates a wood working firm and one of his best items, a fruit bowl used as a centerpiece, contains the metal spiral metallic work that is completed in East Stroudsburg.

Among the many pieces of equipment that dot the workshop of Penn Craft are lathes, punch and drill presses, saws, grinders and welding equipment.

After searching for over a year for some method of preserving their finished metal products, the partners finally came across a system called bonderizing. It etches steel and applies a coating for greater paint adhesion. The partners claim once this process is applied to their metal the customer never has to worry about the weather rusting the article.

Emphasizing that quality rather than quantity is their main selling point, Potcher and Talasz said they spent a great deal of time testing various paints and found the more expensive ones proved to be the cheaper ones for them, since they never are called to a customer's home to repaint their ornaments.

Because of an NPA regulation that has halted the allocation of bronze, this is one metal the firm is not able to get in any degree. They also work with brass and aluminum but both metals are in critical categories and practically impossible to buy.

But once the steel market opens wide and the controls are lifted, Potcher and Talasz are destined to expand. They already have been contacted to make the move but knowing that materials for their type of business are not to be had, have held off and hope that soon they may grow. When that happens it is a certainty there will be employment for many men, especially those with skilled trades, will be needed to assist in the operation.

High School to COLLEGE?

(Editors Note: This is the first in a series of articles on career opportunities for high school and college students in important vocational fields. They are based on a prospectus prepared by Fenn College, Cleveland, and were prepared in cooperation with business, industry and the professions.)

College freshman takes manual dexterity test.

PSYCHOLOGY

Man studied mathematics and astronomy in 4,000 B. C. He investigated logic, art, architecture, and government before the birth of Christ. But it was not until the work of Henry James in the early 1900's that men began a systematic inquiry into psychology — his most vital science.

What is Psychology

Psychology is the study of human behavior and consciousness Feelings, emotions, attitudes, the nervous system, and the human brain are its area of inquiry; psychological tests, therapy, and counseling are its weapons in the constant struggle for adjustment and happiness.

So You Want to be a Psychologist!

Guidance of human beings is important, exacting work and can be trusted only to highly skilled, trained personnel. Students planning to enter this field will need a liberal arts degree with a psychology major and will probably want to do graduate work to qualify for the more desirable jobs. Some branches of this widely varied field are:

Psychometrist: Qualified by specialized training to administer, grade, and interpret psychological tests. Can work for industry, schools, colleges, guidance centers.

Industrial Psychologist: Works for industry or consulting firm. Job is selection, placement, and promotion of employes, improving working conditions, industrial counseling. This is one of the newest fields of psychology and is rapidly expanding.

School Psychology: More and more psychologists are being employed by public schools. Problem is student adjustment, causality of psychological difficulties, and vocational and educational guidance.

Teaching of Psychology: Teaching in college or university. Usually engaged in research and counseling. Graduate degrees are a must!

Consulting Psychologist: Counseling and rehabilitation in private practice. Requirements are a doctor's degree and some fruitful years of experience.

The Psychologist's Reward

The field of psychology is vital, fascinating, expanding, and constantly changing. Psychologists gain high professional standing in the community, plus the extreme satisfaction of helping human beings in trouble.

College Training in Psychology

Subjects required by most colleges are: general psychology, personality and adjustment, abnormal psychology, experimental psychology, industrial psychology, plus a wide variety of electives in history, sociology, philosophy, biology, English, and fine arts.

Graduate study would include a deeper examination of experimental and clinical techniques, advanced work in the student's field of specialization, and in some cases, complete psychological analysis and therapy by distinguished psychologists and psychiatrists.
